Living With The Fear Of Death

Two Suffer The Threat Of Rabies

By PAT ANGLE

Mario and Eva Ghilotti are trying to learn to live in the shadow of death.

"I haven't had a good, solid hour of sleep in two weeks," said Mrs. Ghilotti, a slim, vivacious woman whose tired eyes and drawn face tell of the ordeal she is going through.

"When I first get up in the morning, I immediately start making plans for the ranch. About two minutes later I wonder why I'm planning anything at all since I probably won't be around much longer."

Hanging over the heads of the Nicasio couple is the specter of rabies, a dread disease which means death once the symptoms appear, indicating the virus has reached the brain.

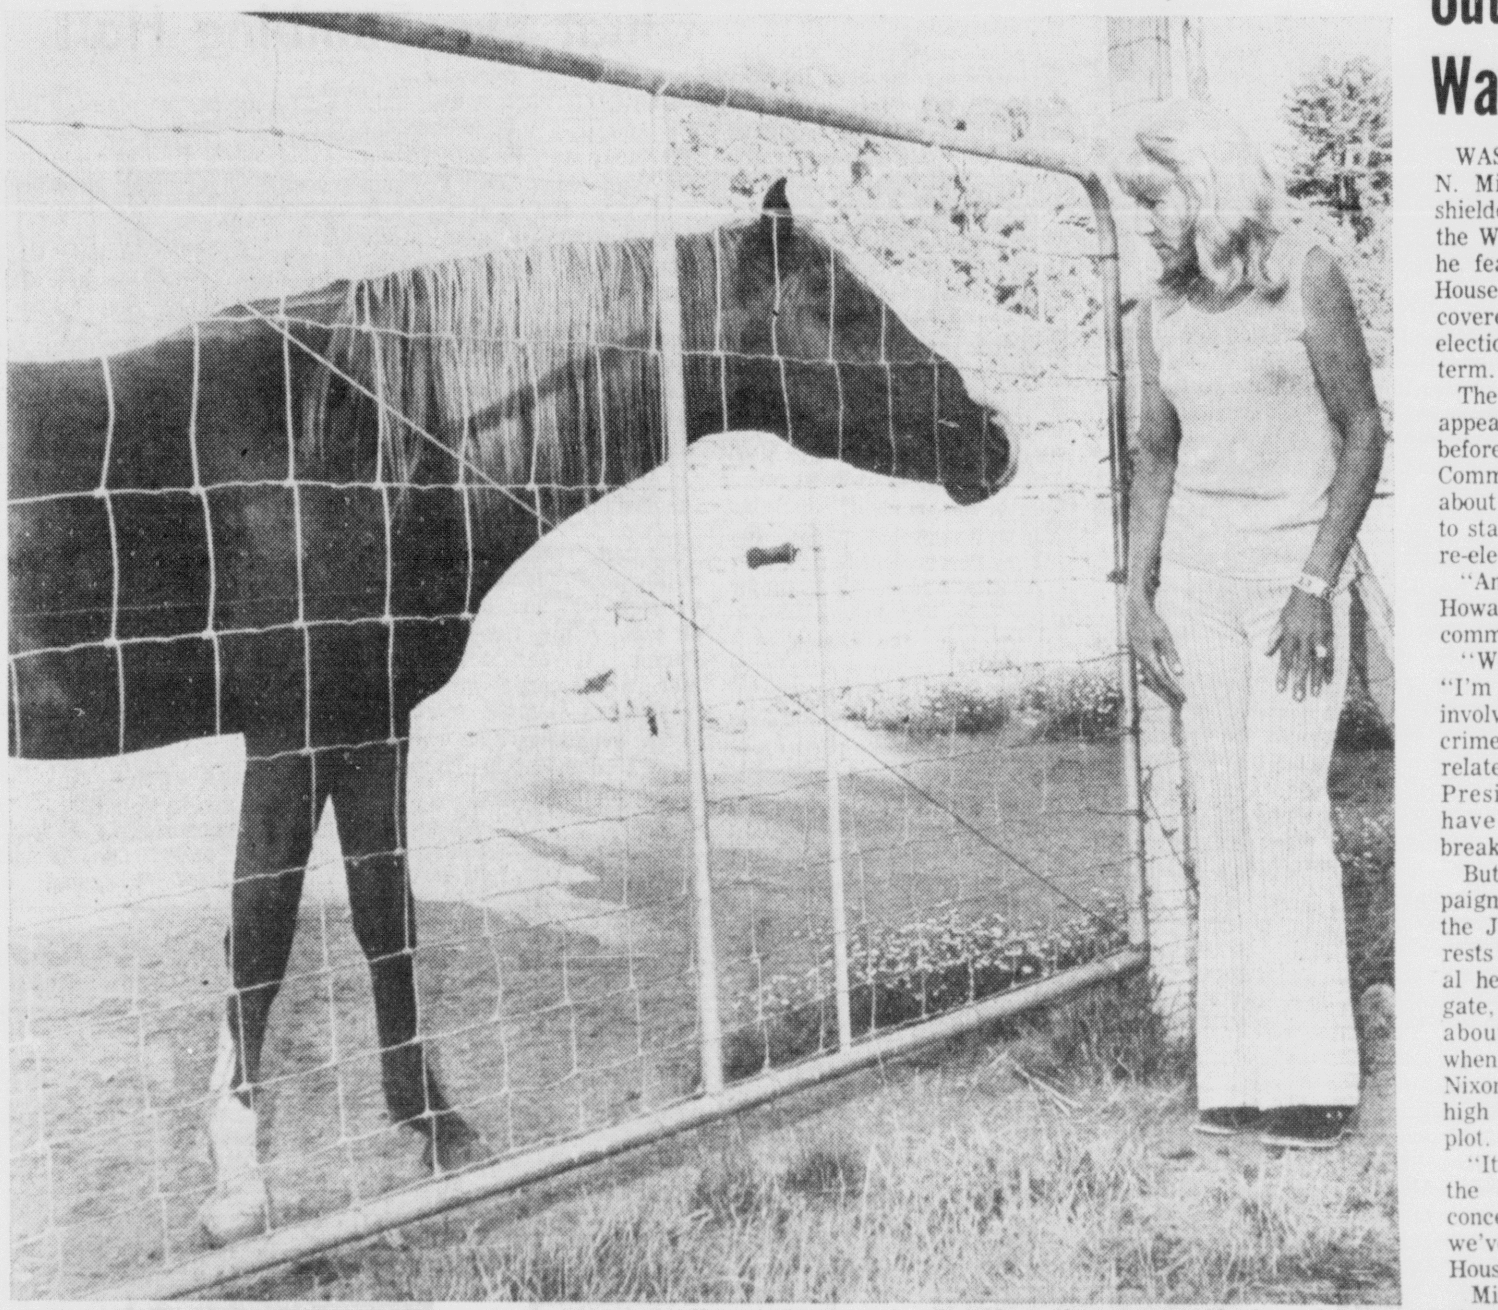
Exposed to the virus on May 20 when a stallion on their Mar-Ghi Arabian Ranch went berserk, the Ghilottis, a hired hand and a close friend are now taking the anti-rabies treatment which, if started soon enough, enables the body to build up an immunity before the virus reaches the brain.

But the experts agree that the Ghilottis may have begun the treatment too late, because the Marin County Health Department failed to diagnose the disease in the brain of the stallion until six weeks later, twice the generally accepted waiting period for treatment.

Both have definitely been exposed. Hours before it went mad, the horse bit Mrs. Ghilotti in the leg. Shortly before that, her husband, who had a deep, open gash on his hand, had his hands in the animal's mouth.

Now, they say they have been told, they must wait as long as a year before they can be certain the danger is past.

Waiting, knowing that the fatal symptoms could appear at any time has taken its toll on the family, including the couple's two children, 11-year-old Michael and 5-year-old Dante.



WAITING AND WORKING — Eva Ghilotti greets a stallion on her Mar-Ghi ranch in Nicasio where another horse died from rabies more than seven weeks ago. While she and her husband wait to see if they have contracted the dread disease, Mrs. Ghilotti keeps her mind off her problem by busying herself with ranch affairs. (Photo by Ty Barbour)

"I think I've aged about 10 years since we found out," the 45-year-old Mrs. Ghilotti said with a wan smile. "Normally, I'm a pleasant, happy individual. Now, I've become very rude; I don't feel I have time for anyone or anything anymore."

Despite the fact that their mother and father have not explained to them in detail what is happening, the Ghilotti boys have picked up enough information to have some idea of the danger their parents are in.

"They've had their sad moments and there's been a few tears," Mrs. Ghilotti said. "I notice they're fondling me a little more these days and the 11-year-old is knocking himself out to be extra nice."

Each day, the couple must travel to their doctor's office in Greenbrae for the anti-rabies shots which are given in the stomach.

In addition to the regular treatment, a serum made from duck embryos, they are being treated with an experimental vaccine, just recently developed and not yet on the market.

Not only are the shots painful, according to the pair, but the reactions to the vaccine — which vary in different individuals — are troublesome.

"I'm dizzy and always blacking out and I have almost constant headaches and nausea," Mrs. Ghilotti reported. Her husband, a partner in the contracting firm of Ghilotti Bros. Inc., said the shots make him so sleepy and drowsy that it is sometimes difficult to function.

She has been so ill at times that her physician wanted to hospitalize her, but agreed to

Reelection Outranked Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John N. Mitchell testified today he shielded President Nixon from the Watergate scandal because he feared even worse "White House horrors" would be uncovered to endanger Nixon's reelection chances and his second term.

The former attorney general, appearing for a second day before the Senate Watergate Committee, said he was "not about to countenance anything to stand in the way" of Nixon's re-election last November.

"Anything at all?" asked Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., the committee vice chairman.

"Well...," Mitchell replied, "I'm sure that if it had to involve treason and other high crimes and misdemeanors that related to the office (of the President), that there would have been a very definite breaking point."

But Mitchell, Nixon's campaign manager at the time of the June 17, 1972, bugging arrests at the Democratic national headquarters at the Watergate, said he was not concerned about the Watergate alone when he decided not to tell Nixon about the involvement of high White House aides in the plot.

"It was not the break-in at the Watergate that was the concern," he said. "It was what we've referred to as 'the White House horrors.'"

Mitchell said he was sure the President, had he known about Watergate, would have taken action that "would start to unravel" a host of unsavory White House activities — including the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist; the forging of cables to implicate President Kennedy in the 1963 assassination of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem; and proposals for burglaries in the name of national security.

"To me, these things were a great deal more damaging than Watergate," Mitchell said. "Watergate was already out. It was an issue. The White House horror stories were not out."

He said he did not go to Nixon after his landslide reelection victory in November to lay out the full story because he assumed the impending "housecleaning" Nixon had in mind for his staff would rid the White House of the men involved.

Now, he said, "we are at the point where these stories should be fully explored and those involved should be fully identified and appropriate action should be taken."

Mitchell said in response to Baker's questioning that he hoped Nixon would respond to the committee's questions when all the testimony of witnesses was completed.

"I think he will," Mitchell said, adding he has not discussed the matter with the President.

Nixon said last weekend he would not appear before the committee either voluntarily or by subpoena. He also said he would not permit the committee access to Watergate-related presidential papers. The committee plans to meet tomorrow to decide whether to subpoena the documents.

Mitchell said he was sure Nixon would have taken "very strong action" last summer had he known the full scope of the scandal —including firing such men as White House Counsel John W. Dean III, Deputy Campaign Director Jeb Stuart Magruder and Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray.

Mitchell said none was fired, even after the election, because

Pilot Of Burning Plane Fails In Emergency Landing Efforts

SAULX - LES-CHARTREUX, France (UPI) — A burning Brazilian Varig 707 jetliner with 134 persons on board crashed into this small village today while the pilot fought to make an emergency landing at Orly Airport only three miles away. A high French official said at least 121 persons were killed.

The plane dived into a valley three miles short of the airport runway, missing a major highway and rows of houses by yards, moments after the pilot had sent a series of SOS messages to the Orly control tower saying the interior of the plane was in flames.

Local farmers in the lettuce fields pulled 13 persons, including the pilot, out of the flaming wreckage. Pierre Lise, Director of the Regional Administration at Evry, the crash area, said,"They were not able to get more because of the flames."

Asked if this meant people died from the fire and not the crash, he said: "Apparently."

He said 10 injured persons were taken to a hospital at Longjumeau including the pilot, the co-pilot and one hostess.

"Three injured were taken by helicopter to the hospital in nearby Creteil. Therefore the dead are 121 and 13 were saved, but some may have died since," he said.

Supervisors Split Up $82,500 Culture Pie

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County supervisors yesterday divided $82,500 in "economic development" funds among 19 cultural and civic groups with the lion's share going to the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau. (Another supervisors story, page 10.)

Most of the groups got what they requested, a few more and a few less, although three were cut out altogether including the Marin Shakespeare Festival which this year moved to San Francisco.

Half the funds are derived from the county's hotel-motel tax and the other half from general fund revenues as a match. The special day for dividing the "economic development pie" was set up several years ago after the many groups bogged down county budget hearings with their requests.

While the process of handing out the funds has always been time consuming, yesterday's session was no different but included a new procedure for supervisors' decision making — the flip of a coin.

County Administrator John F. Barrows suggested setting up a reserve fund for special events during the year but the board agreed it should either go to Youth in Arts or the Marin Symphony Association, both of whom had earlier been given $1,000 more than requested.

Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., to the delight of the audience, settled the surplus money problem by flipping a coin. It came up heads, making Youth in Arts the winner.

The county chamber of commerce was at first granted $35,000 of its $41,335 request for the fiscal year.

That amount was later increased to $41,250 after the board agreed with members of the audience not to fund directly the Redwood Empire Association — a multicounty promo-

Council Clears Way For Shelter Ridge

By REBECCA LARSEN

The Mill Valley City Council last night cleared away obstacles to the completion of the Shelter Ridge development by removing it from a building ban and approving a master plan for two related projects on the ridge.

Each matter was approved by a vote of 4-0, with Councilman Robert E. Capron abstaining because he is the partner of an attorney representing Shelter Hill, a moderate-income housing development concomitant with more expensive housing planned.

The approved master plan calls for 130 apartments, 23 single-family and duplex units and 72 of the moderate-income Shelter Hill apartments.

These units were approved when the original Shelter Ridge master plan was adopted by the city in 1969.

But because of construction delays, the 1969 approval expired before the development, overlooking Highway 101, was completed and the developer, Securities of America, Inc., was forced to reapply for some project approvals.

The builder has finished 104 townhouses on the site and has 80 more under construction.

The evening led off with an appeal by the Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association of a permit which excluded Shelter Ridge from a city development moratorium imposed in June. The permit was granted to Shelter Ridge by the city planning commission a few weeks ago.

Protesting homeowners argued that the city should delay approval until its general

$110 Million Voice Print Suit Filed

By GEORGE NEVIN

Stephen C. Chapter, a former telephone installer accused of making two bomb threats against the Pacific Telephone Co., has gone on the offensive and filed a $110 million lawsuit against the telephone company.

The suit, revealed today as the Bay Area's first voiceprint trial got under way in Marin Superior Court, was filed Friday in San Francisco Superior Court.

Bernie Chiaravalle, president of Local 9404, Communication Workers of America, said the suit asks for damages from the Telephone company, three of its employees and 30 unnamed others. Although not mentioned by name in the suit, Chiaravalle said Lt. Ernest W. Nash of the Michigan State Police, who originally identified Chapter as the man who made the threats last Feburary, is a defendant.

The suit charges Chapter has been embarrassed by the telephone company in the case and has been subjected to stress and cruelty, said Chairavalle.

Today's proceedings in the criminal trial centered on a motion by Chapter's attorney,

Novato School Tax Election On July 31

Faced with uncertainty as to Gov. Ronald Reagan's willingness to help solve their financial problems, Novato Unified School District trustees voted last night to hold a special election July 31, seeking authority to increase the tax rate by $1.35 per $100 assessed valuation. (Another Novato School District story, page 20.)

The election can be called off at the trustees meeting of July 17, Supt. James G. Bunker reported. That is the final day by which Governor Reagan must either sign or kill Assembly Bill 1267 which would give the district an additional $550,000 to add to the $628,000 already allotted the district in the current state budget. These two sums would make up for the revenue lost to the district with deactivation of Hamilton Air Force Base, and make the tax rate election unnecessary, Bunker said.

Bunker said he estimates the number of children in the district this fall will drop from 11,270 at the end of last school year to somewhere around 9,900.

The tax rate increase is needed, Bunker said, because state law limits the rate, unless the voters authorize more, to the amount necessary to raise enough money to equal the previous year's spending per student. With a drop in the number of students, the operating tax rate must drop correspondingly from last year's $4.66 to $3.70, unless the voters agree to increase the rate. The total tax rate last year was $5.13 per $100 assessed valuation.

The board then passed a resolution to assure the voters that if the tax rate increase is approved for one year, the board will not use the full amount, only enough to keep the operating tax rate at its present level of $4.66. Bunker said he did not know where bond retirement, and other obligations would peg the total rate this fiscal year.

Faced with the possibility that the Governor would not sign the bill, and that the Novato voters would not approve the one-year tax rate increase, Bunker said, "I do not know what we would do then if we lost both possible means of additional fianncing."

Family Definition Given By San Rafael Planners

The San Rafael Planning Commission, moving to tighten municipal control over communal lifestyles, last night declared that no more than five unrelated people should be allowed to live in a single-family residence. (Another San Rafael Planning Commission story, page 3.)

The commission, learning from staff that the city zoning ordinance lacks any definition of "what constitutes a family," unanimously approved an amendment defining the term as meaning "one or more persons, related by blood or marriage, or a group of not more than five persons, including servants, who need not be related."

In an action that must pass to the city council for review and final approval, the commission agreed that it "shall be unlawful for any owner or manager" to allow more than one such family to rent or occupy a single-family residence.

Any persons convicted of a violation of the regulation, according to the commission's recommendation, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of up to $500, or imprisonment of up to six months, or both.

Commissioners, who approved the measure without debate or discussion, endorsed a report by Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner that the city has been deluged with complaints about large congregations of unrelated people occupying single-family homes. Such congregations, Hotchner said, create parking problems, impair density standards, and overburden sanitary and kitchen facilities.

The result tends to be an unhealthy environment for both occupants and the neighborhood, according to Hotchner.

Hotchner noted that the zoning ordinance currently provides for family care facilities for five or more persons, fraternal organizations and clubs.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Violence In Ireland

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen, bombers and rioters rocked Roman Catholic areas of Belfast and Londonderry late yesterday and kept British troops under virtually unrelieved pressure.

"We have had two days of the most widespread violence in Roman Catholic areas for many months," an army spokesman said.

The spokesman said gunmen carried out a rocket and rifle attack yesterday on a combined army-police post in Belfast and snipers fired at troops in Belfast and Londonderry.

Violence among Protestants, Catholics and security forces since mid-1969 has killed 844 persons.

Air Strike Toll

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian military authorities said today that U.S. air strikes yesterday killed 200 Communist troops only nine miles outside of Phnom Penh.

The high command said the strikes were aimed at targets close to embattled government troop positions on the capital's southern defense perimeter.

The Cambodian command also reported indirect fire on government positions to the northeast of the city.

Berlin Protest

BERLIN (UPI) — The Communists charged today that West Berlin demonstrations against shooting incidents at the Wall were "a serious provocation" designed to disrupt efforts to lessen tension in Europe.

West Berlin's Mayor Klaus Schuetz called the charge hypocritical. He said the real provocation was border guards shooting to stop refugees, not West Berliners expressing their indignation over the shootings.

The cause of the East-West exchange was the capture under gunfire Sunday of three refugees on the French sector border. Residents of a nearby West Berlin housing project tore a six-foot hole in the wall in a demonstration against the shooting.

Grecian Campaign

ATHENS (UPI) — Prime Minister George Papadopoulos sent more than 20 cabinet ministers throughout the country today to drum up enthusiasm for a referendum meant to make him president, succeeding the king he dethroned.

The referendum is set for July 29 and most politicians agree Papadopoulos will win handily.

Voters can reject the Republican constitution Papadopoulas has proclaimed and this would also mean rejection of him as president, though he has no opponent.

Strike Halts Jets

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) — Authorities today closed Frankfurt's Rhein-Main airport, the country's largest and a major international air traffic center, after air controllers on the morning shift went on strike.

Rhein-Main handles hundreds of international flights daily and is a transit point for transatlantic runs as well as flights heading west from the Orient.

WATERGATE SMOKESCREEN

Smoke-filled rooms are still a reality in Washington. This room is the Senate Caucus Room where the Watergate hearings are being held. It was filled with smoke yesterday from the pipe of minority counsel Fred Thompson and the cigar of Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., as they listened to Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. Governors Can't Agree On Route For Pipeline

RAPID CITY, S.D. (UPI) — Midwestern governors are divided over the route to be chosen for Alaskan oil to the lower 48 states—whether to pipe it to Alaska's southern coast for shipment in tankers or to use a pipeline across Canada.

Governors attending the 12th annual Midwestern Governors Conference yesterday voted down support of an 11-month Senate study of a trans-Canadian pipeline route from Alaska to the Midwest by a 6-5 margin.

The Senate has not yet decided whether to undertake the trans-Canadian route, but the study of its feasibility is included as an amendment in legislation to allow piping of Alaskan oil to the rest of the country. There have been court rulings to the contrary.

The study proposal is seen in the Senate as a move to block the already surveyed trans-Alaskan route to the West Coast.

Wisconsin Gov. Patrick Lucey introduced the proposal to support the trans-Canadian route study. One governor, David Hall of Oklahoma, said that both pipelines are needed to meet the nation's oil requirements.

The vote came shortly after Govs. William G. Milliken of Michigan and John J. Gilligan of Ohio departed the conference. Lucey said he had had the assurance of both governors' votes and it would have given him a 7-6 edge. The 6-5 vote, he said, was thus "indecisive."

Montevideo Patrolled; Press Ban

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) — Tanks and troop carriers patrolled the streets of Montevideo today to prevent any new demonstrations against President Juan Maria Bordaberry's decision to rule Uruguay by decree.

Bordaberry, who dissolved congress last month with the support of the military and assumed broad powers, named four men yesterday to fill cabinet posts vacated by ministers protesting his action.

Press censorship was enforced yesterday when the government closed three leftist newspapers for ten editions, each for "misinterpreting the government's orders.

The armed forces have declared their "total subordination" to Bordaberry, who agreed last February to all military demands made in a bloodless rebellion.

The military used machine guns, swords, tear gas, and tanks to disperse tens of thousands of demonstrators Monday. At least 30 persons were hurt in the incident, which began with a protest against the rule-by-decree decision.

Despite a ban on a major labor union and threats to striking firemen, the effects of a general strike were still being felt in the capital, mainly in banks and factories. Thousands of uncashed checks piled up in the banks.

Sen. Wilson Ferreyra Aldunante, seeking political asylum in Buenos Aires, accused the Brazilian military regime yesterday of setting an example for the action measures in Uruguay.

The National party senator, who lost the presidential race in 1971 to Bordaberry by a small margin, said he would return to Uruguay to join the underground resistance.

More Vegetables

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farmers will produce 2 per cent more vegetables for the "fresh" market this summer than they did a year ago, the Agriculture Department predicts.

Saigon Proposes Secret Talks With Viet Cong On Elections

PARIS (UPI) — South Vietnam called on the Viet Cong today to open immediate secret talks similar to those between Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho to break the deadlock over Vietnam's political future.

The Viet Cong had no immediate reply but they have persistently turned down similar suggestions in the past.

The offer was presented by Saigon's Deputy Premier Nguyen Luu Vien at the 16th meeting between the two sides aimed at setting up a national council to organize elections.

Vien said the secret meetings would deal with such basic problems as guarantees of democratic freedoms, creation of a national council to supervise elections and withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South.

The political talks have been going on for months and the two sides have only 17 days left —under the June 13 communique—to reconcile their differences.

South Vietnam earlier rejected suggestions that Vietnamese neutralists should be included in the political talks.

"These people are so numerous and they are living in such distant places as the United States and Japan that they would have to travel all over the world to come here and get round the table," said Deputy Premier Nguyen Luu Vien of South Vietnam.

The Viet Cong have been holding extensive talks with representatives of the various neutralist groups seeking seats as a third party on a proposed National Council of National Reconciliation and Concord, whose job will be to supervise elections.

Former South Vietnamese minister Truong Thanh, now working as a businessman in Paris, suggested Tuesday that neutralists attend the Saigon-Viet Cong meetings as observers.

During the previous meeting, the 15th between the two sides since the Jan. 27 Vietnam cease-fire accord was signed, Hieu said the Saigon administration was creating "a very tense situation" in Vietnam because of an alleged attack on Viet Cong positions.

U.S. General, Saigon Chief Eye Bombing Halt

SAIGON (UPI) — A highranking American military official met today with President Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Tran Thien Khiem in talks that presumably included next month's U.S. bombing halt in Cambodia.

U.S. Embassy spokesmen said Gen. Frederick C. Weyand met for 45 minutes with Khiem and an hour with Thieu. Weyand travels to Phnom Penh later this week for talks with Cambodian officials.

Weyand, the last American military commander in South Vietnam and now commander of U.S. Army troops in the Pacific, said earlier he might make recommendations to newly installed Defense Secretary James Schlessinger on whether the U.S. bombing in Cambodia should continue.

On his arrival in Saigon yesterday, Weyand said he was carrying no White House request for South Vietnam to take over the U.S. bombing role in Cambodia after Aug. 15, the cutoff date imposed by Congress.

"I am just here to find out what the situation is," Weyand told reporters. He was asked by Schlessinger to carry out the Indochina fact-finding mission.

A U.S. military source said Cambodia planned to continue its combat operations "as best it can" after Aug. 15 even if there is no further outside air help.

The source also said the United States has no plans to turn over any planes to the tiny Cambodian air force—"other than the types they have been getting."

In other developments, informed sources said "extremely delicate and critical" negotiations are still going in an effort to obtain the release of two Canadian officers held by the Viet Cong since June 27 in the rubber plantation area 35 miles east of Saigon.

The Saigon government news agency said about 36,000 North Vietnamese troops are threatening Central Highlands provincial capitals of Kontum and Pleiku.

The news agency said the Communists in Kontum province are supported by at least 40 tanks and 50 Soviet-built 130mm and 122mm cannon.

Development Of Hillside Is Approved

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night unanimously approved revised plans for development of a graded hillside north of the Civic Center after calling for installation of a sidewalk along a frontage road. (Another San Rafael Planning Commission story, page 1.)

The commission, in endorsing plans for a five-story office building and a restaurant proposed by Arthur Nicolaisen across from the Terra Linda interchange, backed a request by Commissioner John A. Starkweather for inclusion of a sidewalk to ease pedestrian access.

The city council approved the once-controversial project last month after Nicolaisen scuttled homeowner opposition by reducing the scope of his development plans and beefing up landscaping.

The commission postponed environmental and design review of the Velvet Turtle restaurant planned on the site, saying it wants to see detailed drawings of both the restaurant and the office building before approving precise design of either structure.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

GENERAL PLAN — Learned from staff the timetable for completion of the city's general plan, including a pledge from consultants Duncan and Jones that public hearings on the document will begin during November.

CONSENT — Approved a consent calendar, including conversion of a single-family home into a duplex at 327 C Street; a duplex composed of two separate structures at 57 Valencia Avenue; resubdivision of two parcels on Elizabeth Way to allow duplex and single-family development, and condominium subdivisions of a rental apartment building at 1219 Grand Avenue and a warehouse at 79 Belvedere and 140 Market streets.

TERRA LINDA — Amid opposition by neighbors, denied a request by Carlos Gonzalez for a two-lot subdivision of a 32.2-acre parcel owned by the Freitas family at the end of Terra Linda Drive. The proposal to place four building sites on a small, 2.2-acre parcel resulting from the lot split drew long commission support from James Dougan. The commission approved a request by Gonzalez to subdivide into four lots a 50.7-acre parcel at the end of Butternut Drive, property also owned by the Freitas family. The proposal to create three building sites to complete construction of the Butternut cul-de-sac was opposed by commissioners Alan Kay and Albert J. Boro.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday in city hall.

Julie Gets In The Last Word

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House spokesmen have given up disputing Julie Nixon Eisenhower's statement that her father asked his family if he should resign over the Watergate scandal.

Julie, 25, the President's younger daughter, first made the statement last week in an interview with UPI. The White House then put out a statement saying Nixon never had considered resigning.

But Julie on Monday repeated her statement, saying "my father did not discuss his resignation with any of the staff members — it was only discussed among the family." She related the family members advised him against resigning because it would be an "admission of wrongdoing."

Yesterday, White House spokesman Gerald L. Warren was asked about Mrs. Eisenhower's Monday statement. "I have nothing to add," Warren said.

Deputies Ask Binding Action On Pay Hike

The Marin County Deputy Sheriff's Association has asked county supervisors to declare an impasse in salary negotiations between deputies and the county.

According to San Francisco attorney Christopher D. Burdick, a negotiator for the association, the deputies are willing to submit the salary issues to either mediation or arbitration.

Burdick told the Independent-Journal that deputies have requested "less than the 5 per cent given other county employees" this year but the board's negotiating team has not agreed to even half that amount.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella, who heads the board's negotiating team, said he does not consider negotiations at an impasse and will recommend against such a declaration by supervisors.

"We're willing to meet anytime and any place," Campanella said, adding he could not discuss specifics of what has been requested and what has been offered.

Thus far, the two sides have met nine times for a total of more than 40 hours, according to Burdick. The impasse request is expected to be considered by supervisors next Tuesday. No new talks are scheduled.

Most other county employees were granted a 5 per cent cost-of-living increase last month. The increase was provided for in the Marin County Employee Association's three-year contract. Deputies are not part of the association but have their own bargaining unit. Their contract expired June 30.

FUNDS

tional organization — which had asked for $8,500.

The board instead agreed that the county chamber should be given an extra $5,750 (raising its total to $41,250) and it could decide how much, if anything, should be given the San Francisco based Redwood Empire group.

Spokesmen for the association, which in recent years has been criticized by some for taking funds from the "cultural half" of the economic development pie, did not oppose the move.

Ben A. Farlatti, a director of the association as well as the county chamber, said funneling the money through the county chamber "will give us better control (and) . . . stronger reins on how it is used."

The Marin Shakespeare Festival, meanwhile, was flatly turned down by the board of supervisors on its request for $1,000.

"The purpose of this fund is to help cultural activities in Marin and this doesn't make sense," Supervisors Michael Wornum told festival representatives, who moved their activity to San Francisco after being forced to leave Forest Meadows in San Rafael.

A spokesman told supervisors that the group moved to San Francisco, which donated $5,000, after rental fees at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building were judged to be too high.

"Mayor Alioto (San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto), who wooed and won you over . . . is a real cheapskate with the money," Wornum said of the $5,000 donation.

The Shakespeare Festival, as well as the Sausalito and Corte Madera chambers of commerce, were rejected unanimously. Supervisors Robert A. Roumiguiere was absent.

The two city chambers, which both requested $250, were told to find funds locally as other city chambers do.

Among other highlights of the session was an offer by George P. Leonard of Stinson Beach to donate $1,000 to the Marin Symphony if the county approved its $5,000 request.

Leonard, a member of the symphony association, added another $500 when supervisors increased the symphony allocation another $1,000 later in the day.

Elsie Mazzini of the Marin County Historical Society nearly opened up old redevelopment wounds between the county and City of San Rafael when she told the board her group may be forced to leave the city's Boyd House because of redevelopment.

Supervisors noted municipal improvements, such as refurbishing the Boyd House, with redevelopment funds is prohibited under an agreement worked out between the city and county on use of the funds. They threatened to reopen a law suit against the redevelopment project.

(City Mgr. William Bielser said late yesterday the city council has allocated $50,000 of bedroom tax revenues to refurbish the historic old building which is outside the redevelopment area.

(He said the city council has taken no action to evict the historical society from the building but did not discount the possibility since the city needs office space.)

Among new groups to be funded are the financially troubled Mountain Play Association at $3,000 and the Novato Pre-History Museum at $2,150.

Allocations approved yesterday with requested amounts in parenthesis are:

Dipsea Race, $400 ($400), Veterans' Memorial Day Committee, $1,300 ($1,300); Marin Music Chest, $2,600 ($2,600); Marin Historical Society, $2,300 ($3,000); Novato Western Weekend, $2,000 ($2,000); Marin Symphony Association, $6,000 ($5,000).

Marin Civic Ballet Association, $4,100 ($4,100); Inverness Music Festival, $4,500 ($5,000); Candlelight Concert and Mozart Festival, $1,000 ($1,500); Marin Museum Association, $3,750 ($3,750); Marin Ballet Aquacade, $2,500 ($2,500); Youth in Arts, $3,250 ($2,000).

Sonoma-Marin Fair, $600 ($750); Novato Pre-History Museum, $2,150 ($5,000); Mountain Play Association, $3,000 ($5,000); Sir Francis Drake plate marker, $1,000 ($1,000); Fairfax Festival, $150 ($250) and county chamber, $41,250 ($41,335) including the tentative $5,750 allocation to the Redwood Empire Association.

Rights Aide Pro-Girl In League Tiff

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Peter Homes, director of the Federal Office of Civil Rights, expressed sympathy Tuesday for Jenny Fulle, the 10-year-old Mill Valley girl barred from playing Little League baseball, but could offer no help.

Holmes, who is currently on an inspection tour of regional offices, said the law does not authorize the government to help Jenny with her problem.

However, he said, "I'm all for her. I don't understand how these flaps develop. It's ridiculous—if she is a good player."

The Mill Valley City Council has refused to force her admission into Little League play this year by requiring users of public ball parks to cease sex discrimination.

The council instituted the requirement, but did not make it effective until next year.

CRASH

in Rio de Janeiro before the long flight across the Atlantic. Airline officials said the crossing was uneventful but shortly before the scheduled touchdown at Orly the pilot radioed a May Day distress call. The plane began falling moments later.

The plane fell into a valley near the atomic energy center of Saclay, only 500 yards short of a major highway outside this township of 2,000 persons. The front part of the silver-colored Boeing was virtually intact but the passenger compartment had its roof blown off.

The inside of the passenger compartment was burned black and was filled with ashes and the burning remains of bodies and belongings.

"We first were told by the pilot that he had fire on board and we issued a green alarm order—emergency fire brigades moving out on standby," an Orly official said.

"Then another SOS told us things were really bad on board and we ordered a red alert—an immediate closing of runways to all takeoffs and landings for absolute priority for the crippled plane.

RIDGE

plan consulting firm, Sedway-Cooke, has looked at the plans.

"We want the consultants to broadly brush in their opinion of what should be up on that ridge," said Edward J. Gingras, president of the homeowners' group.

Tom W. Newton, city planning director said the consultants were "not hired to review or make judgments that we should make."

Attorney Douglas P. Ferguson, representing Interfaith Housing Corp., a nonprofit group which will build Shelter Hill, told the council that the success of his moderate-income project rests on the success of the Shelter Ridge developers. His master plan cannot be separated from theirs, he said.

An Enchanted Knolls resident, Beverly Schneir, protested that this argument sounded "as though to get that development you're being pressured into accepting the other part of Shelter Ridge."

"We don't feel pressured by Shelter Hill," answered Ivan S. Poutiatine, chairman of the planning commission. "We set up its building as a condition for the project originally. It's a vital thing for Mill Valley to achieve."

Several councilmen argued that they felt obligated to remove the building ban on Shelter Ridge because the developer was repeating the process of gaining approval only because of a technicality.

"I always felt that use permits for this development would be granted," said Mayor Jean S. Barnard.

Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker said the city should consider the financial problems of the developer and the work that went into preparing the site for development in the faith that city approval was valid.

Approval of the master plan hinged for a while last night on whether the developer would accept the condition that arrangements had to be made for extending Sycamore Avenue across the Mill Valley marsh before Shelter Ridge apartments could be occupied.

This new piece of road would run from the development to Camino Alto to divert Shelter Ridge drivers from going through Enchanted Knolls on their way to Mill Valley.

Attorney for the developer Robert K. Clausen said Securities of America could not put up the $200,000 estimated to be the cost of the road.

Council members agreed the extension would probably be built through money raised by an assessment district and by gas tax funds.

Warner Odenthal of Securities of America argued that the situation was too vague. He asked the council to make it clear that his firm would be free of responsibility. "We can't have this cloud on the title," he said.

He proposed to put up $25,000 or to promise to join other nearby property owners in an assessment district to build the road.

But council members decided that they had to consult with city staff on costs involved before agreeing to that proposal.

The council also held a closed meeting to discuss salary negotiations with city employees.

San Rafael Man Knifed

A San Rafael woman was arrested early this morning by San Rafael police on suspicion of assault with intent to kill after a family dispute.

Held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $12,500 bail and to appear in Marin Municiapl Court today was Barbara Jean Clontz, 41, of 737 Francisco Boulevard, Apt. 31.

Police said Mrs. Clontz stabbed her husband, Lawrence E. Clontz, 36, of the same address, with a hunting knife after a lengthy arguement shortly after midnight in their apartment.

Officers said they had talked to the couple after a disturbance earlier in the evening and had left after being assured that the matter was settled.

Clontz suffered a superficial wound between the shoulder blades and was treated and released at Marin General Hospital according to the police.

TRIAL

Robert L. Moran, to suppress the voiceprint evidence which links Chapter to the bomb threats. Court observers feel the trial will determine not only Chapter's fate but also the reliability of voiceprint evidence in the future.

As the nonjury trial opened, Moran won permission to tape-record the testimony of Lieutenant Nash, an 18-year veteran of the Michigan State Police.

Waiving the rule banning recording of court proceedings, Judge E. Warren McGuire said he would make an exception because of the unuaual nature of the case.

Without .the taping, Moran argued, the defense's expert witnesses, some of whom can't be present for Nash's testimony, would not be able to hear it and would be unprepared to refute it.

He said the defense is unable to afford a daily transcript of the proceedings, and McGuire agreed to allow the recording if Moran gives a copy to Vernon F. Smith, the deputy district attorney prosecuting the case.

Nash took the stand today to give his qualifications as a voiceprint expert and told the court he has studied both voiceprint techniques and speech sciences and qualifies as an expert in the former.

To get a positive identification by voiceprint, Nash said, the expert must find 10 matching pairs of sounds from the suspect's voice and the voice in doubt. A negative identification consists of 10 pairs that don't match, and anything in between is a "probable" identification, Nash said.

In proceedings, Chapter was ordered to repeat the words of the original bomb threats made to Pacific Telephone on Feb. 1, 1972.

The trial continues tomorrow in Superior Court.

"the President was not aware of any activities they were involved in."

"Do you think it was fair to members of the opposition party, fair to the American people, to conspire to keep them from the true facts about this matter?" asked Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii.

"I do not believe now and I did not believe then that the President should be charged with the transgressions of others," Mitchell replied. "It's as simple as that."

Shrimp Trawler Has Troubles

MONTEREY (UPI) — The shrimp trawler Francis K. was to be escorted here by the Coast Guard today after she radioed distress signals Tuesday night because high seas smashed the vessel's side windows.

The Coast Guard said the cutter Glacier reached the trawler at midmorning some 50 miles southwest of Monterey.

Earlier a rescue aircraft dropped pumps to the stricken vessel, the Coast Guard said.

The Francis K. listed her homeport as Sausalito and was bound for Astoria, Ore., when she encountered trouble, a spokesman said.

Fairfax School Buses To Return Next Year

The Fairfax School District's two buses will be rolling as usual next year, the district board declared last night as it included bus transportation funds in a $1,277,049 publication budget for 1973-74.

The board cut a $21,000 allocation for bus transportation last May in an economy move, but reinstated the money last night after learning the district had $26,000 in funds left over from last fiscal year's spending program, according to Supt. H. Reginald Hammond.

Parents, who have debated the merits of cutting bus transportation at past meetings, greeted last night's action with mixed reactions, he said. Some applauded the move, while others said the money should be pumped into new educational programs.

The publication budget approved by the board is estimated to require a tax rate under $4 per $100 assessed valuation, up from last fiscal year's $3.85 levy, Hammond said. He had earlier predicted that the rate go to $4.72.

The publication budget includes funds for a 5 per cent pay increase for district employees, he said.

The Fairfax School District board also:

GIFT — Said the White Hill School student council has announced plans to plant memorial trees at White Hill School honoring teacher George Fanakos, who died following an auto accident recently.

PARENTS — Said the White Hill parents group will tile the locker area and provide a mural for White Hill School's stucco wall, at no cost to the district.

BOND ISSUE — Said the board is considering a bond election of about $300,000 next June to finance a multiuse facility at White Hill School.

STAFF — Said staff members must have tuberculosis exams every four years.

INSURANCE — Said the board will discuss the district insurance program at 7:45 p.m. Aug. 7.

SECURITY — Rejected a security system for district schools, saying an estimated $12,000 tab was too high.

MEMBERSHIP — Approved district membership in the California Education Placement Association, and approved the $5 membership tab.

ATTENDANCE — Said average daily attendance last year was 981 pupils.

TESTING — Said district testing programs show sixth and seventh graders need more work in match and spelling.

ENRICHMENT — Approved a $400 tab for participation in the College of Marin's enrichment program for gifted students.

ASSISTANT — Called for applications for assistant to the principal at Deer Park and Central schools.

ADJOURNMENT — Canceled the regular July 24 meeting, saying the board will next meet at 7:45 p.m. Aug. 7 to consider the adoption of the publication budget.

Budget Is Due

The Bel Marin Keys Community Services District board will receive its 1973-74 budget at its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the community center.

Conservatives Win Lutheran Church Battle

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Conservatives insisting on literal interpretation of the Bible won a crucial victory yesterday at the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod's 50th annual convention.

Delegates voted to give the conservatives power over the control board of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, the focal point in the doctrinal feud between the conservatives and the moderates.

The seminary had been a stronghold for the moderates, who advocate more leeway to interpret scripture within historical and literary contexts.

New FBI Chief Is Now At Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — They changed the sign on the door on the fifth floor of the Justice Department for the third time in a year yesterday. It now reads: "Clarence M. Kelley, Director of the FBI."

Kelley, the former Kansas City, Mo., police chief, started his first day on the job by conferring with his highest ranking aides. He also met with outgoing temporary director William D. Ruckelshaus, who replaced acting director L. Patrick Gray III earlier this year.

Special Religious Lectures Set

Swami Chinmayananda of Utter Kasi, India, will be at Sonoma State College July 17-27 for a series of lectures and discussions.

The program will open at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Zinfandel Hall.

Buddhist, Christian, Jewish and Sufi representatives will also speak.

A daily program of talks, meditation and informal discussions is planned along with music and dance programs.

Persons interested in attending the programs may also use the campus residence halls for housing.

Publication Budget Set At $5 Million

The Marin County Board of Education last night adopted a publication budget of $5,063,728, for fiscal 1973-74, a figure which will require a tax rate of 19.39 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain said the amount to be raised by the property tax is $1,541,962. At the board's June 26 meeting it was anticipated a 20-cent tax rate would be required, but a 10 per cent jump in county assessed valuation lowered the tax levy.

Spain said the board set a public hearing on the budget for Aug. 2 at 8 p.m. in the county schools' office.

The board approved contributing $500 a semester to the College of Marin's program for talented students — an after school and weekend "enrichment" program for gifted children which will start this fall, with James A. Carroll and William L. Sisk dissenting.

Carroll felt financial support was really the college district responsibility, said Spain.

The Marin County Board Of Education Also:

ELECTION — Elected Glen E. Robinson president and Lee C. Richardson Jr., vice president, and set regular board meetings for the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

PERSONNEL — Hired Kathleen Vallejo Rond as a teacher at the therapeutic learning center, at $8,852 a year; Carolyn Hurd as a speech therapist at $13,616; Virginia Sulpizio as a speech therapist at $11,457; Leland Marsh as a custodian at $536 a month.

CREDENTIAL — Issued a credential of eminence to Sadao Hamada to teach a gymnastics workshop at Tam High's summer school.

SAN QUENTIN — Set high school graduation ceremonies for 102 San Quentin inmates enrolled in the county schools' Bayview School for July 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the prison chapel; president Robinson will present diplomas.

AUTISTIC — Authorized applying for more state aid for autistic children's programs and allocated $2,500 in the 1973-74 budget for consultants for training staff; also approved the concept of seeking outside funding for a program to train parents of such children.

MARINCELLO — Approved a one-year renewable lease with the Nature Conservancy for the Martha Alexander Gerbode Preserve (the former Marincello headlands) and said it will start operations as an environmental education site by September, hiring an environmental educator this summer.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS — Authorized the county schools office to contract with private and parochial schools for audio-visual materials permissible for the first time under new senate legislation; the schools will pay $5 for each borrowed film, much cheaper than the $10 or $12 they currently pay private renters.

MEETING — Set its next meeting for July 24 at 8 p.m. in the county school's office.

Celebration Is Planned For Orchestra Piccola

A special committee had been formed to prepare a countywide celebration for September for the Orchestra Piccola in recognition of its triumphant Italian tour.

The committee, which will meet at 4 p.m. Friday in the Bank of Marin community room, 1 Mitchell Boulevard, San Rafael, will include orchestra conductor Hugo Rinaldi, Mrs. Abe Froman of the orchestra parents committee, Thelma Schultz, general manager of the Marin Symphony, Kay Collette of the Marin Symphony and Carroll Snyker, manager of the Marin Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, according to Frank A. Tallarida, the committee's organizer.

He said he has asked the supervisors to send a representative to the meeting.

Tallarida said a full celebration could not be prepared before September, because most of the orchestra members are now travelling in Europe and some will not return before late August.

Tallarida expressed hope that the welcome will provide a chance for the whole county to hear the orchestra, and for the orchestra to receive the acclaim of the many Marin residents who have been following their successes daily in the newspaper.

Petaluman Outstanding Dairy Rancher

Raymond Gambonini, Petaluma rancher, will be honored as 1973's "outstanding dairyman" at the Sonoma County Fair.

A special program in his honor is scheduled for July 22 at the Santa Rosa Fairgrounds. Gambonini has been in the dairy business for more than 40 years and operates a ranch on Old Adobe Road with his sons, James and Richard Gambonini. He also serves as chairman of the board at Sierra National Bank, Petaluma.

Wesley Jamison, fair livestock manager, said Gambonini was selected because of his contributions to the dairy industry. Gambonini was instrumental in the passage of the dairy pooling law, which permits dairymen with small herds to pool their cows for better financial support.

Library Showing Variety Of Art

A display of 31 paintings, weavings, wood sculptures, stained glass and books will be on display through July 31 at the Marin County Civic Center Library.

The display is sponsored by the Golden Gate chapter of the National League of American Pen Women, an association of writers, artists and musicians.

Library hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Visit Ship

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The second Skylab crew, scheduled to blast off July 28 for eight weeks of space research, has taken an inspection tour of the Apollo command ship they will ride up to the space station.

Ban On Smoking Working Well

OAKLAND (UPI) — Enforcing a no smoking ordinance in Oakland's department stores is turning out to be surprisingly easy, managers reported yesterday.

City councilmen passed the ordinance June 19 because the Retail Merchants Association complained that cigarettes were damaging carpets and apparel.

Stores with sales areas larger than 10,000 square feet posted no smoking signs and store managers say they have come upon no serious opposition.

Besides Oakland, there are no smoking ordinances for stores in San Francisco, Los Angeles, New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Sausalito Yacht Among Nuclear Test Protesters

I-J Special Report

WELLINGTON, New Zealand — A Sausalito-based yacht has reportedly joined several other vessels in a protest voyage a dozen miles off the South Pacific atoll of Mururoa where the French are expected to explode a huge nuclear device in the next several days.

The Fri, a former Danish ketch, has refused to leave the 72-mile clearance zone off the atoll, according to United Press International, despite the fact that France has ordered all vessels to stay clear of the area.

The protest of the latest in the series of nuclear tests which began in 1966 also includes a New Zealand Navy ship carrying a cabinet minister and a French ship carrying World War II hero Brig. Gen. Jacques de Boullardiere and other French opponents of the testing.

The sail-in to the forbidden waters around the test zone is part of growing objections, by several countries, to the nuclear blasting which could begin as early as Friday.

New Zealand and Malaysia have already agreed to join protests of the French plans at the United Nations.

David Moodie, 30, is the skipper of the 61-year-old Fri, which he and two brothers bought in 1971 and refurbished. Moodie is one of 13 persons reported to be aboard the vessel.

The ship was a familiar sight on the Sausalito scene until she departed on a two-and-a-half-year round the world voyage nearly two years ago. She was last heard from in May when she put in at Pitcairn Island for repairs.

At that time Moodie disclosed that the ship was on its way to the test zone as part of the international protest against nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

In terms of land, the Soviet Union is the world's largest country, with 8,647,249 square miles.

Commission Applications Being Taken

Applications from citizens for vacancies on three town agencies are being accepted through August, the Fairfax Town Council has announced.

One opening each on the planning commission, the design review board and the parks and recreation commission have resulted from resignations of members.

Gloria Duncan and Gilbert P. Murphy are leaving their respective planning and design review positions to take seats on the City-County Planning Council. Gratia Landley of parks and recreation has also relinquished her position.

The town council, in keeping with Mayor E. Ross Parkerson's policy of publicly inviting applicants 60 days in advance, requests that interested citizens notify town clerk Eileen L. Foster of interest in the vacated seats. The appointments will be made in September.

Corte Madera Still Working On Budget

The Corte Madera Town Council will continue working on its proposed 1973-74 budget of $1,349,706 tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the town hall.

Sections of the budget to be considered include the town's redevelopment agency, and the fire, public works, parks and recreation departments.

Exposure To Rabies Brings Death Threat

let her ramain at home if she stayed in bed — which she can't bring herself to do.

"Mentally I'm better off here. If they put me in a hospital room and I was closed in by four walls, with nothing to do but think, they might as well get the straight jacket out."

At present, the doctors don't know exactly how long the treatments will last — probably from 21 to 28 days. But, even when they are over, those exposed to the rabies will have to continue to take booster shots since some believe the symptoms can appear at any time within about a year.

Right now the family is doing its best to live as normally as possible.

"Thank God, we have a lot of things to do," Ghilotti said with feeling. "She has the ranch to run and I have my business. I don't know what would happen to us if we didn't have that. The only way to survive is to keep busy."

The contractor, a volatile, witty man admits it is very difficult to put the frightening subject out of his mind, but is convinced that is exactly what he must do.

"If I have a year to live, why ruin that year? Thinking and worrying about what could happen cheats you, because you can't enjoy every day, every hour, every minute you have."

The Ghilottis' nightmare began in the early evening hours of a very ordinary day — May 20 — when they noticed that Co-pilot, a valuable stallion, was trying hard to eat, but unable to swallow.

They spent about 30 minutes with their hands in his mouth, trying to discover if he had a twig lodged in his throat, but found nothing.

When the veterinarian arrived about 7 p.m. and began to examine Co-Pilot, the horse lunged at him. "I jumped between him and the vet and he bit me on the leg," Mrs. Ghilotti recalls.

Within a couple of hours, the 13-year old Polish Arabian stallion showed all the classic rabies symptoms.

"First he had stiff legs and wobbly gait, then he went crazy, attacking the buildings, throwing himself against the walls," she said.

The animal was destroyed, and the veterinarian promptly sent its head to the state's poultry and livestock lab in Petaluma which then forwarded brain samples to the county health department for rabies testing.

After the county reported that its test was negative, the Ghilottis and others who had come in contact with Co-Pilot decided against undergoing treatment.

The two were still worried, however, and pestered their veterinarians daily in an effort to find out what had killed their horse. Mrs. Ghilotti even took a bag of leaves from the stallion's paddock to the Farm Bureau for analysis, thinking the animal might have been poisoned.

Repeated calls to the local health department proved fruitless in finding out what was being done to determine the cause of death. "They wouldn't even give me the time of day," Mrs. Ghilotti said. "They told me to contact my own doctor or veterinarian."

The days ticked by and finally more than five weeks had passed and the mystery was still unsolved.

On June 27, the Ghilottis received a call from the Frank Rust ranch in Willits where one of the Mar-Ghi brood mares, Manahka, had been taken for breeding several days earlier.

The horse was very ill and it looked like rabies, Rust and his wife reported.

By the time the Ghilottis managed to get to Willits (Ghilotti's mother had died that week) on Friday, Manahka was dying and almost unrecognizable.

"She had mutilated almost her entire body by chewing on herself and throwing herself around. Her chest was hanging open and her head was all swollen."

The Rusts had worked day and night to keep the animal alive until the Ghilottis could get there, so they would be able to determine if the mare's symptoms were the same as Co- Pilot's. They were.

Wasting no time and hoping against hope, Mrs. Ghilotti and a friend obtained the horse's brain from Mendocino county officials and rushed the specimen to the State Health Department in Berkeley for analysis.

"We drove like hell, all the way from Willits. I was numb, wondering what my chances were and how many other people had been exposed. It was like getting into a nightmare and trying to wake up," she said.

They waited anxiously while the tests were run and at 10:45 on June 29, they had their answer: Manahka had been rabid.

Mrs. Ghilotti will never forget that moment: "I just passed out, right there on the floor, when they told me."

The next day they learned Co-Pilots brain had been retested by the county and that he, too had been rabid.

Alto Sanitary District Budget Holds Tax Rate

The Alto Sanitary District board last night unanimously approved a final 1973-74 budget of $10,400, down $1,000 from this year's.

According to Daniel R. McNeill, the budget will require a tax rate of 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The rate was the same this year.

Budget categories include $2,400 for salaries, $6,000 for maintenance and $2,000 for capital outlay and miscellaneous spending.

McNeill said the drop in spending resulted because the district has almost finished its upgrading of sewer lines.

He said that Board Chairman K. Paul Stecher announced last night that he will not run again when his term expires in November.

Lanes To Close

The state Division of Highways announced today that traffic will be reduced to one lane east and westbound from the west gate of San Quentin Prison to the Larkspur City limits tomorrow from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. to permit widening and realignment of the roadway.

Sheriff Turned Down On Filling Vacancies

Marin County supervisors yesterday rejected a request from Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos to fill three vacant positions which he earlier had promised to leave open in order to absorb deputies when the new department of corrections takes over the honor farm. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

Mountanos said the positions, vacant because of disabilities, needed to be filled now in order to keep a smooth operation until the January take-over of the honor farm by the new department.

Either that, he said, or overtime would have to be paid starting now and would run to thousands of dollars of extra expense.

The vacant positions are those of Lt. Newall D. Snyder, Sgt. Edward McKamey and Deputy Charles Pinkerton. Snyder and Pinkerton were assigned to the jail and McKamey to the Kentfield substation.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, angered by the request, said the sheriff had promised last month that the three vacant positions would be used to absorb deputies at the honor farm who will be replaced by "correctional officers" in January.

"You're trying to put us in a box so that on Jan. 1 we can't establish the department of corrections," Baptiste said, explaining that a full staff in the sheriff's department in January would put the board in the position of having to fire deputies.

"You assured us that by attrition your department would be down 10 positions," Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said. "You're asking us to hire men we are going to have to fire in six months and I don't want families in here again like a year or two ago."

While Mountanos maintained he would still be able to reduce his 159-man force in January without firings, he also suggested the board take another look at creating the department of corrections.

"If the board had more information on how these things operate, there would be a third vote to change it," the sheriff said, adding "I'm just trying to enlighten the board."

Bella Aaron, director of criminal-justice planning, caught a salvo from Baptiste at the end of the discussion.

"You guys are not going to turn this around, Bella," Baptiste said bitterly.

"Turn what around?" she responded.

Mrs. Aaron, who along with the sheriff has questioned creation of the department of corrections, later told Baptiste she didn't like being accused of things "I'm not involved in."

Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

REPORT — Referred the 1972-73 Grand Jury report to various department heads for response to findings and criticisms.

NAME CHANGE — Changed the name of a portion of Palma Way in Tamalpais Valley to Browning Street.

FAIR — Rejected the request of the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin to close Inverness Way in Inverness on Aug. 11 and 12 for a street fair. The closing was turned down because it would block access to the community's fire station.

LAND — Returned to the planning commission a four-lot land division of the Samuel Schneiter property on Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley until a development plan is drafted showing placement of three duplex buildings.

AMENDMENT — Amended the county's zoning code to allow junkyards, dumps and storage of building materials in agricultural zones.

RESOLUTION — Approved unanimously a resolution urging Gov. Ronald Reagan to reconvene the Legislature to lift the new sales tax increase and to decide how the state's $800,000 surplus should be used.

COMMISSION — Approved unanimously a resolution urging the governor to reinstate $250,000 in the state budget for the new coastal conservation commission.

Waldheim Offers To Go To Mideast

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said yesterday that the Security Council cannot expect debate on the Middle East crisis to bring peace between Arabs and Israel.

He offered to go personally to the Middle East if the situation warrants it.

$17.9 Million Rate Hike Granted Utility Company

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An interim rate increase of $17,954,000 was granted to Pacific Gas and Electric Co. yesterday by the California Public Utilities Commission so the utility can pass on increased costs of Canadian natural gas to consumers.

The hike will cost the average California homeowner about 13 cents a month.

PG&E in February asked for a $46.8 million hike to offset what is claimed would be increases of $19.4 million for California-produced natural gas and $27.4 million for Canadian gas by July 1.

In preliminary hearings the utility's figures were disputed by the PUC staff, which claimed only $17.9 million would be needed for increased costs of Canadian gas.

In future hearings PG&E will have the opportunity to try to prove the need for further increases.

Ransom Claimed In Kidnap Case

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A Marxist guerrilla organization said yesterday that it kidnaped John R. Thompson, a Firestone Rubber Company executive, and the firm paid a $3 million "revolutionary tax" to free him.

Meanwhile, informed sources said other guerrillas are seeking payment of a $6 million ransom for the release of British financer Charles A. Lockwood, who was kidnaped more than a month ago.

Peronist guerrillas said they are holding the British financier, but gave no other details.

To Moscow

Dollar Rises But Rumors Still Fly

LONDON (UPI) — The rebounding American dollar climbed upward today for the third consecutive day on world money markets. But signs of uncertainty crept in.

"Trading is still nervous with no evidence of any central bank intervention," said a dealer for the London brokerage firm of Samuel Montagu.

The dollar actually slipped back slightly in midday trading in Paris and Brussels. On most other markets, however, the dollar continued a slow climb after months of continual slides.

Dealers said today's improvement in dollar rates was fuelled by last night's announcement of a massive $6.25 billion line of credit for the U.S. federal reserve board, available for use to prop up the dollar as needed.

The "swap" arrangement, by which the United States can borrow foreign currencies for use to buy dollars, was agreed at the weekend meeting of central bankers in Basel, Switzerland.

Dealers and bankers were at odds as to whether government banks actually have stepped into the markets or whether they were keeping intervention in reserve.

"The central banks did intervene on the market yesterday to help save the dollar," said a bank official in Paris. Dealers elsewhere said there was no firm evidence of this.

"So far we have seen no evidence in Frankfurt that any central bank has intervened," said one banker at a large American bank in Germany. "But it's the guessing that they might that seems to count."

The "guessing," and the knowledge of that $6.25 billion in reserve, pushed the dollar sharply upward at the opening of markets today. But by midday there was a pause in the climb, and dollar quotations slipped fractionally down in Paris —to about 4.15 francs — and Brussels —to 37.075 Belgian francs.

The United States believes the dollar is undervalued on world markets and will eventually return to its proper value. In the meantime it has been reluctant to dip into its $13 billion reserves, of which $10.5 billion is Fort Knox gold.

Another factor helping the dollar was a suggestion by former Deputy Treasury Secretary Charles E. Walker that the United States sell $1 billion in gold to help depress the price of gold on world markets. Traditionally gold prices soar as dollars drop.

China today changed its mind about yesterday's revaluation of the Renminbi and readjusted the currency almost to its previous level.

The Bank of China dropped its official exchange rate today to 37.95 renminbi (formerly called the Yuan) per 100 Hong Kong dollars. The move devalued the Renminbi by 4.84 per cent and restored it almost to the level it was before yesterday's 5.23 per cent revaluation.

Petaluma Centers Set For Teeners

The Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association members agreed last night to organize four recreation centers for teenagers.

Meeting with Petaluma Recreation Director James R. Raymond, 35 association members agreed to work to establish drop-in centers at Casa Grande Junior-Senior High School, La Tercera School, Kenilworth Recreation Center and the Petaluma Boys' Club.

Raymond said the first center might be opened at Casa Grande since the gymnasium there is already open to youngsters on Fridays from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

Spectacular Pier Blaze In Tiburon

Firemen on land and water battled a fire that broke out on the old Northwestern Pacific Railroad pier in Tiburon last night, but flames charred about one third of the rotting structure before they could be doused.

Flames, black smoke and sparks filled the sky above the pier in the 1900 block of Paradise Drive when firemen arrived after the 9:18 p.m. alarm.

Five Coast Guard cutters and one San Francisco fireboat played water on flames that broke out on the end of the pier, abandoned by the railroad in 1967.

Tiburon firemen had a difficult time reaching the blaze, but ventured about half way onto the pier where they shot a stream of water pumped from the bay. Landblocked fire fighters also stood guard lest sparks ignite dry hillsides or nearby buildings, but the fire did not spread.

The Tiburón Fire Department sent three engines and a smaller truck to the scene. About 32 men manned the six fireboats that fought the blaze from the water. The fire was put out about an hour after firemen arrived.

Fire officials said that the blaze may have been started by a cigarette discarded by a fisherman.

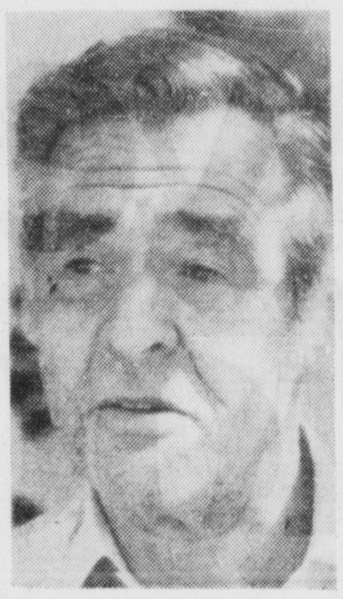
The pier had been declared off limits by the railroad after it was abandoned, but fisherman have been known to sneak onto the creaking structure that at one time was a center of Tiburon commerce, where railroad cars loaded barges that carried cargo to San Francisco and the East Bay.

The dollar amount damage to the pier was undetermined today, fire officials reported.

Eye Operations

NEW YORK (UPI) — Labor columnist Victor Riesel, who was blinded 17 years ago by sulfuric acid splashed in his eyes as he stepped out of a Manhattan restaurant by a gangster, is undergoing a series of operations to restore sight in one eye.

Actor Robert Ryan Dies In New York



ROBERT RYAN
Dies At 59

NEW YORK (UPI) — Actor Robert Ryan, who worked as a sandhog, a sewer digger and a ranch hand before attaining success as a Hollywood leading man, died today at New York Hospital. He was 59.

Although hospital authorities declined to reveal the cause of death, Ryan had a history of cancer problems and had undergone an operation for the affliction last year.

His cancer difficulties first surfaced in 1970 when he complained of fatigue. Hospitalization revealed inoperable cancer of the lymph glands and the actor underwent four months of cobalt treatment before returning to work.

Speaking of his illness, Ryan said "at first it's a shock; then you become reconciled. I am much more tolerant now that I know I'm on borrowed time. I see trees and flowers and pretty girls. I see beauty that I used to be oblivious to. Actually life is much better enjoying it day to day."

Ryan was born on Nov. 11, 1913, the son of an immigrant Irish contractor and English mother. He was educated at Loyola Academy in Chicago and at Dartmouth College where he excelled in athletics as well as academic achievement.

He graduated in 1932 with a bachelor's degree but this was in the midst of the depression and Ryan, a big man, "bummed" around the world, stoking coal on Africa-bound freighters, tunneling under rivers and undertaking a wide assortment of jobs.

After playing bit parts in summer theater in the New York area, he went to Hollywood to study in Max Reinhardt's workshop. He came back to New York and in 1941 got his big opportunity as a leading man to Tallulah Bankhead in "Clash By Night."

One year later he made his motion picturre debut in "Bombardier." From then on he apppeared in top film roles interrupted by stage musicals including the title role in 1962 of Irving Berlin's musical, "Mr. President." Early this year he announced plans to co-star with Burt Lancaster in an original screenplay about two men who plot the assassination of John F. Kennedy, titled "Executive Action," and based on The Warren Commission report.

Ryan's wife of 33 years, Jessica, died in 1972. The couple had three children, Timothy, Cheyney and Lisa.

Hearing Set For Socking Officer

A Marin City man who, sheriff's deputies said, socked a deputy in the eye Friday pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of assault and battery on an officer.

Judge Gary W. Thomas then set a preliminary hearing for July 17 for Jimmy Lee Hogges, 26, of 49 Cole Drive, Apt. 2.

Deputies said he was causing a disturbance at the apartment of Annie Smith, who lives in the same building when a deputy arrived to ask him to leave.

Instead, officers said, Hogges kicked and hit Miss Smith, then socked a deputy in the eye when he tried to intervene.

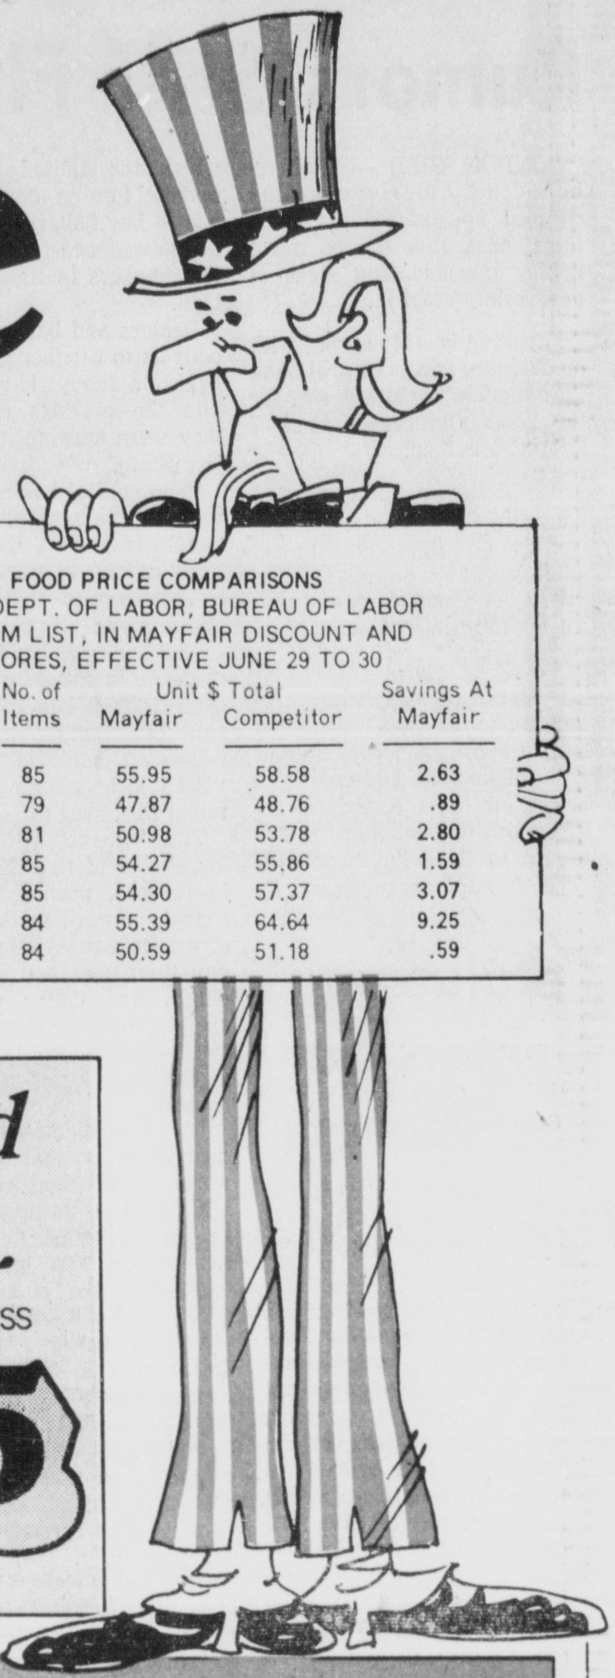
At Mayfair
You save more on food



Uncle Sam helps us prove that food cost less at Mayfair last week than at 7 other top chains

Again last week, we compared food prices with the major supermarkets in this area.

"Specials", "total discount", and most other kinds of prices were compared. In this survey of June 29 to 30, Mayfair's overall food prices were lower than seven other top supermarket chains'.

To try to be fair, the comparisons were again with Uncle Sam's list, the same full list of items that the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, uses every month to measure food prices as part of the cost of living.

These comparisons show you could have saved from $.59 to $9.25 on the $50 to $60 worth of basic foods in this list.

With the high cost of living these days, really, can you afford not to buy your food at Mayfair?

ROTISSERIE-roasted turkey is a taste-tempting and inexpensive idea for outdoor summer eating. And this easy to prepare bird has the highest protein content of any popular meat.

Turkey New Star Of Barbecue Stage

Bursting onto the weekend barbecue stage comes a new star — roast turkey. And no wonder. It's so simple and easy to do on an electric rotisserie or a garden grill with rotary spit.

Once the bird is balanced and anchored, there's little to do as it cooks except to brush it occasionally with oil to keep the skin from cracking.

But there is, of course, work to be done before you start that turkey to revolving on the spit.

It begins with buying a fresh or frozen turkey the right size. In markets you'll find that they come in varying sizes from six pounds up. For rotisserie roasting an eight to 12-pound bird is a good size for it will cook in three to four hours and will satisfy eight turkey lovers with, hopefully, some leftovers.

If you buy a frozen turkey make things easy for yourself. Buy it two or three days ahead and let it thaw slowly in its casing on a tray in the refrigerator. (In an emergency, you can thaw it in a few hours by submerging it in cold water, and changing the water frequently.)

While you are buying the turkey, better bring home a bag of charcoal, too, in case you are using a garden grill with revolving spit. You will need to have a good bed of coals under that bird while it is cooking.

Once the turkey is thawed, remove the plastic casing, take out the packet of giblets from its interior, then wipe dry inside and out with paper towels.

Rinse inside with a tablespoon of wine if you wish, and sprinkle generously with seasoned salt and pepper. Don't stuff a turkey for rotisserie roasting, but put in a few sprigs of fresh herbs or sprinkle with poultry seasoning if you like. Try to time it so that the bird can be put to cook as soon as it is thawed. Or, at least refrigerate it until you are set to go.

Skewer flap of neck skin to back. Also skewer wings flat to sides, or tie them in place with white cord around the body. Tie legs together. Adjust rotisserie rod and forks and do a test run to see that weight is balanced properly. Brush bird with oil and turn on the current. If you are using a garden grill, the charcoal must of course have burned down to gray-red coals.

During the final half hour of roasting, it's a good idea to brush the turkey with melted butter or margarine mixed with soy sauce or Worcestershire sauce to taste or with your favorite barbecue sauce thinned a bit with wine or water or giblet broth. Or try this:

BASIC BRUSH-ON SAUCE

⅔ cup salad oil
⅓ cup lemon juice or vinegar
3 tablespoons soy sauce
1 teaspoon sugar

Mix well. Taste, then add other seasonings if you wish. You may like more soy sauce, or a little garlic or onion powder, or some grated fresh ginger root. Makes about 1¼ cups. Apply with a new small nylon paint brush.

CONTINENTAL-GRILLED BREAST STEAKS OF TURKEY

1 turkey breast roast, fresh or frozen
1 cup red wine
¼ cup olive oil
1 sliced onion
1 teaspoon salt
6 peppercorns
1 crushed bay leaf
2 teaspoons fresh chopped parsley
½ teaspoon oregano

Have butcher cut turkey breast roast crosswise into ¾-to 1-inch thick steaks. (Frozen breasts can be cut also.) Thaw when ready to use.

Combine remaining ingredients in glass bowl; pour over turkey steaks, cover and marinate 1 to 24 hours, turning frequently. Drain steaks and cook quickly on both sides over hot coals, allowing about 10 minutes per side. Brush occasionally with marinade, if desired. Makes 1½ cups marinade.

Bananas And Oranges Add Fresh Taste To A Salad

Bananas are an interesting addition to chicken salad. They give a subtle flavor and texture contrast as well as supplying important vitamins and minerals.

BENGALESE SALAD

2 cups diced cooked chicken
1 cup sliced celery
½ cup scored cucumber slices
1 orange, peeled and sliced
1 large banana
½ cup peanuts, chopped chutney dressing, watercress

In a large bowl, combine chicken, celery and cucumber slices. Cut orange slices in half and add to bowl. Cut banana into large chunks and add along with peanuts. Toss together lightly. Pour chutney dressing over salad and mix well. Spoon salad onto bed of watercress. Makes 4 servings.

CHUTNEY DRESSING

½ cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons chopped chutney
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon seasoned salt
Dash pepper

Combine all ingredients and chill about an hour to let flavors blend.

Prepare Your Own Chips For Barbecue

The "outdoors or charcoal" taste of food cooked on a grill is created by fats dripping onto hot coals. The resulting smoke penetrates the food and gives it an appetizing flavor.

For an unusual "outdoorsy" flavor at your next cookout, soak hickory chips or small twigs from wild cherry or sugar maple overnight in water. Wrap the chips or twigs in foil, and punch holes in it.

For a deep smoke taste, place the wrapped chips directly on the coals or briquettes when cooking begins. For a more subtle hickory flavor, add the chips directly to the coals just before the food is done.

Either way, the food will have a tasty, hickory smoked flavor.

Freeze Your Own Ice Cream

As a special treat this summer, recapture one of the simpler pleasures of the "good old days" by making your own homemade ice cream. You'll need an ice cream freezer (the old-fashioned hand-cranked variety or a "less-work-for-father" motor-driven electric model) plus plenty of crushed ice and coarse rock salt. When the crank refuses to budge one more inch, out will come the dasher covered with the creamiest, most delicious ice cream you ever tasted.

Start out the season with everybody's favorite, "Old-Fashioned Chocolate Ice Cream". In the interest of "less work for mother," this very easy but super-tasting chocolate ice cream recipe features canned chocolate syrup as the key ingredient. If you adore choclate, but also can't resist butter-pecan, team up the two, a la the variation at the end of the recipe.

OLD-FASHIONED CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 cup milk
¾ cup sugar
1½ cups (1-pound can) canned chocolate flavored syrup
2 cups light cream
2 cups whipping cream
2 tablespoons vanilla

Soften gelatin in cold water in saucepan. Add milk and sugar; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin and sugar are dissolved. Add chocolate syrup; cool. Add creams and vanilla. Freeze in an ice cream freezer according to manufacturer's directions. Two quarts ice cream.

Chocolate-Butter Pecan Variation: Saute ¾ cup (3-ounce can) coarsely chopped pecans in 2 tablespoons butter over medium heat for 3 minutes. Add to cooled chocolate mixture just before freezing.

MELLOW BANANA-MARSHMALLOW ICE CREAM

3 cups milk
1 package (10 oz.) large marshmallows
2 cups pureed ripe bananas
3 eggs
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1½ cups sugar
3 cups whipping cream
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped maraschino cherries (optional)

In a 3-quart saucepan heat milk and marshmallows, stirring constantly, until marshmallows are melted. Cool. Combine banana puree and lemon juice. In a large mixing bowl beat eggs until foamy. Gradually add sugar; beat until thickened. Add cream, vanilla and salt; mix thoroughly. Blend in marshmallow mixture, bananas and maraschino cherries. Chill. Churn-freeze. Yield 1 gallon.

PHILADELPHIA STYLE VANILLA ICE CREAM

6 cups milk
4 cups whipping cream
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients in freezer can. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Chill. Churn-freeze. Yield approximately 1 gallon.

Barbecue Safety Suggestions Given

Going to barbecue on your balcony, out in the backyard or at the beach this summer season? If so, the National Safety Council has these suggestions for safer summer cookouts.

To start a charcoal fire, use wood chips or shavings, or an electric starter. If a liquid is used, make sure its for that purpose only — never use gasoline or lighter fluid. Also, never add starter fluid once the charcoal is lighted due to the danger of flare ups.

Here's Toast To Marin
by Al, Roland, and Dick
from The Villa WINE CELLAR

SALUTE! From Al Lovi, Roland DiGrazia and Dave Raffi, owners

Thanks Marin for the greatest of Grand Openings. Your response was far beyond our expectations — and our expectations were quite high. But why should we be surprised? Where else would you find people with the knowledge to recognize fine wines, where else would you find so many that delight in the adventure of new tastes and where we knew you would appreciate our cellar decor, shopping ease and old fashioned personal service. Anyway, Marin, Al, Roland and Dave thank you . . . and hope to see you often.

Ever Try Cooking In Your Refrigerator?

By JUNE BIBB
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

When the thermometer hits the top, cook in the refrigerator. Besides helping you keep your cool, it can mean a do-it-ahead summer existence for the cook.

From soup to dessert, if not to nuts, here are some recipes that offer a less than run-of-the-mill approach to cool summer entertaining.

Chill a soup. This tangy gazpacho can be served in frosted bowls or cups for an added "cool" touch. Place glass or crystal bowls or cups in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator 30 minutes before serving this Spanish cooler, which must be prepared at least two to four days ahead for flavors to blend.

GAZPACHO

2 cans (14½ oz.) sliced tomatoes
½ cup each green pepper, celery, green onions, and peeled cucumber, finely chopped
2 cloves garlic, pressed
3 tablespoons wine vinegar
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 can (12 oz.) vegetable juice cocktail
1 can (10½ oz.) condensed beef broth
Hot pepper seasoning to taste

Drain liquid from tomatoes into large glass bowl or pitcher. Chop tomatoes and add to juice with remaining ingredients. Blend well. Cover and chill 24-48 hours, stirring occasionally.

For a crowd, here's an appetizer that can double as a main course salad when served on a bed of lettuce surrounded by fresh cooked asparagus, and chilled, deviled eggs. Or serve it in a ring of cantaloupe or honeydew melon.

SHRIMP WITH ORANGES

3 pounds large shrimp, cooked and deveined
2 large onions, thinly sliced
1 can (11 oz.) mandarin oranges

1 cup cider vinegar
¼ cup catsup
¾ cup olive oil
½ cup lemon juice
1 clove garlic, pressed
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon black pepper
3 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons mustard seed
¼ cup green pepper flakes
1 teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon cayenne
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Separate onion slices. Add shrimp and drained oranges. Blend remaining ingredients and pour over shrimp mixture. Cover and marinate in the refrigerator for at least four days. Drain and serve. (Serves six as a main course, 12 as an appetizer.)

For versatility plus, try this cheese ring that can be filled with seafood or chicken salad, sliced fresh vegetables, or a variety of fresh fruits, such as strawberries, bananas, green grapes, plums, or peaches.

CHEESE RING

1 package lemon gelatin
1½ cups boiling water
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup mayonnaise
½ cup milk
¾ cup cheddar cheese, grated, or cottage cheese
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon onion, finely chopped
⅓ cup pimiento, finely chopped
Dash of red pepper

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add vinegar and salt. Refrigerate until slightly thickened. Add milk and beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until fluffy. Refrigerate again until mixture slightly thickens. Fold in remaining ingredients. Pour into ring mold and refrigerate until congealed and ready to serve. (This may also be molded in individual molds and served on a slice of pineapple for "mini salads.")

And for a cool ending to a summer meal, this sherbet-type frost provides a tangy touch. Dress it up by topping it with additional whipped cream, coconut, and fruit.

Hard Times' Recipes Are Tasty

Living well on less was Diane MacMillan's theme for her Kitchen Time in Marin show on KTIM radio this week, with recipes from the "Hard Times Cookbook" by Gloria Vollmayer.

FAT CAT FRITATTA
(Eggs, zucchini and cheese)

6 eggs, beaten
2 small or 1 large zucchini
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons olive oil
¼ pound Monterey Jack Cheese
Salt and pepper

Cut zucchini in half; thinly slice lengthwise. Saute in 1 tablespoon olive oil, just to take off crispness. Remove from skillet; add 1 tablespoon olive oil. Mix eggs, milk, salt and pepper and pour into the skillet. Cook over low heat until mixture is soft on top. Remove from heat. Spread zucchini on top, cover with sliced cheese. Place skillet in 450 degree oven and bake until cheese has melted. Serves 4 to 6.

COUPON CLIPPERS CURRY
(Hamburger in Indian Curry Sauce)

2 pounds ground beef
3-4 green apples, peeled, chopped
1 large onion, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons curry powder
1 tablespoon chili powder
¼ cup sherry
1 beef bouillon cube
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 cup raisins
Salt and pepper

Brown the ground meat; set aside. Saute onion in melted butter adding flour, apples and wine. Cook until apples are tender. Now add the meat, tomatoes, raisins and bouillon, and water if necessary. Simmer 1½ to 2 hours. Serve over rice. Serves 6 to 8.

Wedding Anniversary Is A Golden Event For Austins

Former president of the College of Marin Ward H. Austin and his wife Miriam, celebrated thier golden wedding anniversary June 30 in Larkspur with more than 140 friends and relatives including their first great-granddaughter and Austin's two brothers and a sister.

The Austins met while students at the University of California at Los Angeles in 1919 and were married June 30, 1923 in the home of Mrs. Austin's parents in Monterey Park.

The Austins have three children, Ward Austin Jr of Phoenix, Ariz., Dr. Carl F. Austin of Inyokern and Mrs. Lorna Brown of Livingston, N.J. They have 11 grandchildren.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Austin are natives of Kansas. Mrs. Austin was graduated from the University of California College of Commerce. She taught mathematics at Tamalpais High School and was active in Campfire Girls, the Community Chest, Red Cross and the United Fund.

Her husband served with the College of Marin for 31 years — eight as an engineering instructor, five as teaching vice president and 18 as president before his retirement in 1961.

He was graduated from the University of California in 1925 with a degree in electrical engineering. He later went on to obtain a master's in electrical engineering and is a registered professional engineer.

Austin is affiliated with the Masonic Lodge of San Rafael, the Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo, the San Anselmo Rotary Club of which he was president in 1954-55, the California Association of School Administrators, the California Society of Professional Engineers and its Marin County chapter and Phi Delta Kappa, honorary professional fraternity for men in education.

He was one of 15 prominent Marin residents to be elected to the Marin County Board of Freeholders, which drew up a proposed county charter. He was also a member of the Marin County Board of Education and the Larkspur City Council. In 1961, he was named the outstanding Marin citizen.

The Austins are avid travellers and their trips around the world have included tours of Alaska where they climbed on Mount McKinley, the South Pacific, Mexico, Central America and Germany where Austin served during World War I.

They also enjoy hiking, fishing and photography.

A Future Watchword In Education

NEW YORK (UPI) — Put the term "values clarification" in your notebook. The National Education Association says the term means a value education belongs to children.

The term soon may become a watchword in the nation's schools.

Such was the consensus of principals attending a recent convention of the National Association of Elementary School Principals in Detroit. Values clarification, humanist Sidney B. Simon told a convention session, means "designing a curriculum around kids' minds."

It means "faith in the process of inquiry . . . creating a climate that allows kids to ask about things they feel." It means, Simon says, helping children choose their own values instead of imposing preconceived values upon them.

HOSPITAL PROJECT

March Of Dimes Gives Records For Families

Mrs. Melvin Hammond, education chairman for the North Bay March of Dimes Chapter, delivered 1,000 copies of a family medical record form to Mrs. Milton Krueger, chairman of the Council of Volunteers for Marin General Hospital yesterday as part of a statewide program called "Operation Heritage."

The jointly sponsored program between the California Hospital Association volunteers division, and the California March of Dimes, enables hospital auxiliaries belonging to the California Hospital Association to place the family medical record in the hands of each maternity patient in their respective hospitals. The family medical record is a simple, comprehensive form for recording vital family health information.

Mrs. Hammond has also presented a recently published "Atlas and Compendium of Birth Defects," compiled by Daniel Bergsma, M.D., head of the National Foundation-March of Dimes medical department, to the Marin General Hospital library, the College of Marin School of nursing and the Marin County Public Health Department.

The compendium describes more than 1,000 birth defects in 1,006 pages, accompanied by 641 illustrations. The names of each syndrome are given in English, French, German and Spanish. The volume represents 372 contributors from 22 countries.

Because of March of Dimes participation in the publication, the North Bay March of Dimes Chapter is able to donate the volume to some institutions and to offer the compendium to individual physicians at a reduced cost, according to Mrs. Hammond.

The Fare Is Pretty Fancy At School

NEW YORK (UPI) — What's unusual in the school lunch program? The National Education Association answers by telling about the one-teacher Conchas Dam School in northeastern New Mexico.

The 31 students dine on "type A" school lunches each day in a private dining room. Tables are set with white linens and seasonal centerpieces.

This is all because the school has no food facilities. It also is too far away from other schools to share a lunchroom. As a result, the students have been invited to eat their meals at a private lodge nearby.

The lodge chef even drives one of the two lodge buses that transport the students to their lunchtime treat.

Physician Count

BONN (UPI) — There is a doctor for every 620 West German citizens, according to figures released by the Ministry of Public Health. The average age of doctors in the nation is 50 to 60 years.

Show The Mean Neighbor That Your Kids Aren't That Bad

DEAR HELEN:

We have three children and live in a neighborhood made up mostly of older people. Everyone on our block likes our kids — they have even complimented us on how well-behaved they are — except our next door neighbor. He makes life miserable for us.

He stands in his yard and scowls at our children, tells them how mean they are (when they are playing nicely on our own lawn). We keep them as far away from him as possible, but once in a while a ball rolls over on his property. He then throws it in the weeds across the street or in his trash can.

To make matters worse, the only sidewalk in the area starts in front of his house and goes down the block. Naturally the kids want to skate on it, but they must walk around his house. If they get too close to his treasured lawn, look out! He shoots dogs with sling shots and threatens children.

We've tried everything to get along with him. Have taken food over when he or his wife were ill (they're usually in good health), and even run errands for them. They're nice at these times, but let the children or our dog venture outdoors, and he's out protecting his feudal land and yelling, even though they haven't come close to it.

I've told the kids to ignore him, but they've been taught to respect and mind their elders, and he upsets them. I don't want them to see their father and me in a fight with a neighbor, but what else can I do? Besides, fighting would probably only make matters worse. — HELP

P.S. Please change this so he won't recognize himself.

DEAR HELP:

Why not put your cards on the table? Tell this neighbor you can't take his harrassment, and so (though you'd rather not) you've found a buyer for your house — a family of eight, including two teenage boys with motorcycles, four pre-teeners, two dogs and two cats.

Prove your intentions by inviting such a horde over for the day — and encourage noise!

When he realizes how much worse things will be if he doesn't humanize he may make a sudden change.

DEAR HELEN:

A woman down the street lets her little pre-schooler spend most of her time at my house playing with our Cheryl, while she goes golfing and gadding with her friends (who wouldn't think to include me in their parties.)

Cheryl is never invited to Terry's house because her mother isn't home that much. The mother pops in occasionally for coffee and to brag about her life, but mainly I'm excluded from her crowd. I'm only good enough to babysit her daughter (without pay).

Call me a soft touch, but I can't be mean. Besides, Cheryl and Terry are best friends. How do I get it across that I'm being used? — DON'T KNOW HOW TO SAY "NO"

DEAR DKHTSN:

Why not call this neighbor first thing tomorrow morning and tell her you need a rest, so "Can the children play at your house today?" Before she answers, add, "And Cheryl can be down there all day Sunday too, as my husband's taking me out of town."

If you get a firm "No!", well, you've learned how to say it. Next time, make your rates either 75 cents an hour, or "equal time." — H.

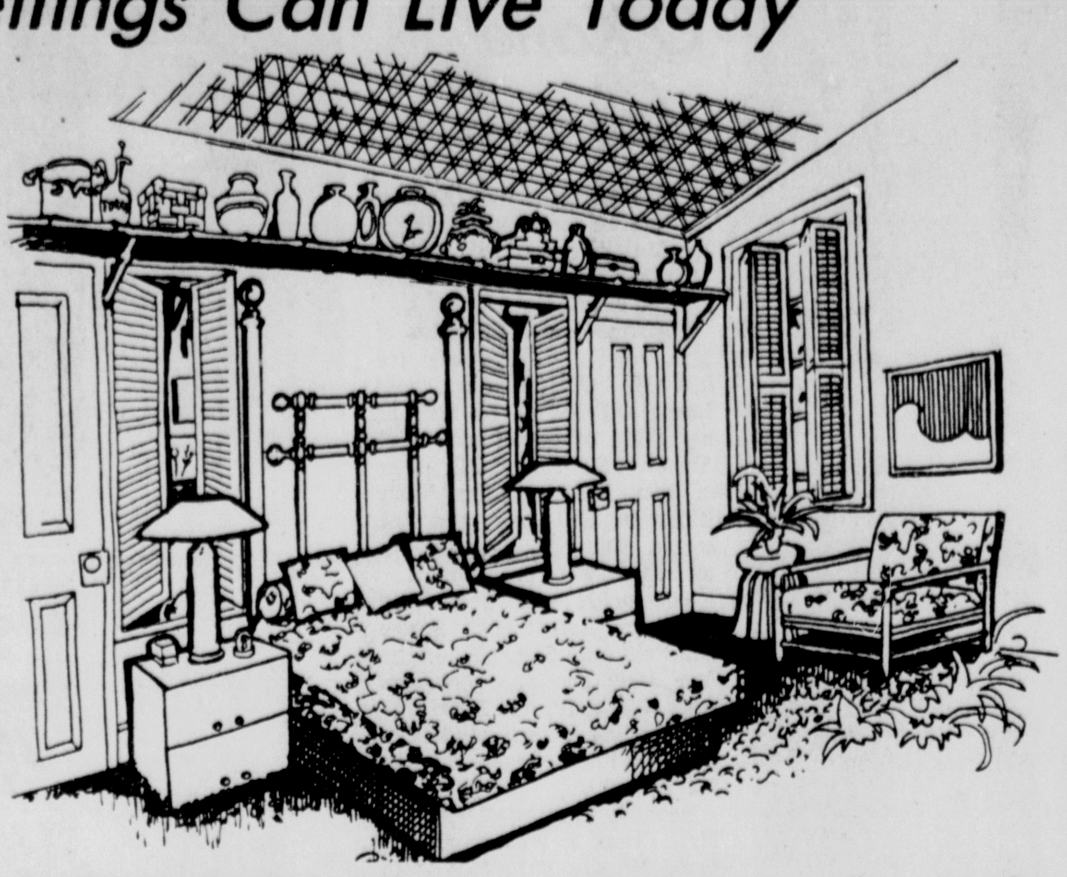
Old Dwellings Can Live Today

By MARILYN HOFFMAN
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service
(First in a series)



SAVED BY PAINT — Extensive painting rescues this bedroom that is almost as tall as it is wide and cluttered with too many doors. The tall brass headboard is painted on the wall as are the half-open shutters that make two mirrors look like open windows at either side.

(Christian Science Monitor sketch)

Every day people are buying old houses and transforming them into homes that live for today.

The investment is, for the most part, a practical one. It provides the rare luxury of space and privacy and spare rooms in which to spread out the family's activities.

Unfortunately, old-fashioned vintage houses, with all their charm and quaintness, also come equipped with such architectural horrors as too many doors, unwanted pipes, dark corners, murky hallways, ill-proportioned walls, badly placed windows and ugly, too-high ceilings.

Recently, Sherwin-Williams, the Cleveland paint company, now waging a campaign to beautify American interiors, converted a totally undistinguished 104-year-old farmhouse in High Point, N.C. into a happy, sunny, livable, lovable dwelling that any family would adore on sight. The house had every fault listed above plus a few others.

THE COMPANY pulled off its little miracle with paint, varnish, vinyl wallcoverings, an assortment of old and new furniture, floor coverings, elbow grease and a raft of ingenious, good ideas.

"If you can't lick 'em," says Joan Gibson, project coordinator, about the house's glaring faults, "you can at least outwit 'em." She has done it with color and by painting some things in and painting other things out, with fool-the-eye effects and outright camouflage. She says a capacious old house can stand lots of bravura "daring decorating" to give it a new place in the sun and in the affections.

A touch of whimsy, she maintains, can also cover a multitude of homey oddities. Or, she says, you can sometimes accentuate the negative to great advantage.

Her idea was to illustrate, in an old house, that it is possible to restore and renew rooms without making major structural changes. Furnishings she chose came from auctions, Sherwin-Williams stores, the old barn out back, dime stores, and other retail outlets.

The exterior and 13 rooms of the house have been recycled for today's living by means of $5,000 worth of paint, plywood, wallcoverings, carpeting, self-adhesive vinyls, and the like. Washable, strippable vinyl wallcovering was used often, because it was cheaper to cover up cracked walls than to do a costly replastering job.

BACKGROUNDS ARE, after all, what set the mood of a house, Miss Gibson maintains, and the kind of change that delights and stimulates can emerge most quickly from a paint bucket or a roll of metallic wallcovering in an exciting pattern.

She also loves the fresh outdoor-garden effects gained by the use of woven cane, bamboo, and flower clusters on the walls. More often than not she gives the ceiling of a room the most dazzling wallpaper pattern of all! Some enormously high ceilings, like the one in father's downstairs study, get pulled visually downwards through use of a dark brown paint.

But to begin at the beginning, a front entrance hall needs what? Warmth, welcome, and brightness. It is produced with a metallic geometric wallcovering that reflects light, a wall arrangement of round, convex mirrors that reflect still more light, gray shag wall-to-wall carpet, light gray trim for woodwork and door panels. A dark Oxford gray is used on the ceiling to lower it visually and to create more intimacy.

The wall of living-room shelves that go from floor to ceiling is made of ready-to-assemble, 12-inch wood turnings. It looks built-in but can be installed in a few hours.

A new self-adhesive vinyl that simulates shiny chrome is used on a round coffee table in the living room. It also wraps the two homemade Parsons tables that support three 13-foot-long planks that were once part of an old grocery-store counter and are now the dining room table.

THE STAGGERED hanging planters that drip greenery in the bay windows of the living room are really stainless steel bowls hung from the ceiling with chains.

In the kitchen, where the ceiling light fixture is a harness hitch whiffletree, four shiny colanders from the dime store are used as shades for the giant clear bulbs. The kitchen table and chairs were purchased, unfinished, for $50 and enameled wine red. The table top has an added flourish — a supergraphic sunflower painted on it freehand.

"In the master bedroom," says Miss Gibson, "we wallpapered the ceiling with a bamboo trellis design, but painted the walls in a plain gray-rose. Since we couldn't afford a real brass bed, we painted an ornate brass headboard right onto the wall, trompe l'oeil style, and even faked shuttered windows either side of it by putting up mirror panels and stenciling on white open shutters."

She calls such tricks "artful illusion." A shelf was hung high above the bed, wall-to-wall, dropped 2½ feet from the ceiling. It has the effect of lowering the ceiling while displaying the family bottle collection.

In a closet-less room for a little girl, unfinished plywood planks were hammered into a wall arrangement to provide open storage shelves and hanging space. Regular bamboo, roll window shades, tinted gold, green , pink, and orange, pull down to veil the shelves and dispense neatly with doors. In this room the walls were papered in a garden of giant flowers, and the ceiling covered in a giant plaid — all in the same hues of yellow, orange, and pink.

Many of Miss Gibson's ideas for this old house, as well as those of Pat Plaxico, A.I.D., and color consultant Nancy Walker, are incorporated in "The House of Ideas" booklet, Volume 3, available from Sherwin-Williams, Cleveland, Ohio, 44101.

Old Dwellings Can Live Today

By MARILYN HOFFMAN

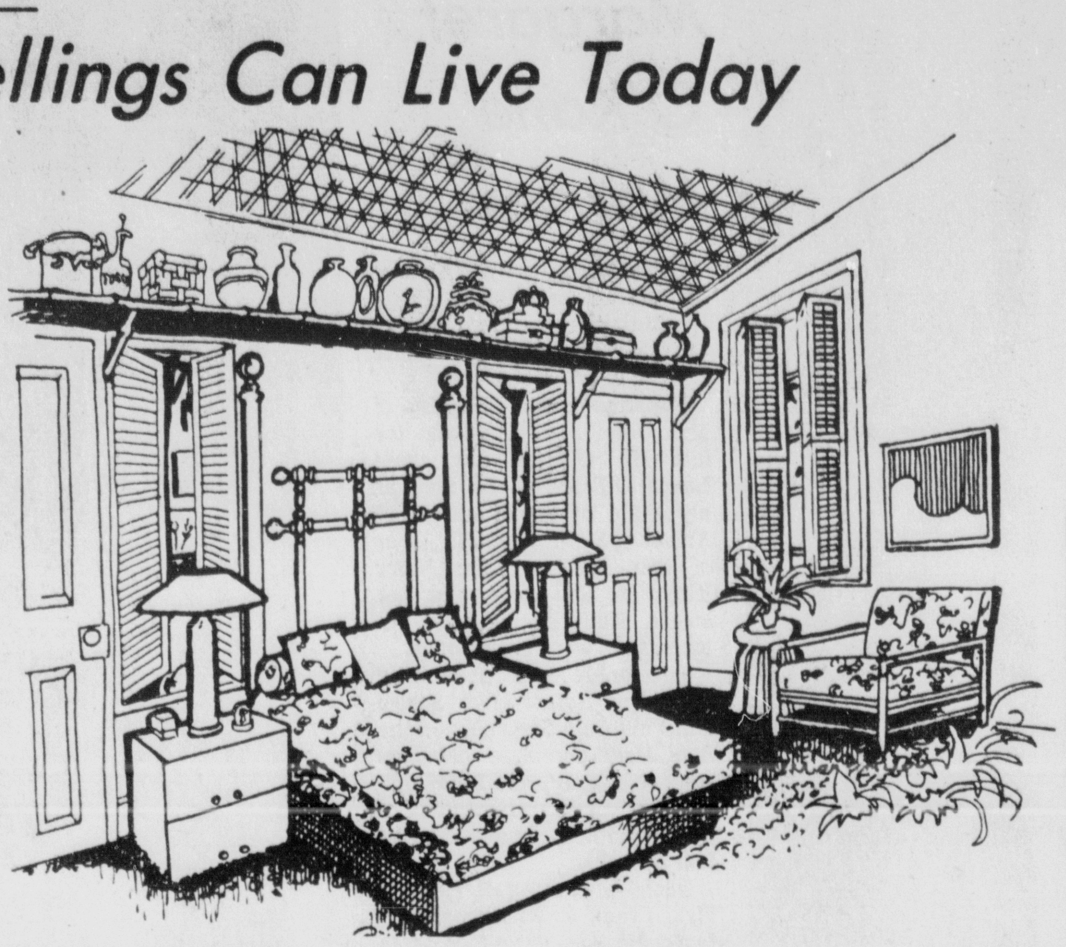
(First in a series)



SAVED BY PAINT — Extensive painting rescues this bedroom that is almost as tall as it is wide and cluttered with too many doors. The tall brass headboard is painted on the wall as are the half-open shutters that make two mirrors look like open windows at either side.

(Christian Science Monitor sketch)

Every day people are buying old houses and transforming them into homes that live for today.

The investment is, for the most part, a practical one. It provides the rare luxury of space and privacy and spare rooms in which to spread out the family's activities.

Unfortunately, old-fashioned vintage houses, with all their charm and quaintness, also come equipped with such architectural horrors as too many doors, unwanted pipes, dark corners, murky hallways, ill-proportioned walls, badly placed windows and ugly, too-high ceilings.

Recently, Sherwin-Williams, the Cleveland paint company, now waging a campaign to beautify American interiors, converted a totally undistinguished 104-year-old farmhouse in High Point, N.C. into a happy, sunny, livable, lovable dwelling that any family would adore on sight. The house had every fault listed above plus a few others.

THE COMPANY pulled off its little miracle with paint, varnish, vinyl wallcoverings, an assortment of old and new furniture, floor coverings, elbow grease and a raft of ingenious, good ideas.

"If you can't lick 'em," says Joan Gibson, project coordinator, about the house's glaring faults, "you can at least outwit 'em." She has done it with color and by painting some things in and painting other things out, with fool-the-eye effects and outright camouflage. She says a capacious old house can stand lots of bravura "daring decorating" to give it a new place in the sun and in the affections.

A touch of whimsy, she maintains, can also cover a multitude of homey oddities. Or, she says, you can sometimes accentuate the negative to great advantage.

Her idea was to illustrate, in an old house, that it is possible to restore and renew rooms without making major structural changes. Furnishings she chose came from auctions, Sherwin-Williams stores, the old barn out back, dime stores, and other retail outlets.

The exterior and 13 rooms of the house have been recycled for today's living by means of $5,000 worth of paint, plywood, wallcoverings, carpeting, self-adhesive vinyls, and the like. Washable, strippable vinyl wallcovering was used often, because it was cheaper to cover up cracked walls than to do a costly replastering job.

BACKGROUNDS ARE, after all, what set the mood of a house, Miss Gibson maintains, and the kind of change that delights and stimulates can emerge most quickly from a paint bucket or a roll of metallic wallcovering in an exciting pattern.

She also loves the fresh outdoor-garden effects gained by the use of woven cane, bamboo, and flower clusters on the walls. More often than not she gives the ceiling of a room the most dazzling wallpaper pattern of all! Some enormously high ceilings, like the one in father's downstairs study, get pulled visually downwards through use of a dark brown paint.

But to begin at the beginning, a front entrance hall needs what? Warmth, welcome, and brightness. It is produced with a metallic geometric wallcovering that reflects light, a wall arrangement of round, convex mirrors that reflect still more light, gray shag wall-to-wall carpet, light gray trim for woodwork and door panels. A dark Oxford gray is used on the ceiling to lower it visually and to create more intimacy.

The wall of living-room shelves that go from floor to ceiling is made of ready-to-assemble, 12-inch wood turnings. It looks built-in but can be installed in a few hours.

A new self-adhesive vinyl that simulates shiny chrome is used on a round coffee table in the living room. It also wraps the two homemade Parsons tables that support three 13-foot-long planks that were once part of an old grocery-store counter and are now the dining room table.

THE STAGGERED hanging planters that drip greenery in the bay windows of the living room are really stainless steel bowls hung from the ceiling with chains.

In the kitchen, where the ceiling light fixture is a harness hitch whiffletree, four shiny colanders from the dime store are used as shades for the giant clear bulbs. The kitchen table and chairs were purchased, unfinished, for $50 and enameled wine red. The table top has an added flourish — a supergraphic sunflower painted on it freehand.

"In the master bedroom," says Miss Gibson, "we wallpapered the ceiling with a bamboo trellis design, but painted the walls in a plain gray-rose. Since we couldn't afford a real brass bed, we painted an ornate brass headboard right onto the wall, trompe l'oeil style, and even faked shuttered windows either side of it by putting up mirror panels and stenciling on white open shutters."

She calls such tricks "artful illusion." A shelf was hung high above the bed, wall-to-wall, dropped 2½ feet from the ceiling. It has the effect of lowering the ceiling while displaying the family bottle collection.

In a closet-less room for a little girl, unfinished plywood planks were hammered into a wall arrangement to provide open storage shelves and hanging space. Regular bamboo, roll window shades, tinted gold, green , pink, and orange, pull down to veil the shelves and dispense neatly with doors. In this room the walls were papered in a garden of giant flowers, and the ceiling covered in a giant plaid — all in the same hues of yellow, orange, and pink.

Many of Miss Gibson's ideas for this old house, as well as those of Pat Plaxico, A.I.D., and color consultant Nancy Walker, are incorporated in "The House of Ideas" booklet, Volume 3, available from Sherwin-Williams, Cleveland, Ohio, 44101.

Young Designers Are A New Breed

By PHYLLIS FELDKAMP
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — "We try to do nice, pure design we're proud of," says Clovis Ruffin, whose clothes for the Kreisler Group retail from $30 to $80 and are aimed at the under-30 woman.

He is one example of the new breed of young ready-to-wear designers, who are proof that the stock characters once associated with Seventh Avenue are disappearing.

The cliche plot line followed a formula: The hero, an aspiring young designer with ideas and ideals, met a crass, commercial manufacturer who proceeded to exploit him and force him to make clothes that he could peddle for a quick profit.

The new breed of designers has kept a firm grasp on its standards and is not prepared to compromise. That fortune smiles today on the younger designer in the garment district, where it would have frowned on him 10 or 20 years ago, may be due to two factors.

First, the designer arrives on the market scene equipped with an educated and realistic view of the business he is entering. No ivory-tower artist, he acquaints himself with every facet of the business.

WILLI Smith of Digits, for example, is only 25 and has been making his own design decisions at that firm since 1969. His younger sister Doris at 20 is learning the sweater business. They might eventually team up and strike out on their own.

And second, the new breed is finding backers who have a higher degree of sophistication and who put greater value on creative ability than did old-time financiers.

"At the helm of the Kreisler Group, the company for which Clovis Ruffin does "Ruffinwear," and for which another bright Young Turk designer, Jonathan Hitchcock, does a contemporary junior line called "Hitch, Ltd.," is 30-year-old Stuart Kreisler. He describes himself as "a Seventh Avenue brat" (his father worked in various capacities on the market.)

KREISLER is sold on the talents of both his young designers and does not believe in interfering with them. The combination at the Kreisler Group must be working well. Although the firm is only two years old, it already has an impressive sales record.

"Today, instead of the couturier sending fashion messages down from the top says Kreisler, "it's the younger, lower-price designers who shoot trends up from the bottom. We just hit the right thing at the right time."

In personality, background, and style, the three designers are individualistic. But they all accept that they are in business and have to make money. They also share a common respect for production machinery. Two of them incorporate the Merrow machine, which makes various finishing stitches, into their work.

Ruffin used the "union special" stitch — so named because it was used to sew together old-fashioned men's long underwear, or union suits — on a dress by that name in his fall collection. Another successful number in this line using the same stitch has been his "sweatshirt dress."

Nearly all of Hitchcock's jerseys are seamed decoratively with Merrow machine stitching. "It's not designing something in your head, and then having it made," he said. "I work around the function of the machinery and the fabric — which is always jersey — and how it works on the body. We make the clothes the way we do because it's functional, but we integrate the machine."

Another article of faith with the new breed is "know your customer." Ruffin, whose idol is Coco Chanel, studies his customer daily.

EVERY MORNING he tucks Ajax, his taffy-colored Brussels griffon, into an embroidered shopping bag from Pakistan. They ride the subway together to work. Ajax is trained not to bark at inconvenient moments.

"I purposely take the subway to see what those girls are wearing," says Mr. Ruffin. "I realize there's a woman who wants to spend $300 for a dress and maybe when I'm 50 I'll do that kind of dress. But you have to commit yourself somewhere. I look at those girls and say, 'This is my customer.'"

He calls himself "an Army brat" and, on occasion, will slip into addressing women older than himself as "M'am." Born in Clovis, N.M. — hence the unusual first name — to an Army family, Mr. Ruffin lived all over Europe on service bases during his childhood.

Film-star handsome (he looks like Paul Newman's younger brother), Ruffin has been the darling of the New York fashion editors ever since — just a little over a year ago — he showed his first snappy wide-striped wrap dresses. This summer, he's into big polka dots.

Philadelphia-born Willi Smith comes from a family he has always thought of as "clothes mad." His mother, his grandmother, and his aunts loved dressing up, and nobody discouraged him when he sat in his room drawing fashion designs. In fact, he says, "The minute I had a pencil in my hand, I was rushed off to art school.

"Everyone else was buying candy but I was saving up .1.20 for fashion magazines," he recalls. "I used to stand in front of the window at Nan Duskin in Philadelphia after junior high school. One day Norman Norell was having a show there. I got up the nerve to walk in and I saw these incredible clothes. From then on, my body was in Philadelphia but my soul was already in New York going to Parsons School of Design."

A NOMINEE for a Coty Award last year and a probable contender again this year, Smith does not design specifically for the black girl. He has made the buying public aware of the special contribution blacks have to make to fashion, though.

"We're more adventurous," he says. "Retailers are starting to pick up on this. The wild fashions you see on black girls on 34th Street in New York might not be the taste the white world is used to, but they're not what fashion is telling you you have to wear."

Circles (the design focus of his "spot" dresses), kidney shapes, and scallops fascinate Jonathan Hitchcock. He even shaves his beard in a scallop pattern. A native of Boston, he attended the school of fine arts there, went to Parsons, then took off for California for four years.

He works on "Hitch, Ltd." with a friend, Jasper Myboe. "When we started our thing about clothes it was the bright colors and shapes for us. We know what we're doing is learning about clothes. We don't use buttons, only snaps, because they become an integral part of the garment. You could say we're working along the lines of Rudi Gernreich and Courreges, who invented modern clothes," he says.

"Gernreich related what he thought about the art of the day to his clothes — which were his art," he continues. "It's not what Courreges designed that matters to us. It's what he thought about clothes.

The Leather Look Is Big For Fall

Leather looks are the big thing for fall as designers look for substitutes for natural fibers. In the coat market polyurethane is one of the big synthetics. It is fabricated to resemble pigskin, smooth calf and lamb-like suede.

Polyurethane is also used to create a fake fur look.

Big This Fall

The Leather Look Is Big For Fall

Leather looks are the big thing for fall as designers look for substitutes for natural fibers. In the coat market polyurethane is one of the big synthetics. It is fabricated to resemble pigskin, smooth calf and lamb-like suede.

Polyurethane is also used to create a fake fur look.

Big This Fall

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Duel of the Sons! Hollywood put men born today into a lot of western movies. What were their hits?

1. YUL BRYNNER, now 58, rides the range like a King. This Russian-born actor was nearly killed as a young man. With a circus in Paris, he fell from the high wire, suffered 47 fractures, was nearly crippled for life. Instead he switched to acting, winning an Academy Award for his performance in (A) "Stagecoach," (B) "The Lawless" or (C) "The Magnificent Seven."

2. TAB HUNTER, 42, has the baby-faced look of Billy the Kid. But he never got the role. In fact, it's odd he was picked for westerns. Born in New York City, he couldn't even ride a horse when he came to Hollywood. Furthermore, his real name was Arthur Gelien, which had to be toughened. Then he was ready to make (A) "Stagecoach," (B) "The Lawless" or (C) "Magnificent Seven."

3. WALTER WANGER spent 10 years producing films before his first western. Critics today consider it a classic! Up to 1939 he was trying with pictures about show business, politics, romance, and the South Seas. Even though the picture was remade in 1966, the original with John Wayne still remains the best. Wanger's contribution called (A) "Stagecoach," (B) "The Lawless" or (C) "Magnificent Seven."

4. THOMAS MITCHELL starred in Hollywood for 25 years. He could portray everything from prison warden to successful politician. Yet it wasn't until his first role in a western the Motion Picture Academy awarded him an Oscar for best supporting actor. The picture was (A) "Stagecoach," (B) "The Lawless" or (C) "Magnificent Seven."

Sometimes The Bidding Is Used To Indicate A Line Of Defense

As a rule, a bid is supposed to be a prediction of what you can make in the play of the cards. Sometimes you can use a bid for another purpose: to indicate a line of defense to your partner. (You'll see many fancy bids of this kind if you kibitz at the national tournament at the Washington, D.C., Sheraton Park Hotel, July 20-29.)

TEAM PLAN

When today's hand was played in a recent team match, one player who held the East cards raised hearts and thought he had done his full duty. He had missed his big chance.

At that table, South got to six spades and made it. West led hearts and continued the suit. South ruffed, drew trumps and led the king of clubs. The bad break showed up, and South was able to handle the clubs without further trouble.

STOPS SLAM

At the other table, East made a cue bid of four clubs instead of raising hearts. He knew that the hand belonged to the enemy. He couldn't outbid them, but he could indicate the best defense.

At this table, South was cautious enough to stop at five spades, but his caution didn't help him. Even that contract was defeated.

OPENS CLUBS

West opened a club, realizing that South had a very good hand since he had tried for a slam, and that North had a good hand since he had jumped to three spades. East could not have a good hand, since there is a limit to the number of aces and kinds in the deck. If East made his bid of four clubs with a bad hand, West felt duty bound to co-operate.

Parntership co-operation paid off. East ruffed the club, led a heart back to West and ruffed another club. This defense, based on a fine bid, made a difference of more than 1,500 points.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:
♠- Q J 8 4
♥- J 3
♦- K 7
♣- A 10 7 6 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three spades.

This shows good four-card trump support, with about 13 to 16 points, counting both high cards and distribution. In this case you have 11 points in high cards and two points for the two doubletons.

MYSTIC IMAGERY — Like guardian angels, twin egrets span the cosmic universe and balance the sun and moon, symbols in this metaphysical painting by artist Bette Klopf. Entitled "Cosmic Egg II," it is included in the "Featured Artists" exhibit currently shown in Mill Valley's Genesis Gallery.

ART REVIEW

Bette Klopf's New Point Of View

By ADA GARFINKEL

Growth and change are as natural as breathing for the serious artist. Often the new development is in style or technique or the use of new media. Sometimes a new point of view may trigger the new direction.

For Bette Klopf, one of the featured artists in the current show at Mill Valley's Genesis Gallery, the study of Yoga and the symbolism of various Eastern religions stimulated a new train of thought and imagery in her new paintings.

The artist, who studied art at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, formerly employed technologically-oriented circuit-systems imagery in her paintings.

In her current work, Mrs. Klopf's imagery is metaphysically oriented. Too, in contrast to the bristling and diffused energy and linear arrangement of the earlier works, the new series focuses on a central, mandala-type oval form which contains the energy and affords a contrasting surrounding area of quiet.

One of the surprises seen in several of the paintings is the presence of various shorebirds — egrets, sandpipers, and avocets.

Although birds are the symbol of transcendence in Eastern religions, Mrs. Klopf uses them simply as compositional spatial and design elements. In some they are clustered in repeats of the basic oval shape, and against the limpid watery surface of their environment, they too generate an aura of quiescence.

Mrs. Klopf has entitled her new paintings the "Cosmic Egg" series. The concept derives from the symbolic arch of heaven and immortality.

Mrs. Klopf's representation of the seven unfolding universes contained within the cosmic orbit is best described within two small paintings entitled "C.E. 1" and "C. E. 2." On solid turquoise and ochre backgrounds, orange and red-tinged oval grids contain collaged monoprint segments of atmospheric organic forms like landscape elements.

One is caught up in the immediacy of the central form and simultaneously drawn into the interior of space and time.

Betty Lamb is the second artist featured. Most of her work is inconsistent and embryonic. Two small drawings, however, are strong statements and indicate a sensitive awareness to tonal nuances and expressive strength.

Nancy Bourne is a potter. Her functional stoneware is handsomely arranged in alcoves and on platforms according to their colors — deep cobalt blues, browns, emerald, and earth tones — and supplemented with harmonizing paintings and prints by other gallery artists.

Other works of interest in the gallery this month are: Jane Featherstone's arms-akimbo sculpture entitled "Baltic Market-woman," Ruth Alexander's "Mt. Parnassus plum trees" — a watercolor, and Barbara Melichar's textured and incised hanging relief, "Untitled No. 4." And in the bin section, Joyce Livingston's provacative colograph entitled "Clockwise."

This exhibit will continue through July 31 and may be viewed from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. The gallery is located on the second floor at 2 Miller Avenue.

North Marin Water Tax Rate Trimmed

The North Marin County Water District board cut 1 cent off the tax rate and reviewed the capital improvements and personnel budgets.

Dist. Mgr. John O. Nelson had proposed elimination of the 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation tax rate. The board Monday night cut it from 10 cents to 9 cents, Nelson said. This will cut the expected revenues by $11,000 from $108,000 to $97,000, he said.

The board reviewed the capital improvements budget of $909,000, up $656,000 from the current $243,000 budget, Nelson said.

Included in the big increase in capital improvements, which will be spread over several years, are: $282,000 for expansion of the treatment plant at Stafford Lake; $250,000 for 2.5 million gallon tank storage for South Novato; $107,500 for land acquisition around Stafford Lake and $5,000 for a water reclamation study.

The board reviewed the personnel budget, adding a part time laboratory technician, a part time clerk, meter reader and mechanic.

This will add approximately $20,000 to the budget for a total, including a 5.74 per cent across the board salary increase, of $573,500, up $53,938 from last year's $519,562 budget for personnel.

Orchestra Piccola Smashing Success

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

SPOLETO, Italy — The Orchestra Piccola of Marin scored a resounding success with its performance in the Spoleto Festival's Mozart Marathon.

The Sala Eufemia, a small chapel on the Piazza Quomo, was filled to capacity Friday evening, with people squeezed into the balconies and along the sides of the main floor.

Marathon concerts allow members of the audience to come and go at will. Many came to hear the orchestra, but none left until its performance was completed.

Scheduled originally to perform only two works, the Piccola was asked to perform the entire three-hour concert with only a brief respite for a performance by a boy's choir and a bassoon duet.

With but a week's notice, the orchestra learned such difficult works as the Symphony No. 40 in G. Minor, the "Coronation Mass" and the adagio of the C Major Piano Concerto.

Always at one with his group, Rinaldi drew a full response to his interpretation of the piece, which included a slower-than-usual tempo for the contabili movement, emphasizing the vocal aria effect always present in Mozart's slow movements.

Don Smiley, Rhonda Bigham, Shelley Mathewson and Bridget Conrad performed the quartet with warm tones and clean articulation. Jenny Sperry doubled on timpani with verve.

Acoustics in the church were excellent as the high, vaulted ceiling absorbed the sound with no echo effects. Leonetti took full advantage of this, with whispering pianissimos and full, rich fortes.

The Piccola demonstrated its versatility in its ability to express each conductor's style. This was evident, for instance, in the Symphony No. 40 in G Major.

Conductor Meir Weisel chose to contain the intensity of mood in this late symphony of Mozart's in a framework of precise, metrical count while still encouraging complete expression. The Piccola was joined by a woodwind choir from the National Orchestra Association, which played admirably and in perfect balance with the strings.

Christoph Eschenbach gave a sensitive reading with the Piccola of the adagio from the C major piano concerto (background music for the movie "Elvira Madigan"). Filippo Zigante conducted.

The program closed with a glorious performance of the "Coronation Mass," conducted by Joseph Flummerfelt, with the Piccola and the Westminster Choir and four vocal soloists.

Mozart can never resist an operatic finale and this Mass is no exception. Led by soprano Marjorie Pierce, the sounds of voices and instruments filled the church.

Letters sent home by the Piccola members have referred to the great spirit of camaraderie among the entire troup. This, coupled with their youthful enthusiasm, was an irresistable combination. The Italian audience in this 14-century hilltop town responded wholeheartedly.

The standing ovation, the calls of "bravo" after each piece and for bows clearly expressed the affection and respect they felt for the fine young musicians.

The group's final concert, held Sunday in the natural ampitheatre of the Piazza Quomo, consisted of Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem." The Orchestra Piccola sat in with the National Orchestra Association, the Westminster Choir and the Columbus Boychoir for the performance.

MYSTIC IMAGERY — Like guardian angels, twin egrets span the cosmic universe and balance the sun and moon, symbols in this metaphysical painting by artist Bette Klopf. Entitled "Cosmic Egg II," it is included in the "Featured Artists" exhibit currently shown in Mill Valley's Genesis Gallery.

ART REVIEW

Bette Klopf's New Point Of View

By ADA GARFINKEL

Growth and change are as natural as breathing for the serious artist. Often the new development is in style or technique or the use of new media. Sometimes a new point of view may trigger the new direction.

For Bette Klopf, one of the featured artists in the current show at Mill Valley's Genesis Gallery, the study of Yoga and the symbolism of various Eastern religions stimulated a new train of thought and imagery in her new paintings.

The artist, who studied art at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, formerly employed technologically-oriented circuit-systems imagery in her paintings.

In her current work, Mrs. Klopf's imagery is metaphysically oriented. Too, in contrast to the bristling and diffused energy and linear arrangement of the earlier works, the new series focuses on a central, mandala-type oval form which contains the energy and affords a contrasting surrounding area of quiet.

One of the surprises seen in several of the paintings is the presence of various shorebirds — egrets, sandpipers, and avocets.

Although birds are the symbol of transcendence in Eastern religions, Mrs. Klopf uses them simply as compositional spatial and design elements. In some they are clustered in repeats of the basic oval shape, and against the limpid watery surface of their environment, they too generate an aura of quiescence.

Mrs. Klopf has entitled her new paintings the "Cosmic Egg" series. The concept derives from the symbolic arch of heaven and immortality.

Mrs. Klopf's representation of the seven unfolding universes contained within the cosmic orbit is best described within two small paintings entitled "C.E. 1" and "C. E. 2." This exhibit will continue through July 31 and may be viewed from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. The gallery is located on the second floor at 2 Miller Avenue.

The board reviewed the capital improvements budget of $909,000, up $656,000 from the current $243,000 budget, Nelson said.

The board reviewed the personnel budget, adding a part time laboratory technician, a part time clerk, meter reader and mechanic.

This will add approximately $20,000 to the budget for a total, including a 5.74 per cent across the board salary increase, of $573,500, up $53,938 from last year's $519,562 budget for personnel.

47 Employees Added To Speed Processing Of Cal-Vet Loans

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Veterans Affairs Department, criticized by a legislative committee for its handling of the Cal-Vet home loan program, has announced the hiring of 47 additional employees to improve processing of the loans.

The announcement yesterday came in the wake of last week's criticism by the committee which complained that district offices needed reorganization and that some seemed to be short of manpower while others had a surplus.

Veterans Affairs Director Frank Nicol said the Joint Legislative Audit Committee cited a staff problem which had been long recognized by the department.

The committee also roasted the department for stockpiling "excess" cash from veterans bond sales at. a time when returning Vietnam vets were required to join waiting lists for Cal-Vet loans or seek commercial financing.

In addition to hiring the workers, which included 26 property agents, Nickol announced creation of a new district office at Concord to serve veterans in Alameda, Contra Costa and Marin counties. Seven resident property agents will be stationed in areas which currently are inconvenient to the nine district offices.

Nicol said the department is making loans at the rate of $20 million a month to veterans, most of whom served during the Vietnam war.

"Our loans were not very popular last year because our maximum was only $20,000," he said. "In urban and near-urban areas, a man couldn't touch a home for $20,000."

New Trustees Take Seats In Novato; Slate Elected

Liz Mertel was elected clerk and James E. Casassa trustee representative. The vote for all the officers was unanimous except for abstention by each on his own election.

The board will meet the first and third Tuesdays until Sept. 1 and after that on the second and fourth Tuesdays. The change was made because of conflicts of the trustees time.

It authorized Supt. James G. Bunker, assistant superintendents Eugene F. Debrecht and Paul C. Mobley and business managers Harold Messenger and Beverly Alberigi to sign for the board.

The board routinely adopted existing board rules and regulations and the present courses of study.

Novato Unified School District Trustees also:

AWARENESS — Received a report from its Human Awareness Advisory Committee, made it a permanent committee and declared the board will appoint a human awareness coordinator if the district has the money.

LYNWOOD — Accepted an offer by the Novato Parks and Recreation Department to construct and maintain a softball diamond on the Lynwood School site at a cost of $11,000 to the city and nothing to the school district. The vote was 6 to 1 with Betty Machado against as she felt Marion School should have priority.

PROGRAMS — Voted to continue programs for the educable mentally retarded and the physically handicapped.

LOBBYIST — Voted to join the Association of Low Wealth Districts for $1,250 for the current fiscal year to hire a lobbyist in Sacramento.

PERSONNEL — Accepted resignations of Jan Horwitz and Richard T. Loewke Sr. from Sinaloa Junior High School and Richard A. Silver from San Marin High School; terminated employment of Dorothy Glaros from San Jose Junior High School and Christine Morehead from Rancho School. It hired Margaret McKinsey for a teacher for the physically handicapped.

CONTRACT — Awarded a $15,314 contract to Novato Office Equipment, lowest of three bidders to maintain and repair the office equipment this fiscal year.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m., July 17 at the Novato High School lecture hall.

TWO DRIVERS FALL ASLEEP DURING TEST

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two college students taking part in a $200,000 state government financed study on the causes of single car accidents fell asleep at the wheel of their test vehicle.

An observer in the vehicle, which has dual controls, took over and avoided an accident.

The dozing drivers and the possibility of their being involved in an accident was what the study was all about.

Alvord Estep, chief of the traffic branch of the California Division of Highways, said that more than 50 per cent of all freeway accidents in the state result from a single vehicle running off the road.

Banker Given Another Heart

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Surgeons at the Medical College of Virginia Hospital ended an operation early today to give a 41-year-old bank executive a new heart.

The delicate transplant operation on George V. Cavich of Melfa, Va., began at 7:40 p.m. Tuesday, an MCV spokesman said. Cavich was in satisfactory condition following the five-hour operation.

Queen Title Abandoned For Studies

Diveanna Frivaldo of Santa Rosa has relinquished her Miss Sonoma-Marin crown, according to pageant director Carolyn Beach.

Miss Frivaldo won the title June 20 at the Sonoma-Marin Fair, but decided to return the crown, saying the required appearances would take away too much from her studies at University of California at Davis.

Hannelle Damon, 17, of Rohnert Park, was first runner-up in the contest and will assume the title. Miss Damon will represent both counties at the Miss California contest Aug. 6-11 in Los Angeles. The winner there will compete in the Miss U.S.A. contest.

Miss Damon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Damon, 7752 Bonita Avenue, and graduated from Rancho Cotate High School last month.

French Explosion Hurts 30 Persons

PARIS (UPI) — A fire and explosion rocked an ammunition factory near Paris early today and a French radio report said at least 30 persons, among them a dozen firemen, were injured.

BART Talks Resume Tomorrow; Hope Dim

OAKLAND (UPI) — Negotiations aimed at ending the 10-day strike by two unions against the Bay Area Rapid Transit District will resume tomorrow, after a two-day lapse.

When they were broken off Monday, spokesmen for both sides said they were "miles apart" in efforts to reach a labor contract agreement and resume service for 35,000 daily commuters.

BART's directors met behind closed doors yesterday and heard pessimistic reports on the status of negotiations.

Following that session, board chairman William Chester said the board had reaffirmed its position that its negotiating committee was in full charge of the system's side of the dispute.

Some union leaders had complained that the negotiating committee lacked authority to make basic decisions.

Chester said the full board would not meet again on labor relations until its committee has some progress to report.

A major issue in the walkout by the United Public Employes Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union is a demand for pay parity with employes who came to BART

Since such employes were paid the rate they had been getting from the other systems, some were earning as much as $2 an hour more than employes who started with BART.

BART has offered pay boosts of 7 per cent each for the next three years to 900 maintenance workers and 300 train and station employes. It has offered 5 per cent boosts for each of the next three years to clerical and junior administrative employes.

As a means of achieving pay parity, it suggested withholding the boosts from those above scale until the general scale rose to their level.

Paul Varacalli, speaking for the unions, held however that "existing disparities would still remain at the end of the proposed contract" because other systems would be increasing their wages during the three years.

San Anselmo Council Hikes Pay Of All City Employees

The San Anselmo City Council last night gave raises ranging from 2 per cent to 16 per cent to every full-time city employee at an annual cost of about $80,000.

The pay hikes varied because they were "individually negotiated," according to City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel, but everyone except the firemen received at least 5 per cent "because that was the cost of living."

Firemen settled for a 2.5 per cent raise because they will switch from a 63-hour week to a 56-hour week in January, Kaeppel said.

In contrast to the highest salary for a fireman, which rose from $1,002 a month to $1,027, a comparable police officer was hiked 10 per cent from $1,102 to $1,115.

The council approved the raises 4-0, without discussion, after a 15-minute closed meeting with its salary negotiators, Kaeppel and City Atty. Hadden W. Roth.

Kaeppel was raised $135 a month to $1,920, a jump of 7.5 per cent, but other department heads received even more. At the highest pay level for the position, the parks and recreation director received a 16 per cent raise, the librarian 14 per cent, the police chief 12 per cent, the public works director 11 per cent and fire chief 8 per cent.

Administrator-controller $1,920 ($1,795); administrative secretary $830 ($775); accounting clerk $830 ($775); city attorney $1,012 ($964); police chief $1,660 ($1,475); captain $1,450 ($1,309); lieutenant $1,343 ($1,234); sergeant $1,250 ($1,129); officer $1,115 ($1,012); clerk $775 ($702).

Fire chief $1,586 ($1,475); assistant chief $1,440 ($1,309); captain $1,146 ($1,118); lieutenant $1,079 ($1,053), fireman $1,027 ($1,002).

Public works director $1,915 ($1,711); engineer-planner $1,349 (replaces junior engineer, which paid $1,043); building inspector $1,139 ($1,085); street foreman $1,117 ($1,064); equipment operator $939 ($881); sweeper operator $928 ($855), maintenanceman $867 ($822); chief mechanic $1,074 ($992); automotive serviceman $790 ($737); secretary $790 ($737); planning technician $1,042 ($992); clerk-stenographer $737 ($702).

Kaeppel said the raises reflected the pay for similar positions in other cities in Marin.

City May Finally Accept Bad San Anselmo Street

A bumpy street, which San Anselmo has refused to accept for more than 60 years, may soon be a smooth thoroughfare with city maintenance.

Faced with the pleas of some homeowners along The Alameda and a staff recommendation to improve the street at the residents' expense, the San Anselmo City Council last night directed City Atty. Hadden W. Roth to see if the San Anselmo School District will pay a share because Brookside School abuts the rundown section of road.

The street between Berkeley and Arroyo avenues is more potholes than pavement, although it is an often used connector between Butterfield Road and Broadmoor Avenue. City councilmen first refused to accept it as a city street in 1912 and have continued to refuse to do more than enough maintenance to keep it passable.

However, Charles R. Leitzell, director of public works, said last night it costs more to keep the road passable than it would to maintain a street built to city standards.

"I think really it is time to do something," he said. He recommended accepting the street if adjoining landowners agree to finance paving, curbs and gutters.

The discussion was prompted by a letter from Mrs. James Soldavini of 135 The Alameda, who sought a way to improve the street, which has a drainage problem in the winter. Her neighbors complained the school district has stymied similar efforts in the past.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

NUISANCE — Told Roth to take legal action to force Paul Chirone of 428 Laurel Avenue to clean up the old trucks, lumber and rock and other construction equipment which have cluttered his yard for years, despite clean-up requests from the city.

CAMPAIGN SPENDING — Put over to Aug. 14 a plan by Councilman Dr. Martin J. Blinder to limit campaign spending because the doctor was absent on a business trip to Okinawa.

DOG CONTROL — Continued to Aug. 14 a proposed ordinance to require the leashing of dogs because Blinder, the originator of the ordinance, was absent.

OLD FOLKS — Approved a one-year agreement with the Marin Senior Coordinating Council, which calls for the city to provide facilities and staff for programs for the elderly.

BICYCLE LICENSE — Doubled to $1 the bicycle licensing fee because the state next month will begin collecting 20 cents for each registered bicycle from the city for an anti-theft program.

REAPPORTIONMENT — Backed a state constitutional amendment to create a nonpartisan commission to reapportion state government districts.

APPOINTMENTS — Reappointed incumbent Gerald A. DeVore to the parks and recreation commission for four years and named Bruce Barbera a youth member for one year; chose incumbent Rosemary Glicker and Jo Felman for four-year terms on the library board and named James Kilty to the streets and traffic committee.

HUB PLANTING — Authorized the public works department to landscape the traffic islands in the Hub intersection.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. July 31 instead of July 24 so councilmen can attend the retirement party of Fire Chief Francis A. Sousa.

Crowding Eyed In San Anselmo

Yet another plan to relieve crowding in the San Anselmo City Hall was unveiled last night by City Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro in an effort to keep the main fire station where it is.

The veteran councilman raised the fire station issue June 12 when Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel presented a four-phase improvement plan, which included moving the fire deparmtent from its traffic-clogged downtown home to San Rafael and San Anselmo avenues.

Last night Capurro offered a sketchy plan to leave all city facilities in one building on the present site of the city hall and on neighboring land.

Councilman Warren R. Perry called the plan interesting, but wondered about committing the fire department to the downtown location. The council agreed the reaction of the fire department should be sought.

In contrast to Kaeppel's plan, Cappurro suggested a second story be added to the existing fire station. He would move the police deparmtent and public works department to a new building, which would adjoin the library.

The existing police offices would be engulfed in more administrative office space and expanded council chambers.

Capurro also suggested the current parking lot behind the city hall be turned into a park with access from a breezeway through the existing police quarters. The parking lot would be shifted across City Hall Avenue to a parcel now privately owned.

Kaeppel's plan would use the private parcel for administrative and public works offices. The police department would stay in the existing city hall.

Both plans are still just concepts and do not yet include cost estimates. The council for years toyed with building new facilities at another site or acquiring unused buildings at Isabel Cook School, but the cost killed those ideas.

Commuter Bus Club Operating

The first commuter bus club has begun operation for east Petaluma residents.

The bus started operation July 2 and was arranged by the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association and the Golden Gate Bridge District.

The bus makes 12 stops in residential neighborhoods beginning at 6:07 a.m. and makes four stops in San Francisco, arriving at 7:43 a.m. The bus leaves the city at 5:01 p.m. and makes it last stop in Petaluma at 6:48 p.m.

Refreshments are served on both runs. Commuters interested in joining the bus club should contact John R. Evans, president, at 84 Eastside Circle, or W. J. Kaufman, secretary-treasurer, at 1324 San Rafael Drive.

Dance Ends With Brawl; Two Booked

Tiburon police said that a 17-year-old youth, later arrested, had caused fights all night at the dance, which drew a crowd of about 150 young people, including club members and their guests.

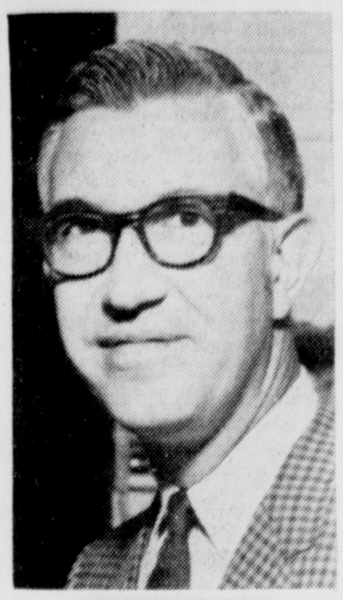
The crowd pressed in on them, a Belvedere officer said, and some youths struck them.

Tiburon police said they did not observe heavy drinking and said that the 17-year-old youth told them later that he likes to fight. He was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of disturbing the peace. His name was withheld on a standing order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Also arrested was: James Patrick Guckian, 18, of 350 Bella Vista Avenue, Belvedere, who was booked on suspicion of resisting arrest, battery on a police officer and disturbing the peace.

A 16-year-old Tiburon youth whose name was withheld was cited for disturbing the peace and resisting arrest.

St. Cyr Says He Will Not Resign



ALBERT ST. CYR
Denies departure rumor

Sausalito City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr today denied growing rumors that he intends to resign his post in the immediate future.

St. Cyr told the Independent-Journal it's not true and said he has no idea how the rumors of his imminent departure started.

St. Cyr did say he has been looking for another job in recent months. "I think most city managers do. We're always on the lookout for opportunities."

But he said he has not found another post and has no plan at this time to leave Sausalito.

Councilmen interviewed were vague about the city manager's plans. "There's been some talk about his leaving, but there's nothing definite at this time," said Earl F. Dunphy.

"I don't know what the city manager's plans are; he doesn't keep me informed," said Stephen A. Fraser, but added he would not be surprised if St. Cyr resigned.

"Sausalito is a difficult city to manage and three years as a city manager is probably long enough for anyone," Fraser said. "It's an endurance contest."

Fraser did say that the council has been thinking about a replacement for St. Cyr if he does leave, but has done no official interviewing. "We have known he was looking for another job for some time and we don't want to be left without a manager for months," he said. "So we have one or two names in mind."

(Thomas McKenzie, a San Francisco public health department official, has been reported as one of the applicants for the post if and when it does become vacant. But McKenzie, assistant to the assistant health department director in charge of hospitals, refused to comment on the situation. The council members also refused to discuss the names of persons under informal consideration.)

Councilman Evert R. Heynneman, just back from two weeks in Canada, said he preferred not to talk about St. Cyr at this time "since I've been out of all this for a while." He did confirm that the council has held "general discussions" about the possibility of the city manager's departure.

Mayor Robin Sweeny, on vacation, and Councilman Sally Stanford could not be reached.

St. Cyr, 40, has been in the job since August of 1970 when he was hired to replace George Patterson.

Blackout Hits Part Of Marin

Almost 4,000 customers of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in Mill Valley, Stinson Beach, Muir Beach and Bolinas were without electrical power briefly yesterday.

According to Robert Williams, Electrical Superintendent for PG&E's Marin District, the power shortage began at 11:43 a.m. when wires burned out at Homestead Boulevard and Morning Sun Avenue in the Almonte area, just outside of Mill Valley.

Williams said that a motorist had probably hit a steel cable holding up a power pole at some other location. He said that such collisions often cause a surge of power through the lines that can lead to burn-outs. But he said that no such accident had been reported yet.

He said that 3,926 customers were out of service for an hour. Another 20 customers were blacked out for about three hours.

Rock Performers To Give Concert

Marin County rock, blues and country group, Clover, led by guitarist John McFee will be featured in a concert from 8 p.m. to midnight Friday at the San Marin High School auditorium in Novato.

Another rock and country group, Appaloosa, will play on the same concert. A light show will be given by Vulcan Lite Co. The concert is sponsored by the Novato Parks and Recreation Department.

San Anselmo Council Hikes Pay Of All City Employees

The San Anselmo City Council last night gave raises ranging from 2 per cent to 16 per cent to every full-time city employee at an annual cost of about $80,000.

The pay hikes varied because they were "individually negotiated," according to City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel, but everyone except the firemen received at least 5 per cent "because that was the cost of living."

Firemen settled for a 2.5 per cent raise because they will switch from a 63-hour week to a 56-hour week in January, Kaeppel said.

In contrast to the highest salary for a fireman, which rose from $1,002 a month to $1,027, a comparable police officer was hiked 10 per cent from $1,102 to $1,115.

The council approved the raises 4-0, without discussion, after a 15-minute closed meeting with its salary negotiators, Kaeppel and City Atty. Hadden W. Roth.

Kaeppel was raised $135 a month to $1,920, a jump of 7.5 per cent, but other department heads received even more. At the highest pay level for the position, the parks and recreation director received a 16 per cent raise, the librarian 14 per cent, the police chief 12 per cent, the public works director 11 per cent and fire chief 8 per cent.

Administrator-controller $1,920 ($1,795); administrative secretary $830 ($775); accounting clerk $830 ($775); city attorney $1,012 ($964); police chief $1,660 ($1,475); captain $1,450 ($1,309); lieutenant $1,343 ($1,234); sergeant $1,250 ($1,129); officer $1,115 ($1,012); clerk $775 ($702).

Fire chief $1,586 ($1,475); assistant chief $1,440 ($1,309); captain $1,146 ($1,118); lieutenant $1,079 ($1,053), fireman $1,027 ($1,002).

Public works director $1,915 ($1,711); engineer-planner $1,349 (replaces junior engineer, which paid $1,043); building inspector $1,139 ($1,085); street foreman $1,117 ($1,064); equipment operator $939 ($881); sweeper operator $928 ($855), maintenanceman $867 ($822); chief mechanic $1,074 ($992); automotive serviceman $790 ($737); secretary $790 ($737); planning technician $1,042 ($992); clerk-stenographer $737 ($702).

Head librarian $1,199 ($1,053); senior librarian $921 (replaces assistant librarian, which paid $790); junior librarian $748 ($682); parks and recreation director $1,485 ($1,284); clerk $681 ($649); parks foreman $1,073 ($963); maintenanceman $869 ($806).

ORDINANCE NO. 1110

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF SAN RAFAEL AMENDING TITLE 3, FINANCE AND TAXATION, BY ADDING THERETO CHAPTER 3.26, ENTITLED PROPERTY DEVELOPMENT EXCISE TAX.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SAN RAFAEL DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

DIVISION 1. Title 3, Finance and Taxation, of the Municipal Code of the City of San Rafael, is hereby amended by the addition thereto of Chapter 3.26, Sections 3.26.010 through 3.26.130, entitled Property Development Excise Tax which shall read as follows:

Chapter 3.26 Property Development Excise Tax.

Sections:
3.26.010 Title.
3.26.020 Purpose.
3.26.030 Definitions.
3.26.040 Tax Imposed.
3.26.050 Rates of Tax.
3.26.060 Persons Liable for Tax.
3.26.070 Construction Without Paying Tax.
3.26.080 Due Date.
3.26.090 Delinquency, Penalty and Interest.
3.26.100 Exceptions.
3.26.110 Exclusions.
3.26.120 Refunds.
3.26.130 Disposition of Proceeds.

3.26.010 TITLE. This Chapter shall be known as the Property Development Excise Tax.

3.26.020 PURPOSE. The City Council of the City of San Rafael hereby declares that these taxes are imposed pursuant to the taxing power of the City of San Rafael and solely for the purpose of producing revenue. The increased development of land in the City of San Rafael has created a need for the acquisition of public property and for public improvements and facilities which cannot be met by the ordinary revenues of the City and has created an urgent need for the planning, acquisition, improvement and expansion and maintenance of public parks, playground and recreational facilities to serve the increasing population of the City and the means for providing additional revenues with which to finance such public facilities and the most practical and equitable method of collecting the funds necessary for such purposes is to impose an excise tax upon the construction and occupancy of commercial and industrial development within the City.

3.26.030 DEFINITIONS. For the purpose of this Chapter, the words defined in this Section shall have the meaning assigned to them unless from the context it appears that a different meaning is intended.

A. "Commercial unit defined." As used in this Chapter, commercial unit shall mean any space in a building or structure designed or intended to be occupied or used for business or commercial purposes, including sleeping rooms in hotels and motels without kitchens or kitchen facilities.

B. "Industrial unit defined." As used in this Chapter industrial unit shall mean any space in a building or structure designed or intended for manufacturing, processing, research, warehousing and similar uses.

Public Notice

C. "Person defined." Includes every person, firm or corporation constructing a commercial or industrial unit itself, or through the services of an employee, agent or independent contractor.

3.26.040 TAX IMPOSED. An excise tax is hereby imposed upon the construction and occupancy of each commercial or industrial unit in the City of San Rafael.

3.26.050 RATES OF TAX. Commencing on the effective date of this Ordinance, the rates of the excise tax hereby imposed are as follows:

A. Commercial. For each commercial building or commercial unit in a building the amount of $ .05 per square foot of gross floor area, including any area in a building designed for the parking of vehicles.

B. Industrial. For each industrial building or industrial unit in a building the amount of $ .10 per square foot of gross floor area, including any area in a building designed for the parking of vehicles.

3.26.060 PERSONS LIABLE FOR TAX. The taxes imposed by this Chapter are due from the person by or on behalf of whom a commercial or industrial unit or building is constructed, or a building or part thereof occupied for commercial or industrial use, whether such person is the owner or a lessee of the land upon which the construction is to occur. The City Treasurer shall collect the tax and any penalty or interest due hereunder. The full amount due under this Chapter shall constitute a debt to the City. An action for the collection thereof may be commenced in the name of the City in any Court having jurisdiction of the cause.

3.26.070 CONSTRUCTION WITHOUT PAYING TAX. No person shall begin the construction of any commercial or industrial unit or building in the City of San Rafael without first having paid the tax and any penalty and interest due the City under this chapter.

3.26.080 DUE DATE. The amount of the tax due hereunder shall be determined at the time a building permit is sought for the construction or use of commercial or industrial units or buildings, and the full amount of said tax shall be due and payable concurrently with the application for such permit. If such tax is not fully paid, no building permit shall be issued therefor.

3.26.090 DELINQUENCY, PENALTY AND INTEREST. There shall be added to the tax for any unit or for so much of said tax as becomes delinquent, a penalty of 25% which shall thereupon become payable in the same manner as the tax. The tax and penalty shall bear interest at the rate of fifty-eight one-hundredths of one percent (.58 of 1%) per month until paid.

3.26.100 EXCEPTIONS. There is excepted from the tax imposed by this chapter the construction of a commercial or industrial unit or building which is a replacement for a unit or building being removed from the same lot or parcel of land. The exemption shall equal but not exceed the tax which would be payble thereunder if the unit being replaced were being newly constructed.

3.26.110 EXCLUSIONS. There is excluded from the tax imposed by this chapter the following:

A. The construction of any building or unit by any bank, including national banking associations.

B. The construction of any building by a non-profit corporation exclusively for religious, educational, hospital or charitable purposes.

C. The construction of any building by the United States or any department or agency thereof or by the State of California or any department, agency, or political subdivision thereof.

3.26.120 REFUNDS. Any tax, penalty, or interest paid to the City under this chapter for any building or unit of a building which is not constructed shall be refunded upon application of the taxpayer and a showing to the satisfaction of the City Treasurer that said building or unit has not been constructed or construction commenced and that the building permit issued for said building or unit has been cancelled or surrendered or otherwise does not authorize the construction of said building or unit.

3.26.130 DISPOSITION OF PROCEEDS. All proceeds from the tax, penalty and interest collected under this chapter shall be paid into the Parks and Recreation Facilities Fund heretofore established pursuant to Ordinance 1029. Said proceeds shall be used solely for the acquisition, improvement and expansion and maintenance of public parks, playground and/or recreational purposes.

DIVISION 2. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this Ordinance is for any reason held to be invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Ordinance. The Council hereby declares that it would have adopted the Ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared invalid.

DIVISION 3. This Ordinance shall be published once in full before its final passage, in the Independent Journal, a newspaper of general circulation, printed, published and circulated in the City of San Rafael and shall be in full force and effect thirty (30) days after its final passage.

Hotel Planned In Times Square

NEW YORK (UPI) — A $150-million, 54-story hotel that will be New York City's largest will be built in Times Square, the heart of the city, Mayor John Lindsay announced today. The scheduled completion date is 1977.

Lindsay said the hotel "ties together perfectly with the concurrent construction of our new convention center and passenger ship terminal on the Hudson River.

"These three pieces will be the keys to the renaissance of Times Square and Manhattan's midwestside," he said.

The hotel will have two parallel major wings and between them, a central skylit atrium with glass enclosed elevator cars.

It will provide 35 stories for 2,020 hotel rooms with other floors for such things as a 1,050-seat theatre, ballrooms, an exhibition hall, an enclosed sidewalk cafe and a revolving restaurant on the top floor.

Acupuncture

ORDINANCE NO. 1110 AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF SAN RAFAEL AMENDING TITLE 3, FINANCE AND TAXATION, BY ADDING THERETO CHAPTER 3.26, ENTITLED PROPERTY DEVELOPMENT EXCISE TAX.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SAN RAFAEL DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

DIVISION 1. Title 3, Finance and Taxation, of the Municipal Code of the City of San Rafael, is hereby amended by the addition thereto of Chapter 3.26, Sections 3.26.010 through 3.26.130, entitled Property Development Excise Tax which shall read as follows:

Chapter 3.26 Property Development Excise Tax.

Sections:
3.26.010 Title.
3.26.020 Purpose.
3.26.030 Definitions.
3.26.040 Tax Imposed.
3.26.050 Rates of Tax.
3.26.060 Persons Liable for Tax.
3.26.070 Construction Without Paying Tax.
3.26.080 Due Date.
3.26.090 Delinquency, Penalty and Interest.
3.26.100 Exceptions.
3.26.110 Exclusions.
3.26.120 Refunds.
3.26.130 Disposition of Proceeds.

3.26.010 TITLE. This Chapter shall be known as the Property Development Excise Tax.

3.26.020 PURPOSE. The City Council of the City of San Rafael hereby declares that these taxes are imposed pursuant to the taxing power of the City of San Rafael and solely for the purpose of producing revenue. The increased development of land in the City of San Rafael has created a need for the acquisition of public property and for public improvements and facilities which cannot be met by the ordinary revenues of the City and has created an urgent need for the planning, acquisition, improvement and expansion and maintenance of public parks, playground and recreational facilities to serve the increasing population of the City and the means for providing additional revenues with which to finance such public facilities and the most practical and equitable method of collecting the funds necessary for such purposes is to impose an excise tax upon the construction and occupancy of commercial and industrial development within the City.

3.26.030 DEFINITIONS. For the purpose of this Chapter, the words defined in this Section shall have the meaning assigned to them unless from the context it appears that a different meaning is intended.

A. "Commercial unit defined." As used in this Chapter, commercial unit shall mean any space in a building or structure designed or intended to be occupied or used for business or commercial purposes, including sleeping rooms in hotels and motels without kitchens or kitchen facilities.

B. "Industrial unit defined." As used in this Chapter industrial unit shall mean any space in a building or structure designed or intended for manufacturing, processing, research, warehousing and similar uses.

Public Notice

C. "Person defined." Includes every person, firm or corporation constructing a commercial or industrial unit itself, or through the services of an employee, agent or independent contractor.

3.26.040 TAX IMPOSED. An excise tax is hereby imposed upon the construction and occupancy of each commercial or industrial unit in the City of San Rafael.

3.26.050 RATES OF TAX. Commencing on the effective date of this Ordinance, the rates of the excise tax hereby imposed are as follows:

A. Commercial. For each commercial building or commercial unit in a building the amount of $ .05 per square foot of gross floor area, including any area in a building designed for the parking of vehicles.

B. Industrial. For each industrial building or industrial unit in a building the amount of $ .10 per square foot of gross floor area, including any area in a building designed for the parking of vehicles.

3.26.060 PERSONS LIABLE FOR TAX. The taxes imposed by this Chapter are due from the person by or on behalf of whom a commercial or industrial unit or building is constructed, or a building or part thereof occupied for commercial or industrial use, whether such person is the owner or a lessee of the land upon which the construction is to occur. The City Treasurer shall collect the tax and any penalty or interest due hereunder. The full amount due under this Chapter shall constitute a debt to the City. An action for the collection thereof may be commenced in the name of the City in any Court having jurisdiction of the cause.

3.26.070 CONSTRUCTION WITHOUT PAYING TAX. No person shall begin the construction of any commercial or industrial unit or building in the City of San Rafael without first having paid the tax and any penalty and interest due the City under this chapter.

3.26.080 DUE DATE. The amount of the tax due hereunder shall be determined at the time a building permit is sought for the construction or use of commercial or industrial units or buildings, and the full amount of said tax shall be due and payable concurrently with the application for such permit. If such tax is not fully paid, no building permit shall be issued therefor.

3.26.090 DELINQUENCY, PENALTY AND INTEREST. There shall be added to the tax for any unit or for so much of said tax as becomes delinquent, a penalty of 25% which shall thereupon become payable in the same manner as the tax. The tax and penalty shall bear interest at the rate of fifty-eight one-hundredths of one percent (.58 of 1%) per month until paid.

3.26.100 EXCEPTIONS. There is excepted from the tax imposed by this chapter the construction of a commercial or industrial unit or building which is a replacement for a unit or building being removed from the same lot or parcel of land. The exemption shall equal but not exceed the tax which would be payble thereunder if the unit being replaced were being newly constructed.

3.26.110 EXCLUSIONS. There is excluded from the tax imposed by this chapter the following:

A. The construction of any building or unit by any bank, including national banking associations.

B. The construction of any building by a non-profit corporation exclusively for religious, educational, hospital or charitable purposes.

C. The construction of any building by the United States or any department or agency thereof or by the State of California or any department, agency, or political subdivision thereof.

3.26.120 REFUNDS. Any tax, penalty, or interest paid to the City under this chapter for any building or unit of a building which is not constructed shall be refunded upon application of the taxpayer and a showing to the satisfaction of the City Treasurer that said building or unit has not been constructed or construction commenced and that the building permit issued for said building or unit has been cancelled or surrendered or otherwise does not authorize the construction of said building or unit.

3.26.130 DISPOSITION OF PROCEEDS. All proceeds from the tax, penalty and interest collected under this chapter shall be paid into the Parks and Recreation Facilities Fund heretofore established pursuant to Ordinance 1029. Said proceeds shall be used solely for the acquisition, improvement and expansion and maintenance of public parks, playground and/or recreational purposes.

DIVISION 2. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this Ordinance is for any reason held to be invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Ordinance. The Council hereby declares that it would have adopted the Ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared invalid.

DIVISION 3. This Ordinance shall be published once in full before its final passage, in the Independent Journal, a newspaper of general circulation, printed, published and circulated in the City of San Rafael and shall be in full force and effect thirty (30) days after its final passage.

Hotel Planned In Times Square

NEW YORK (UPI) — A $150-million, 54-story hotel that will be New York City's largest will be built in Times Square, the heart of the city, Mayor John Lindsay announced today. The scheduled completion date is 1977.

Lindsay said the hotel "ties together perfectly with the concurrent construction of our new convention center and passenger ship terminal on the Hudson River.

"These three pieces will be the keys to the renaissance of Times Square and Manhattan's midwestside," he said.

The hotel will have two parallel major wings and between them, a central skylit atrium with glass enclosed elevator cars.

It will provide 35 stories for 2,020 hotel rooms with other floors for such things as a 1,050-seat theatre, ballrooms, an exhibition hall, an enclosed sidewalk cafe and a revolving restaurant on the top floor.

Acupuncture

Emotional Day For Tommy Hart

Strip the armor from the warrior and he stands there, humble, head bowed, tears in his eyes. The warrior in this case was Tommy Hart, defensive end for the San Francisco 49ers.

Tommy had just received the Len Eshmont Memorial Award, highlight of yesterday's 49er annual Kickoff Luncheon at the Fairmont Hotel. It was Tommy's choice of who was to present him with the award, and he had picked his high school coach from Ballard-Hudson High in Macon, Ga., Bob Slocum.

BARELY SPEAKING above a whisper, Hart tried to thank all his teammates for voting him the honor — the award is based on desire and inspiration. He thanked his old coach, the new coaches. He tried to say how honored he was. But trying to get the words out was very difficult for this huge man. One need not ask. It was the biggest moment of his life. Looking at the audience through tears in his eyes, he simply said, "Thank you," and made his way back to his chair at the head table amid a standing ovation.

Slocum, now athletic director of Bibb Technical High School in Macon, told a story about Hart's high school days at Ballard-Hudson, but the story involved baseball, not football. Playing on the same team as Hart was Jim (Blue Moon) Odom, A's pitcher.

DURING ONE particular game, Odom was on second base and the team was trailing by a run. Up came Hart who had struck out twice this day and Slocum went up to Hart and told him not to swing on the first pitch because Odom was going to steal third, then he would be able to score on a fly ball. Instead, Hart swung at the first pitch and hit a line drive against the fence.

But Hart didn't stop at second. Said Slocum: "He came sliding into third base and knocked the third baseman down. Safe. He got up and broke for home. He slid, and knocked the catcher down, scoring the winning run. He helped the catcher up and said, 'Scuse me.' Then he went over to the third baseman and said, 'Scuse me.' "

Prior to the presentation of the award, a $1,000 watch, 49er president Lou Spadia talked a little about Eshmont who played with the 49ers in 1946 through '48 and later coached at the Naval Academy and University of Virginia. He died in 1957.

THEN HE READ from an early scouting report on Hart, then a 19-year-old, 206-pound player at Morris Brown College in Atlanta, Ga. Said the report: "Very coachable; has great leadership in his own way; a great trainer; thinks more of the team than himself; will be great on defense; he's always near the ball."

He was the 49ers No. 10 draft choice in 1968 and proved to be one of the biggest finds of the team. Now at 248 pounds he is one of the best defensive ends in the National Football League. Eventually, when the selectors finally open their eyes wider, he will be named to the all-pro teams.

But Charlie Krueger, 49er defensive tackle and himself an Eshmont winner (1964), helped explain what the Eshmont award was all about. Said Charlie, a 15-year veteran of the NFL: "Winning the Eshmont award was the most moving thing to happen to me in pro football. It's not like being named to an all-star team. It's much more."

FORTY-NINER HEAD coach Dick Nolan was called upon to talk a little about last year and a little about this year. Although winning the NFC's Western Division last year, Nolan admitted to the team's weaknesses in the running game and the kicking game, two things he said they will be working very strongly on when training camp opens Friday.

He talked about the "much tougher schedule than in the past" that faces the Niners, starting with Miami in the league opener Sept. 16. Then he added a line that was sure to draw a round of applause, which it did. "And this will be the toughest opener Miami has ever had."

3 To Be Arraigned In Horse Race Fix

MONTEBELLO, Calif. (UPI) — A jockey, a part-time horse trainer and another man were to be arraigned on grand theft charges Thursday after their alleged plot to fix a Hollywood Park horse race by using powerful drugs and an electronic whip backfired.

Police arrested jockey Manuel Bravo, 34; Henry Valera, 33, the trainer; and Ronald R. Jordan, 37, after they allegedly tried to get a Montebello businessman to buy into the deal Tuesday.

The district attorney's office said Jordan called Edward St. Helaire and told him of a plan to inject an unidentified horse with a powerful stimulant prior to a Hollywood race today. Jordan said the jockey, also unidentified, would carry an electronic whip to shock the animal during the race.

St. Helaire was to pay $2,000 for the information, and would be told which race was involved 45 minutes before post time, the district attorney's office reported.

"Traditionally, this kind of story has been a swindle, rather than a real attempt to change the outcome of a race," said district attorney Joseph P. Busch. "The victim knows he's been had, but can't go to the police because he's had a part in an illegal transaction."

Bravo is a licensed jockey in the state, but is not registered to ride at Hollywood Park, Busch said. He added that the state horse racing board will conduct an investigation into the plot.

Auto Rallye Set In Petaluma

The Marin Rallye Association will sponsor the second in a series of rallyes Saturday, starting at the Petaluma Plaza Shopping Center between 6 and 9 p.m.

The "Lucky 13 Strikes Again" is a navigational-gimmick car rallye, with first timers competing against first-timers only. Speed is not involved.

Only things needed to participate are a flashlight, a pen, a friend to act as a navigator and a car. The cost is $3.50 per car with a 50-cent discount to Association members.

Yancey, Nicklaus Hold British Golf Lead

TROON, Scotland (UPI) — Bert Yancey rode a red hot putter through the front nine and Jack Nicklaus tamed Troon's windy back side today to share the early first round lead in the $125,000 British Open golf championship with three-under-par 69s.

Yancey holed six birdies to make the turn at 30 but then faded with a double-bogey and a bogey for a 39 as the wind stiffened and Nicklaus found the touch that has put him on the verge of a record 14th major championship.

The "Golden Bear" went out in 33 with a bogey then two birdies and an eagle and kept to a par 36 as the rest of the field struggled on the homeward nine.

Meanwhile, Gene Sarazen got his revenge on Troon exactly 50 years after he failed to qualify here for the British Open, and he got it the way a golfer dreams.

He holed in one.

Sarazen, now 71, came to Troon in 1923 as the U.S. Open champion and left humiliated after failing to qualify in the days when nobody was exempt. He never came back until this week when he tackled the 102nd British Open "for fun."

At the eighth hole — a 126 yard par 3 known as the postage stamp because of its tiny green, his tee shot went straight in.

An hour earlier British amateur David Russell had an ace at the same hole—the first time since the British Open began in 1860 that two players have holed in one on the same round, officials said.

Defending two-time champion Lee Trevino fell victim to Troon's killer 13th with a double bogey which dragged him down to a three-over-par 75.

"If that wind doesn't drop, I have absolutely no chance of keeping the championship," said Trevino. "I can't use my low shot in the wind on the back nine."

The homeward stretch sorted the men from the pros. Briton Peter Wilcock, who was three-under with 33 after nine holes, cracked in the wind which got stronger and stronger during the day, to card a 38 on the way home for a one-under 71 which put him in second place in the early running.

Nicklaus picked up a bogey on the third but charged back with a birdie on the next hole and then eagled the sixth —at 577-yards the longest hole in British championship play—and birdied the seventh to turn at 33.

Yancey hit trouble at the 11th when he hooked left into the thick gorse bushes and had to draw a one-stroke penalty. He then overhit the green, chipped short and two-putted for a double-bogey seven.

Nicklaus closed with a birdie three at the 12th and two at the 14th, dropped a shot at the 15th but then holed an amazing shot from the bunker in front of the 16th to draw level.

"This wind will really spread the field," said Yancey. "It's an easy front nine but an extremely difficult back nine. I thought Jack played in exceptionally."

"I played very well going out and I played some good holes coming back but that back nine is tough. Just tried to get home intact," said the Columbus, Ohio, star.

Britain's David Russell had a hole in one at the "postage stamp" 126-yard eighth. It didn't do him much good, however, because he also had two bogeys and made the turn in an even-par 36.

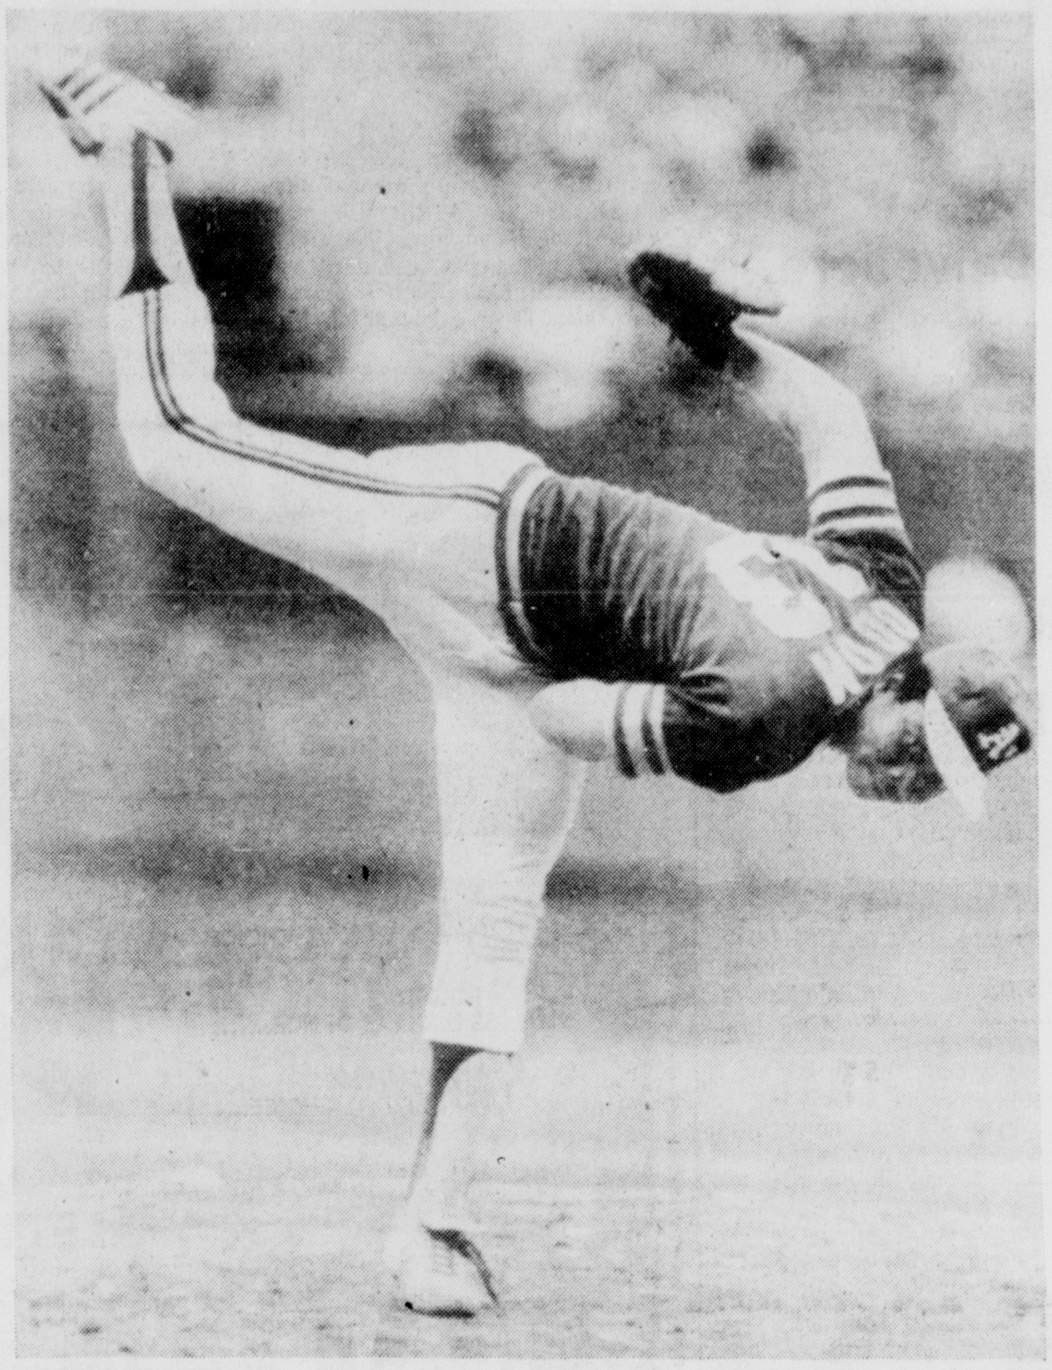
Dave Hill of Evergreen, Colo., picked up four bogeys on the back nine to wind up with 75 while Australian Peter Thompson, last man to win the Open three straight years in 1954-56 struggled in with 76.

Players from 18 countries were among the 153 who began the 102nd Open on the 7,064 yard seaside course on Scotland's West coast.



CARTWHEELS — Oakland A's pitcher John (Blue Moon) Odom showed off his whirling windmill motion last night in Cleveland, but the Indians were not impressed, driving Odom from the mound and continuing to rally off his relief pitchers for a 7-5 victory.

Improbable Holds Yacht Race Lead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The dreaded "Pacific High," a wandering mass of calm air which has slowed the Transpacific Yacht Race to a near crawl in the past few days, was expected to move to the East and give the 60-yacht fleet some stronger winds today.

The fastest of the slow, according to the corrected time standings, was still Improbable, owned and skippered by David W. Allen of Belvedere and representing the San Francisco Yacht Club there.

Improbable, a 42-foot sloop, also was the Class B leader. Another Marin boat, Tenacity, relinquished its lead in Class C to Bluestreak. Tenancity is onwed and skippered by Rolfe Croker of Belvedere and races out of the St. Francis Yacht Club of San Francisco.

After the second straight day of glassy seas and winds of six knots Tuesday, favored windward passage had lengthened her lead over second-place Ragtime to 30 miles. Windward Passage, a 73-foot skippered by Mark Johnson, has 1,128 miles to go in the finish line at Diamond Head in Honolulu.

Race officials were hoping for 20-knot winds today as the yachts began their seventh day at sea since departing on the 2,225-mile voyage from Los Angeles Harbor on the Fourth of July.

Blackfin was in the third position behind Ragtime, while fast moving Odine climbed into fourth place by averaging 9.1 knots Tuesday.

Billie Jean King To Play Riggs For $100,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three time Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King, returning in triumph from London, will meet 55-year-old Bobby Riggs in a $100,000 winner-take-all tennis match, it was announced today.

The match has been arranged by Jerry Perenchio, the man who was behind the most succcessful heavyweight fight in history, the meeting of Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier.

Perenchio said the date and site for the man vs. woman battle would be announced shortly, but insisted that it will be held in the United States despite offers from overseas.

Riggs, who destroyed Margaret Court on May 13 in a nationally televised match, had originally challenged Billie Jean, but she declined because of the conditions Riggs wanted at that time.

After Mrs. Court had been all but humiliated, Billie Jean said she knew she could do better and negotiations began at that time.

Cleveland Surprises A's On Homer By .193 Hitter

Torres, who entered the game batting .193, pinch-hit a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth Tuesday night to give the Cleveland Indians a 7-5 victory over Oakland.

The Indians, trailing 5-0 after seven innings, scored three runs in the eighth and made it 5-4 in the ninth before Torres batted for John Lowenstein and homered with one out.

"That was the biggest hit of my career," said the switchhitting Torres. "I'm not satisfied with my hitting this year, but I can't get down on myself."

Oakland Manager Dick Williams pulled five of his starters after six innings and the Indians bounced back to pull out the victory.

"I took the guys out because we had three innings to go and it didn't really hurt us," Williams said. "It was the relief pitching that didn't hold up. I have to use my extra men when I can and with a 5-0 lead and a game today, I took out the players."

Dick Tidrow started for the Tribe and was tagged for four runs in the fourth. Reggie Jackson drilled his 18th homer in the fifth off the young righthander.

After Joe Rudi singled with one out in the fifth, Indians' Manager Ken Aspromonte went out to talk to Tidrow. The A's managed only one hit during the rest of the game.

"I told Tidrow to stop worrying about his won-lost record," Aspromonte said. "I told him to pitch like I knew he could pitch. If he wasn't the pitcher I thought he was, things would have to be done."

After the Tribe chased John "Blue Moon" Odom with a walk and two singles in the eighth, Rollie Fingers came in to give up a run-scoring double to Buddy Bell and another run scored on an infield out.

Charlie Spikes and Chris Chambliss started off the ninth with singles and Walt Williams flied out. Darold Knowles came in for the A's, Ron Lolich got his hit and Torres homered.

See A's box score on inside page.

Beliveau Turns Down $1 Million

MONTREAL (UPI) — Former hockey great Jean Beliveau has rejected a get-rich-quick offer from the World Hockey Association and opted for long-term security with the National Hockey League.

The former captain of the NHL Montreal Canadiens reportedly had been offered a $1 million contract by the WHA Quebec Nordiques to play for the club for a year then join the organization as an executive.

"I appreciate the generous offer," Beliveau said Tuesday.

He added, however, "I am happy in my association with the Canadien hockey club and the National Hockey league and I believe there is an excellent future for me with the Canadien organization."

Gymnastics Program Set At Tamalpais

A gymnastics demonstration featuring Stanford University coach Sadao Hamada and two of his former Olympic gymnasts will be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Tamalpais High School. Admission is free.

FOR ALL-STAR

Giants Are Victims Of Reuschel's Bid

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Young Rick Reuschel of the Chicago Cubs had planned on a three day vacation later this month. Now it looks as though he might be working in the All-Star game in Kansas City.

The 24-year-old Reuschel improved his chances of being picked for the National League team by beating the San Francisco Giants 4-2 Tuesday night for his 10th victory.

"My slider was working very well," Reuschel said. "I've been working on it because I found you can't get by on speed alone."

"Sure, it upset me," Reuschel said, "but I knew I still had nine innings to go and couldn't let it bother me too much."

Manager Whitey Lockman of the Cubs said Reuschel is "a natural born pitcher. He has good presence on the mound and good control. That's something you can't teach a pitcher. He either has it or he doesn't."

"He challenges the hitters," Lockman said. "He doesn't let things bother him."

Giants' pitcher Ron Bryant had only one bad inning but that was a nightmare. He gave up four walks and two hits in the sixth inning when the Cubs scored all their runs.

Bryant walked Jose Cardenal with the bases loaded to force in the first run.

After Jose Cardenal walked with the bases loaded, Carmen Fanzone singled to score two more runs. Cardenal then scored on an infield out.

The Giants and Cubs conclude the series this afternoon with Ferguson Jenkins (9-6) pitching against Jim Barr of the Giants (6-8).

Defending two-time champion Lee Trevino fell victim to Troon's killer 13th with a double bogey which dragged him down to a three-over-par 75.

"If that wind doesn't drop, I have absolutely no chance of keeping the championship," said Trevino. "I can't use my low shot in the wind on the back nine."

The homeward stretch sorted the men from the pros. Briton Peter Wilcock, who was three-under with 33 after nine holes, cracked in the wind which got stronger and stronger during the day, to card a 38 on the way home for a one-under 71 which put him in second place in the early running.

Nicklaus picked up a bogey on the third but charged back with a birdie on the next hole and then eagled the sixth —at 577-yards the longest hole in British championship play—and birdied the seventh to turn at 33.

Yancey hit trouble at the 11th when he hooked left into the thick gorse bushes and had to draw a one-stroke penalty. He then overhit the green, chipped short and two-putted for a double-bogey seven.

Nicklaus closed with a birdie three at the 12th and two at the 14th, dropped a shot at the 15th but then holed an amazing shot from the bunker in front of the 16th to draw level.

"This wind will really spread the field," said Yancey. "It's an easy front nine but an extremely difficult back nine. I thought Jack played in exceptionally."

"I played very well going out and I played some good holes coming back but that back nine is tough. Just tried to get home intact," said the Columbus, Ohio, star.

Britain's David Russell had a hole in one at the "postage stamp" 126-yard eighth. It didn't do him much good, however, because he also had two bogeys and made the turn in an even-par 36.

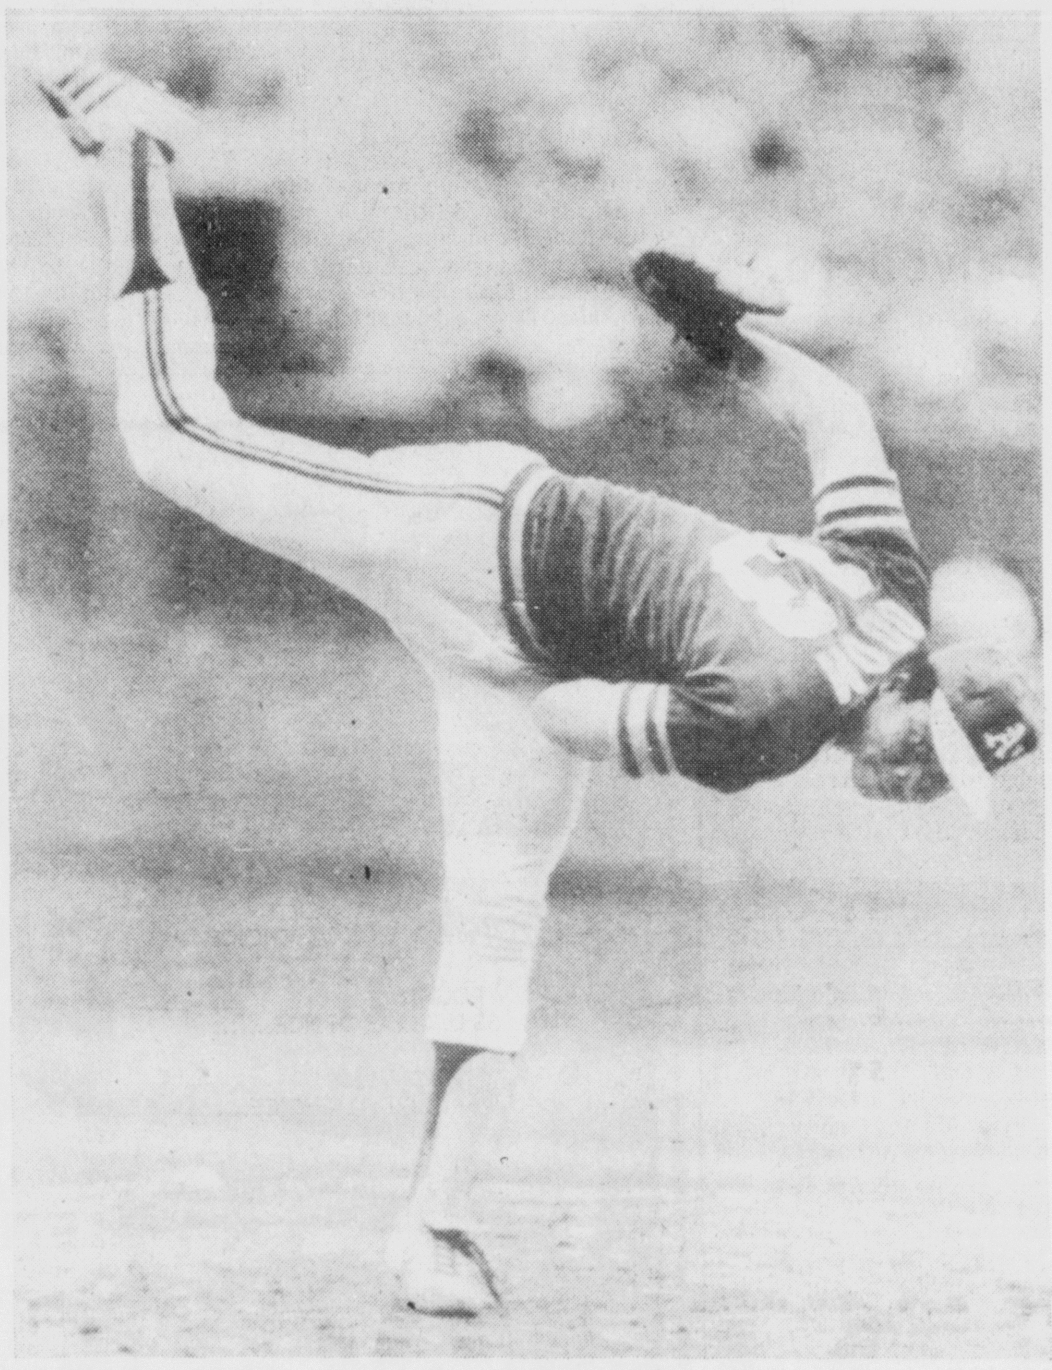
Dave Hill of Evergreen, Colo., picked up four bogeys on the back nine to wind up with 75 while Australian Peter Thompson, last man to win the Open three straight years in 1954-56 struggled in with 76.

Players from 18 countries were among the 153 who began the 102nd Open on the 7,064 yard seaside course on Scotland's West coast.



CARTWHEELS — Oakland A's pitcher John (Blue Moon) Odom showed off his whirling windmill motion last night in Cleveland, but the Indians were not impressed, driving Odom from the mound and continuing to rally off his relief pitchers for a 7-5 victory.

Cleveland Surprises A's On Homer By .193 Hitter

Torres, who entered the game batting .193, pinch-hit a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth Tuesday night to give the Cleveland Indians a 7-5 victory over Oakland.

The Indians, trailing 5-0 after seven innings, scored three runs in the eighth and made it 5-4 in the ninth before Torres batted for John Lowenstein and homered with one out.

"That was the biggest hit of my career," said the switchhitting Torres. "I'm not satisfied with my hitting this year, but I can't get down on myself."

Oakland Manager Dick Williams pulled five of his starters after six innings and the Indians bounced back to pull out the victory.

"I took the guys out because we had three innings to go and it didn't really hurt us," Williams said. "It was the relief pitching that didn't hold up. I have to use my extra men when I can and with a 5-0 lead and a game today, I took out the players."

Dick Tidrow started for the Tribe and was tagged for four runs in the fourth. Reggie Jackson drilled his 18th homer in the fifth off the young righthander.

After Joe Rudi singled with one out in the fifth, Indians Manager Ken Aspromonte went out to talk to Tidrow. The A's managed only one hit during the rest of the game.

"I told Tidrow to stop worrying about his won-lost record," Aspromonte said. "I told him to pitch like I knew he could pitch. If he wasn't the pitcher I thought he was, things would have to be done."

After the Tribe chased John "Blue Moon" Odom with a walk and two singles in the eighth, Rollie Fingers came in to give up a run-scoring double to Buddy Bell and another run scored on an infield out.

Charlie Spikes and Chris Chambliss started off the ninth with singles and Walt Williams flied out. Darold Knowles came in for the A's, Ron Lolich got his hit and Torres homered.

Improbable Holds Yacht Race Lead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The dreaded "Pacific High," a wandering mass of calm air which has slowed the Transpacific Yacht Race to a near crawl in the past few days, was expected to move to the East and give the 60-yacht fleet some stronger winds today.

The fastest of the slow, according to the corrected time standings, was still Improbable, owned and skippered by David W. Allen of Belvedere and representing the San Francisco Yacht Club there.

Improbable, a 42-foot sloop, also was the Class B leader. Another Marin boat, Tenacity, relinquished its lead in Class C to Bluestreak. Tenancity is onwed and skippered by Rolfe Croker of Belvedere and races out of the St. Francis Yacht Club of San Francisco.

After the second straight day of glassy seas and winds of six knots Tuesday, favored windward passage had lengthened her lead over second-place Ragtime to 30 miles. Windward Passage, a 73-foot skippered by Mark Johnson, has 1,128 miles to go in the finish line at Diamond Head in Honolulu.

Race officials were hoping for 20-knot winds today as the yachts began their seventh day at sea since departing on the 2,225-mile voyage from Los Angeles Harbor on the Fourth of July.

Blackfin was in the third position behind Ragtime, while fast moving Odine climbed into fourth place by averaging 9.1 knots Tuesday.

3 To Be Arraigned In Horse Race Fix

MONTEBELLO, Calif. (UPI) — A jockey, a part-time horse trainer and another man were to be arraigned on grand theft charges Thursday after their alleged plot to fix a Hollywood Park horse race by using powerful drugs and an electronic whip backfired.

Police arrested jockey Manuel Bravo, 34; Henry Valera, 33, the trainer; and Ronald R. Jordan, 37, after they allegedly tried to get a Montebello businessman to buy into the deal Tuesday.

The district attorney's office said Jordan called Edward St. Helaire and told him of a plan to inject an unidentified horse with a powerful stimulant prior to a Hollywood race today. Jordan said the jockey, also unidentified, would carry an electronic whip to shock the animal during the race.

St. Helaire was to pay $2,000 for the information, and would be told which race was involved 45 minutes before post time, the district attorney's office reported.

"Traditionally, this kind of story has been a swindle, rather than a real attempt to change the outcome of a race," said district attorney Joseph P. Busch. "The victim knows he's been had, but can't go to the police because he's had a part in an illegal transaction."

Bravo is a licensed jockey in the state, but is not registered to ride at Hollywood Park, Busch said. He added that the state horse racing board will conduct an investigation into the plot.

Auto Rallye Set In Petaluma

The Marin Rallye Association will sponsor the second in a series of rallyes Saturday, starting at the Petaluma Plaza Shopping Center between 6 and 9 p.m.

The "Lucky 13 Strikes Again" is a navigational-gimmick car rallye, with first timers competing against first-timers only. Speed is not involved.

Only things needed to participate are a flashlight, a pen, a friend to act as a navigator and a car. The cost is $3.50 per car with a 50-cent discount to Association members.

Billie Jean King To Play Riggs For $100,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three time Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King, returning in triumph from London, will meet 55-year-old Bobby Riggs in a $100,000 winner-take-all tennis match, it was announced today.

The match has been arranged by Jerry Perenchio, the man who was behind the most succcessful heavyweight fight in history, the meeting of Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier.

Perenchio said the date and site for the man vs. woman battle would be announced shortly, but insisted that it will be held in the United States despite offers from overseas.

Riggs, who destroyed Margaret Court on May 13 in a nationally televised match, had originally challenged Billie Jean, but she declined because of the conditions Riggs wanted at that time.

After Mrs. Court had been all but humiliated, Billie Jean said she knew she could do better and negotiations began at that time.

Beliveau Turns Down $1 Million

MONTREAL (UPI) — Former hockey great Jean Beliveau has rejected a get-rich-quick offer from the World Hockey Association and opted for long-term security with the National Hockey League.

The former captain of the NHL Montreal Canadiens reportedly had been offered a $1 million contract by the WHA Quebec Nordiques to play for the club for a year then join the organization as an executive.

"I appreciate the generous offer," Beliveau said Tuesday.

He added, however, "I am happy in my association with the Canadien hockey club and the National Hockey league and I believe there is an excellent future for me with the Canadien organization."

FOR ALL-STAR

Giants Are Victims Of Reuschel's Bid

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Young Rick Reuschel of the Chicago Cubs had planned on a three day vacation later this month. Now it looks as though he might be working in the All-Star game in Kansas City.

The 24-year-old Reuschel improved his chances of being picked for the National League team by beating the San Francisco Giants 4-2 Tuesday night for his 10th victory.

"Sure, it upset me," Reuschel said, "but I knew I still had nine innings to go and couldn't let it bother me too much."

Manager Whitey Lockman of the Cubs said Reuschel is "a natural born pitcher. He has good presence on the mound and good control. That's something you can't teach a pitcher. He either has it or he doesn't."

"He challenges the hitters," Lockman said. "He doesn't let things bother him."

Giants' pitcher Ron Bryant had only one bad inning but that was a nightmare. He gave up four walks and two hits in the sixth inning when the Cubs scored all their runs.

Stanton's Talkative Bat Produces Three Homers

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Lee Stanton became the second player in the league to do it this season when he clouted three against the Baltimore Orioles to give the California Angels a 10-8 victory in 10 innings and he seemed so stunned by his feat that he said, "I don't know what to say."

The first player to do it this season was Cleveland's moody George Hendrick, who refused to talk to reporters about it and said, "I have nothing to say."

Stanton, a throw-in when General Manager Harry Dalton—who left Baltimore for California two years ago—traded Jim Fregosi to the New York Mets for Nolan Ryan and three players, was quite willing to talk about it but he seemed so surprised that he didn't know how to describe it.

Since Stanton had hit only one homer all year going into the game, it's easy to see wy he was surprised.

One thing Stanton seems to be able to do is hit the Orioles. Despite his .248 average, he's 6-for-14 in five games against them with two doubles, a single and three homers.

Stanton had just six RBIs all season coming into the game but he drove in five more runs in the game to boost his total to 11. He wound up 4-for-5 in the game as he also collected a single. Two of the homers and a single were off Jim Palmer and the two-run blast that won the game in the 10th inning was a shot off Eddie Watt.

In other American League action, Boston downed Minnesota 2-1, Chicago edged New York 2-1, Detroit nipped Texas 5-4, Kansas City topped Milwaukee 5-3 and Cleveland defeated Oakland 7-5.

Luis Tiant pitched a two-hitter to give Boston the victory over Minnesota that moved the Red Sox three percentage points ahead of New York in first place in the East. Joe Lis' second inning double and Rod Carew's ninth inning single were the only hits off Tiant.

Buddy Bradford, called up from the minor leagues only nine days ago, scored the first run in the fourth and batted in the deciding run in the fifth to lead Chicago over the Yankees.

Lou Piniella and Ed Kirkpatrick combined for five RBIs and Steve Busby tied the Royals' club record by striking out 13 as Kansas City beat the Brewers. Piniella drove in three runs with a homer and a single while Kirkpatrick doubled in two runs.

Matlack Isn't The Same

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Matlack, the Rookie of the Year in the National League last season when he compiled a 15-10 record, was struggling along with a 2-4 record and only two complete games on May 8 when he was struck in the head by a line drive off the bat of Atlanta's Marty Perez and suffered a hairline fracture of the skull.

Although he missed only 11 days because of the injury, it took him almost a month to regain his strength. Since June 9, however, Matlack has been pitching even better than he did last year with five victories in his last seven decisions, including four complete games.

His strongest pitching performance in his brief major league career came Tuesday night at Shea Stadium when he tossed a one-hitter to lead the Mets to a 1-0 victory over the Houston Astros.

Matlack retired the first 15 batters in order before Tommy Helms spoiled the dream with a low line drive which hit just inches inside the left field foul line about 20 feet behind third base and went into the corner for a double.

In other National League games, Atlanta topped Philadelphia 4-2, Cincinnati beat Montreal 6-2, Pittsburgh edged San Diego 4-3, Chicago beat San Francisco 4-2 and St. Louis nipped Los Angeles 5-4.

Johnny Bench knocked in two runs, one of them with his 17th homer, to pace the Reds over the Expos. Ross Grimsley went seven innings to gain his eighth victory. Ken Singleton had his 12th homer for Montreal.

Willie Stargell's run-scoring double capped a three-run rally in the seventh inning that gave the Pirates their triumph over the Padres.

Doubles by Jose Cruz and Lou Brock highlighted a three-run seventh inning that sparked the Cardinals to victory over the Dodgers.

Secretariat Denied Preakness Record

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

BALTIMORE — Trainer Lucien Laurin was polite but his downcast eyes and frown indicated his displeasure that Secretariat was not given the record in the 1973 Preakness, a mark that would have given the super horse a clean sweep of speed clockings on his way to the Triple Crown.

The Maryland Racing Commission conceded Tuesday that the Meadow Stables colt "might have run the Preakness somewhat faster than record holder Canonero II."

But the five-member commission refused to change Secretariat's official time of 1:54 2-5, saying it "is bound by its rules and regulations which provide that the official time of any race is that which is clocked by the official timer."

General

Boxing

CINCINNATI — John Henry Lamar, 37, of Cincinnati, was charged with first-degree murder in the Tuesday street slaying of Wallace (Bud) Smith, 44-year-old former world lightweight champion who never won another fight after losing his crown in 1956.

Smith was shot to death when he tried to be the peacemaker between a man and woman arguing on the street.

HARTFORD, Conn. — Ex-boxing star Willie Pep has tossed in the towel in his bid to become a boxing referee in Connecticut.

Bowling

Track-Field

MUNICH, Germany — West German organizers bowed to American protests today and agreed to let a non-scoring third United States runner participate in the middle and long-distance races of the three-nation field and track meet which opened tonight.

Collins Buick Wins In Softball League

Dirk Gansloser hit two singles and a double and scored three times last night as Don Collins Buick defeated Charcoal Pit, 10-5, in a San Rafael Recreation Department adult "C" league softball game at Albert Field.

In other games, Wesco Cabinets beat Valley Realty on a three-hitter by Bill Hart, 4-0; and Apache Signs defeated Holiday Magic, score unavailable.

MINOR LEAGUES

Parnow Changes Teams

If any more proof is needed that minor-league baseball is a mysterious and unfathomable game, consider the case of Mike Parnow, who hit .424 in one league, was transferred to a lower league, and is glad.

Parnow, an infielder from Fairfax in his second year of pro ball, began the 1973 season last week for Bellingham, Wash., in the Class A Northwest League, where his bat scorched the cool air for a .424 average.

This week, Player Periscope statistical service of Novato tracked him down in Ogden, Utah, where he hit .273 against Pioneer League rookie competition.

"It's not like he was being sent back down," explained his mother, Mary. "Ogden had a bonus-baby second baseman who had been on their roster for two years, and apparently there's a rule that said he couldn't stay there longer, so he went to Bellingham and Mike went to Ogden."

Ordinarily a second-baseman, Parnow was playing right field for Bellingham, but got a chance to return to his normal position in Ogden. "His spirits are good," his mother went on.

While Parnow was being moved to another town, Novato's John Dolinsek was hitting in another world, as he sprayed 14 singles and a pair of doubles in 42 times up for Denver in the Class AAA American Association. The .381 week brought his season's average up to its customary neighborhood at .309.

Kentfield's Tom Olson, who recently signed with the New York Mets off the College of Marin campus, made his professional debut with Marion, Va., of the Appalachian (rookie) League and produced two singies in 11 .182 average.

Novato's Tom Thomas suffered through a one-for-17 week and saw his average slide down to .300 for Salem, Va., in the Class A Carolina League, a Pittsburgh Pirate farm.

Clifford Hall of Marin City batted .263 for the week (five for 19) and lifted his season average a bit to .256 for the Chicago Cubs' farm in the Class A Midwest League. He had a home run and two doubles and drove in four runs.

Russ Dillon of Novato evened his season record at 3-3 for Savannah, Ga., in the Class AA Southern League by hurling a five-inning stint in which he struck out six, walked three and allowed two hits. His earned run average for the Atlanta Braves farm team is 5.48.

Relief pitcher Dewey Forry of San Rafael made three appearances for Bakersfield in the Class A California League, pitching three innings and earning no decisions. He is 7-3 with a 3.43 ERA for the Los Angeles Dodgers' farm.

SONOMA — Novato American defeated Redwood Empire Northern of Healdsburg, 14-4, yesterday in the opening game of the Babe Ruth District 9 Tournament at Arnold Field in Sonoma.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Stanton's Talkative Bat Produces Three Homers

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

There's something about hitting three homers in one game that is leaving American Leaguers speechless this year.

Lee Stanton became the second player in the league to do it this season when he clouted three against the Baltimore Orioles to give the California Angels a 10-8 victory in 10 innings and he seemed so stunned by his feat that he said, "I don't know what to say."

The first player to do it this season was Cleveland's moody George Hendrick, who refused to talk to reporters about it and said, "I have nothing to say."

Stanton, a throw-in when General Manager Harry Dalton—who left Baltimore for California two years ago—traded Jim Fregosi to the New York Mets for Nolan Ryan and three players, was quite willing to talk about it but he seemed so surprised that he didn't know how to describe it.

Since Stanton had hit only one homer all year going into the game, it's easy to see wy he was surprised.

"Well, it just felt good, that's all," he said, "what I'm trying to do is get myself in a groove. Everything just felt right tonight."

One thing Stanton seems to be able to do is hit the Orioles. Despite his .248 average, he's 6-for-14 in five games against them with two doubles, a single and three homers.

Stanton had just six RBIs all season coming into the game but he drove in five more runs in the game to boost his total to 11. He wound up 4-for-5 in the game as he also collected a single. Two of the homers and a single were off Jim Palmer and the two-run blast that won the game in the 10th inning was a shot off Eddie Watt.

In other American League action, Boston downed Minnesota 2-1, Chicago edged New York 2-1, Detroit nipped Texas 5-4, Kansas City topped Milwaukee 5-3 and Cleveland defeated Oakland 7-5.

Luis Tiant pitched a two-hitter to give Boston the victory over Minnesota that moved the Red Sox three percentage points ahead of New York in first place in the East. Joe Lis' second inning double and Rod Carew's ninth inning single were the only hits off Tiant.

Buddy Bradford, called up from the minor leagues only nine days ago, scored the first run in the fourth and batted in the deciding run in the fifth to lead Chicago over the Yankees.

John Hiller earned his 21st save by choking off rallies in the seventh and ninth innings and Dick Sharon belted two home runs to give Detroit the victory over the Rangers. Sharon collected four hits.

Lou Piniella and Ed Kirkpatrick combined for five RBIs and Steve Busby tied the Royals' club record by striking out 13 as Kansas City beat the Brewers. Piniella drove in three runs with a homer and a single while Kirkpatrick doubled in two runs.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Matlack Isn't The Same

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It's a plain fact that Jon Matlack hasn't been the same pitcher since he got hit in the head with a line drive two months ago.

Everybody is now convinced the 23-year-old southpaw of the New York Mets is better than he ever was.

Matlack, the Rookie of the Year in the National League last season when he compiled a 15-10 record, was struggling along with a 2-4 record and only two complete games on May 8 when he was struck in the head by a line drive off the bat of Atlanta's Marty Perez and suffered a hairline fracture of the skull.

Although he missed only 11 days because of the injury, it took him almost a month to regain his strength. Since June 9, however, Matlack has been pitching even better than he did last year with five victories in his last seven decisions, including four complete games.

His strongest pitching performance in his brief major league career came Tuesday night at Shea Stadium when he tossed a one-hitter to lead the Mets to a 1-0 victory over the Houston Astros.

Matlack retired the first 15 batters in order before Tommy Helms spoiled the dream with a low line drive which hit just inches inside the left field foul line about 20 feet behind third base and went into the corner for a double.

In other National League games, Atlanta topped Philadelphia 4-2, Cincinnati beat Montreal 6-2, Pittsburgh edged San Diego 4-3, Chicago beat San Francisco 4-2 and St. Louis nipped Los Angeles 5-4.

Johnny Bench knocked in two runs, one of them with his 17th homer, to pace the Reds over the Expos. Ross Grimsley went seven innings to gain his eighth victory. Ken Singleton had his 12th homer for Montreal.

Willie Stargell's run-scoring double capped a three-run rally in the seventh inning that gave the Pirates their triumph over the Padres.

Doubles by Jose Cruz and Lou Brock highlighted a three-run seventh inning that sparked the Cardinals to victory over the Dodgers.

The Louie sisters of San Francisco scored two out of three yesterday. Top-seed Marna defeated Carolyn Ishii of Sacramento in Girls 18, 6-4, 6-3, and top-seed Mareen whipped Anne Renfrew of Palo Alto, 6-1, 6-0 in Girls 14. Marisa Louie lost to second-seed Debbie Cator in Girls 18, 6-3, 6-3, but is still competing in Girls 16.

Secretariat Denied Preakness Record

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

BALTIMORE — Trainer Lucien Laurin was polite but his downcast eyes and frown indicated his displeasure that Secretariat was not given the record in the 1973 Preakness, a mark that would have given the super horse a clean sweep of speed clockings on his way to the Triple Crown.

The Maryland Racing Commission conceded Tuesday that the Meadow Stables colt "might have run the Preakness somewhat faster than record holder Canonero II."

But the five-member commission refused to change Secretariat's official time of 1:54 2-5, saying it "is bound by its rules and regulations which provide that the official time of any race is that which is clocked by the official timer."

General

Boxing

CINCINNATI — John Henry Lamar, 37, of Cincinnati, was charged with first-degree murder in the Tuesday street slaying of Wallace (Bud) Smith, 44-year-old former world lightweight champion who never won another fight after losing his crown in 1956.

Smith was shot to death when he tried to be the peacemaker between a man and woman arguing on the street.

HARTFORD, Conn. — Ex-boxing star Willie Pep has tossed in the towel in his bid to become a boxing referee in Connecticut.

Pep said Tuesday night the publicity generated by the Connecticut Consumer Protection Department's reluctance to grant him a license prompted his decision.

Bowling

Track-Field

MUNICH, Germany — West German organizers bowed to American protests today and agreed to let a non-scoring third United States runner participate in the middle and long-distance races of the three-nation field and track meet which opened tonight.

Collins Buick Wins In Softball League

Dirk Gansloser hit two singles and a double and scored three times last night as Don Collins Buick defeated Charcoal Pit, 10-5, in a San Rafael Recreation Department adult "C" league softball game at Albert Field.

In other games, Wesco Cabinets beat Valley Realty on a three-hitter by Bill Hart, 4-0; and Apache Signs defeated Holiday Magic, score unavailable.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

The Thunderstorm Danger In Boating

You won't get much of an argument from anybody that weather plays a very big part in the enjoyment of boating. But something more important is that weather is one of the major considerations in the safety of boating, and one feature of it that transcends all others in danger is the thunderstorm.

Meteorologists have estimated that there are between 1,800 and 5,000 thunderstorms occurring over the earth's surface at any given moment. A lot of them occur over the North American continent, and whenever you are in a boat and see one forming, try to avoid it all all costs.

Usually a thunderstorm can be observed while it's forming, and when it does occur the danger is fairly well localized. So it is possible to avoid them.

The small transistor radio which has become very popular as necessary gear on a boat has quite unintentionally become a good safety device.

People who would otherwise be quite oblivious to the obvious signs of a summer thunderstorm building up, become conscious of it by hearing of it on the radio.

The fact that many boatmen worry quite a bit about the weather is shown in some of the questions I've been asked already this summer.

Q. I've never heard of anyone being killed by lightning in a small boat. Is there a danger?

A. The danger is not great. In the 20 years I've been interested in boating statistics, I've seen four cases of death recorded. Wind and waves are infinitely more dangerous.

Q. What's the best thing to do when you are caught out in a storm?

A. Keep your engine or outboard going and head the boat into the wind and waves as slowly as possible. Wait it out, rather than trying to buck it and make for shore. If your power plant quits, and the winds are violent, get everybody to lie down in the boat. Keep the center of gravity as low as possible.

Q. Is there a method of keeping rain out of your boat?

A. If you are caught out in a thunderstorm that is accompanied by violent winds, don't worry about the rain. It's not likely to swamp your boat if you have your bailer handy. In fact, the rain tends to quiet the waters. However, don't forget a bailer.

Q. We were towed by a Coast Guard craft which used a very heavy line. An officer tied it to our light mooring line with a complicated knot which is called a towing bend. Can you describe it?

A. A line-towing bend is a very useful knot when you have to "bend" a thin rope to a thick one.

Maternity Wards Merger Proposed

A proposal to consolidate maternity care in a single Marin County facility, was approved last night at a public hearing by a committee of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin.

The plan is among committee recommendations for inclusion in the health facilities and services plan at the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council.

The proposals call for consolidating services at Marin General Hospital, Novato General Hospital or Kaiser Foundation Hospital.

The committee said a hospital needs 2,000 deliveries a year to keep up with latest equipment and techniques. The three units combined do not reach that figure necessitating consolidation in one of the three or some other facility to provide the service, the committee said.

According to Joan M. Ripple, executive director of the council, about 1,000 babies a year are delivered at Marin General and 250 are delivered at Novato General. Kaiser Foundation Hospital will soon open a maternity section at its San Rafael facility and currently about 300 Marin mothers each year have their babies in Kaiser's San Francisco hospital.

The other recommendations reported involve procedures for reclassification of existing facilities, additions to such hospitals and the coordination of hospital emphasis with community needs.

Dr. John G. Wierdsma of Novato expressed the strongest opposition to the consolidation, saying that a monopoly on such services in Marin cannot be justified because of the distances involved in routing patients to one facility.

Wierdsma said his patients from the Novato area and Sonoma County would be handicapped by the need to seek care at one hospital.

Dr. Paul T. Hohe of Marin General Hospital countered saying the three Marin hospitals involved cannot operate at full efficiency without the minimum of 2,000 deliveries a year. Hohe said he did not care which hospital would be used but that the best possible care at the lowest possible expense necessitates the consolidation.

Don Bartsdale, the committee's chairman, said the committee's recommendation did not state which hospital should be used, only that consolidation is necessary.

Other recommendations as to services for the acutely ill and long-term nursing care were not questioned at the hearing, attended by about 35 persons.

Miss Ripple said the committee had anticipated a larger turnout and more vigorous opposition to the recommendations, especially the consolidation.

She said the recommendations would be forwarded as presented last night to the council's board of directors next Wednesday. If approved, they will be sent to the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council for inclusion in the areawide plan.

She said she anticipates approval by the regional board because they have already reviewed the unapproved draft form of the recommendations.

The final plan is intended for use by both the local and regional councils in exercising review authority in health services and promoting needed changes in health systems.

Maternity Wards Merger Proposed

A proposal to consolidate maternity care in a single Marin County facility, was approved last night at a public hearing by a committee of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin.

The plan is among committee recommendations for inclusion in the health facilities and services plan at the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council.

The proposals call for consolidating services at Marin General Hospital, Novato General Hospital or Kaiser Foundation Hospital.

The committee said a hospital needs 2,000 deliveries a year to keep up with latest equipment and techniques. The three units combined do not reach that figure necessitating consolidation in one of the three or some other facility to provide the service, the committee said.

According to Joan M. Ripple, executive director of the council, about 1,000 babies a year are delivered at Marin General and 250 are delivered at Novato General. Kaiser Foundation Hospital will soon open a maternity section at its San Rafael facility and currently about 300 Marin mothers each year have their babies in Kaiser's San Francisco hospital.

The other recommendations reported involve procedures for reclassification of existing facilities, additions to such hospitals and the coordination of hospital emphasis with community needs.

Dr. John G. Wierdsma of Novato expressed the strongest opposition to the consolidation, saying that a monopoly on such services in Marin cannot be justified because of the distances involved in routing patients to one facility.

Wierdsma said his patients from the Novato area and Sonoma County would be handicapped by the need to seek care at one hospital.

Dr. Paul T. Hohe of Marin General Hospital countered saying the three Marin hospitals involved cannot operate at full efficiency without the minimum of 2,000 deliveries a year. Hohe said he did not care which hospital would be used but that the best possible care at the lowest possible expense necessitates the consolidation.

Don Bartsdale, the committee's chairman, said the committee's recommendation did not state which hospital should be used, only that consolidation is necessary.

Other recommendations as to services for the acutely ill and long-term nursing care were not questioned at the hearing, attended by about 35 persons.

Miss Ripple said the committee had anticipated a larger turnout and more vigorous opposition to the recommendations, especially the consolidation.

She said the recommendations would be forwarded as presented last night to the council's board of directors next Wednesday. If approved, they will be sent to the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council for inclusion in the areawide plan.

She said she anticipates approval by the regional board because they have already reviewed the unapproved draft form of the recommendations.

The final plan is intended for use by both the local and regional councils in exercising review authority in health services and promoting needed changes in health systems.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Though Low Now, Future Brighter

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Six years ago I purchased shares of American Hospital Supply (NYSE), after the split. Why is it acting so poorly? What are the prospects for the company? — M.B.

A. Several developments may be cited as causes in the prolonged weakness in these shares. Reasons include: a slower rate of earnings growth in the last 3 years, the cutoff of federal funds for hospital construction, an increase in the floating supply of stock, an unfavorable product mix shift toward lower-margined items and finally price weakness for intravenous solutions. While much of this is now past history shares will probably show little bounce near term, particularly in the currently depressed market atmosphere.

For the long term, prospects appear to justify holding this issue. A restoration of AHS former growth rate seems indicated, stimulated by a strong demand both in domestic and foreign markets. A step-up in planned research-and-development expenditures in 1973 should continue to generate new products such as: Clini-Card, an automated blood chemistry system; Intropin, recently submitted for FDA approval, and Volex which has been cleared by the FDA.

Q. Are there corporate bonds paying 7.78 per cent interest maturing within 10 years which are relatively safe? We would like to earn more than the 5½ per cent bank rate. — T.S.

A. Two bonds which provide close to the yield you are seeking are: Commonwealth Edison 7¾s of 1976 selling slightly above par and J. E. Seagrams 7½s of 1976 trading just under par. The former is rated AA and yields 7.6 per cent, the latter rated A returns 7.5 per cent. A third issue Beneficial Corp. 9⅜s of 1978 rated AA is returning 9.0 per cent currently.

Stocks Up, Encouraged By Good Dollar Showing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investors, encouraged by recovery of the dollar abroad and indications the Nixon administration soon may lift the price freeze, moved stock prices higher in fairly active trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

The dollar recovery abroad, which began Monday, has sparked some stock buying enthusiasm on the market. Much of it, however, was based on speculation the U.S. government would step in to prop up the dollar, and there has been no evidence yet of such activity.

Also encouraging investors were reports today the Nixon administration soon will lift the price freeze.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Though Low Now, Future Brighter

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Six years ago I purchased shares of American Hospital Supply (NYSE), after the split. Why is it acting so poorly? What are the prospects for the company? — M.B.

A. Several developments may be cited as causes in the prolonged weakness in these shares. Reasons include: a slower rate of earnings growth in the last 3 years, the cutoff of federal funds for hospital construction, an increase in the floating supply of stock, an unfavorable product mix shift toward lower-margined items and finally price weakness for intravenous solutions. While much of this is now past history shares will probably show little bounce near term, particularly in the currently depressed market atmosphere.

For the long term, prospects appear to justify holding this issue. A restoration of AHS former growth rate seems indicated, stimulated by a strong demand both in domestic and foreign markets. A step-up in planned research-and-development expenditures in 1973 should continue to generate new products such as: Clini-Card, an automated blood chemistry system; Intropin, recently submitted for FDA approval, and Volex which has been cleared by the FDA.

Q. Are there corporate bonds paying 7.78 per cent interest maturing within 10 years which are relatively safe? We would like to earn more than the 5½ per cent bank rate. — T.S.

A. Two bonds which provide close to the yield you are seeking are: Commonwealth Edison 7¾s of 1976 selling slightly above par and J. E. Seagrams 7½s of 1976 trading just under par. The former is rated AA and yields 7.6 per cent, the latter rated A returns 7.5 per cent. A third issue Beneficial Corp. 9⅜s of 1978 rated AA is returning 9.0 per cent currently.

FREE LIFT FOR CHILDREN

Stocks Up, Encouraged By Good Dollar Showing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investors, encouraged by recovery of the dollar abroad and indications the Nixon administration soon may lift the price freeze, moved stock prices higher in fairly active trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

The dollar recovery abroad, which began Monday, has sparked some stock buying enthusiasm on the market. Much of it, however, was based on speculation the U.S. government would step in to prop up the dollar, and there has been no evidence yet of such activity.

Also encouraging investors were reports today the Nixon administration soon will lift the price freeze.

Wrong House Raids Cannot Be Condoned

News of mistaken narcotics raids by federal agents who broke into two homes in Collinsville, Illinois, only to find they had raided the wrong houses, was disturbing to say the least.

Even more alarming is the followup statement last week by the head of the now-defunct Office for Drug Abuse Law Enforcement that there is no way the government can guarantee it won't happen again.

Myles J. Ambrose, who headed the agency which conducted the mistaken raids, is quoted as saying: "I don't know how I can tell you that some knucklehead wouldn't go off half-cocked in the future, and for anybody to tell you that, he'd have to be a knucklehead himself."

THE FEDERAL AGENT is saying in effect: "Yep, we did barge into the wrong bedroom and rousted the wrong couple, but shucks, we've got a job to do. We'll probably hit wrong houses again in the future, but John Q. Public will just have to bear it because it's all in a day's work."

This is the type of mentality that engineered the Watergate breakin — the type of reasoning under which individual rights are trampled, privacies are invaded, and individual dignities are stomped upon, all in the name of noble purpose.

FORTUNATELY IN Marin, law enforcement agencies are not as calloused. While there have been instances of mistaken identities, local police officers and the courts are ever mindful of the Bill of Rights protecting persons and houses from unreasonable searches and seizures. The callousness and disregard of human sensitivities have not yet filtered down from the federal level to the state and local level. We trust that they never do.

The federal Office for Drug Abuse Law Enforcement headed by Ambrose and most other drug enforcement functions have been merged into the Drug Enforcement Administration. The Drug Enforcement Administration, like any large organization, is bound to have a few knuckleheads in its midst. However, there is no need to pick such knuckleheads to plan and execute actions that could violate the home and family of innocent, law abiding citizens.

IN THE WORDS of Sir Edward Coke, "The house of everyone is to him as his castle and fortress, as well for his defense against injury and violence as for his repose."

Dangerous Vibes

Science has long known that bats hunt by bouncing high frequency squaks off their prey and back to their large, sensitive ears. Some summer evenings one imagines he can hear them here in Marin, though in actuality the frequency is above the human hearing range.

Relatively recent research has shown the hearing organs of moths are sensitive to these ultra-sonic vibrations. Vibrations of these frequencies will cause moths at which they are directe to dodge about erratically or close their wings and fall to the ground. A few species of moths are thought to carry defensive measures one step further and to emit ultrasonic vibrations to "jam" the hunting bats' sound-radar system.

There Was No Need For Increase In Sales Tax

By RUS WALTON

The captains and the kings have departed Babylon but our sacrifices remain on their altar: A $9.4 billion budget and a 20 per cent increase in the state sales tax.

For almost a year those birds have known there would be a billion-dollar state surplus. There was no need for that increase in the sales tax. But come the final days of June and nothing was more important than their vacation plans. So up goes the sales tax and consumers must now shell out an extra $2 million a day.

The cost of living council says the "freeze" does not apply to an increase in taxes. See? What controls the people does not control government.

WHY IS IT politicians find a way to get together when it comes to a tax increase but stand miles apart when it comes to tax rebates?

Those fellas say they are hung up on the way to refund our taxes. Well, maybe so. But, the least they could have done was pass an emergency measure delaying the one-cent hike in the sales tax until well after they returned from their unearned vacations.

In fact, Governor Reagan should have yanked them back into special session until that job was done.

IN ALL OF Babylon, only nine of 112 legislators voted "No" on that $9.4 billion budget. What more proof do you need that a surplus is one of the very worst things that can happen to a politician? In either party?

Senator H. L. (Bill) Richardson, R-Arcadie, voted "No" on the budget. He says the state is already taking too much of the wate-earner's dough.

"It took California 100 years to reach its first billion-dollar budget. From then on it's been all downhill.

"The second billion came in 10 years. The third came in five years. Then it was another billion every two years, then one year — and now the budget's going up at the rate of a billion every eight months!"

BACK IN 1971, Gov. Reagan used the blue pencil to line-item veto $483 million of of $7.7 billion. This year his pencil shrank: Only $78 million of $9.4 billion. The bigger the budget, the smaller the blue pencil.

The Governor says the big reason for the 23 per cent budget jump over last year is a $500 million increase in state funds for local property tax relief.

There's a grain of truth there — but it's still a shell game. Even with increased state funds, local property taxes continue to go up.

'69-70	256	2.8
'70-1	317	3.1
'71-2	361	3.5

Both state refunds, and the local property taxes, come from the taxpayers. So, now we have bigger holes in both pockets.

Seven years ago state expenditures came to $248 per capita and Ronald Reagan was elected on a promise of "cut, squeeze and trim". Today, government costs $450 per capita. We're squeezed and our earnings are trimmed.

IN 10 YEARS the cost of Babylon has tripled. For the three fiscal years, 1961-64, the tab was $8.5 billion. For the three years, 1971-74, we'll shell out $24 billion all told.

This fiscal year Babylon and its outhouses will cost the average working man and woman about $1,100. That is almost $100 a month in taxes and levies of one kind or another.

What better reason do we need for putting a lid on state spending?

There Is No Reason For Forest Of Signs

As a citizen of the former village of Terra Linda, it is becoming a challenge to discover yet a new stop sign in the ever-sprouting forest of stop signs in our valley. I consider the stop sign on Freitas to be a hazard. We have already had several accidents there. Since this is on a street with a 35 mile limit, the sign appears at the end of a curve, a warning sign should be posted.

Since I come from Boston, and I have not found a reason for most of the new signs, I assume soneone's brother-in-law has the market on stop signs. If this is what we get for annexation forget it!!!

Profanity Not Used By Bobby Soxers

Does the phrase "four-letter words" mean profanity to you? That is this reader's interpretation at any rate and when the illustrious Mayor of this fair city comments publicly in an award ceremony address that he's glad to see that the girls' Bobby Soxers use the same four-letter words that are used in Little League.

I am incensed. I don't know which four letter words the Little League uses. I know only what that phrase suggests. I do know that having coached Bobby Soxers for three years, and having attended a good percentage of all their games, I have never heard profanity used. The organization prides itself on teaching the girls four basic fundamentals: citizenship, leadership, friendship and sportsmanship and in no way do four-letter words fit in this program.

Vote For Individual, Not Political Party

Beign a concerned citizen, I am eagerly awaiting the outcome of the Watergate mess.

Personally, I am a member of the Democratic Party and liberal. But, I wish to convey this fact to the readers: Republicans, as well as Democrats, are citizens and human. It is no doubt that this tragedy will hurt a lot of good people in the Republican Party who are now in, or will be pursuing public office. I believe, as Senator Weicker (Republican senator from Connecticut) does, that these people involved and the outrageous goings on do not represent the Republican Party, or for that matter, any political party founded on American principles. There are a lot of great people in these parties as well as others. Remember, these parties were founded by two men with great ideals, Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Jefferson.

Let the blame for the Watergate and its cover up fall where it may, but when we go to the polls, be sure to vote for the person who best reflects our individual ideals and beliefs, not just because they belong to the same political party as we do. If we don't know their beliefs, then we sould find out before we vote.

Also, remember that these people we elect represent us and it is our obligation to let them know our views in order for them to do the job we elect them to do.

Lincoln Also Faced Talk Of Impeachment

During the Civil War, President Lincoln was sharply denounced by members of his own Party (Republican) and many of the Democratic Party. During this time, the talk of impeachment began.

In March 1863, the Chicago Times printed items began by an anonymous Washington correspondent. He was joining with shadowy others who wished to impeach President Lincoln. Without giving a definite source of information, a shred of evidence or a slight clue — stating that the President was an outrageous criminal who should be punished by impeachment.

There was no doubt that President Lincoln had many enemies who for different reasons wanted him out of the White House.

The chief complaint was that he lacked ability and energy, and that he was not pushing the War with sufficient vigor. There was also talk of Mr. Lincoln's inability to conduct the affairs of the nation, even in time of peace.

Representative George Washington Julian set the frame and laid the scene for the possible impeachment of Lincoln in a speech of 10,000 words, reviewing the procession of mistakes of the Presidency.

Reports and gossip finally heaped specific accusations against Mrs. Lincoln. The information was that there was a connection with the Union disasters and the President's wife.

Two of Mrs. Lincoln's brothers fought in the Confederate army and were killed. The third was an officer and was wounded. They were the sons of her father's first wife. A full brother, "George Todd", a surgeon, was also in the Confederate Army. There was also Ben Helm, brother in law, a West Point graduate.

The talk of the Southern Woman spy in the White House persisted. The Senate members of the Committee on the Conduct of the War had a secret morning session in regards to an investigation of Mrs. Lincoln.

Without waiting to be called before the Senate Committee, the President appeared unannounced, standing solitary, his hat in his hand, and slowly spoke with deep sorrow in his voice — "I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, appear of my own volition before this committee of the Senate, to say that I, of my own knowledge, know that it is untrue that any of my family hold treasonable communications with the enemy."

Having attested this, he went away as silent and solitary as he had came.

Mr. Lincoln tried to ignore the talk of impeachment by his enemies. No definite steps were set up by the Senate. However, when Mrs. Lincoln's name became involved, he decided to stop this action at once.

Sen. Kennedy Clears The Decks For Presidential Bid in 1976

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward Kennedy is acting like a candidate, talking like a candidate and coming very near to admitting openly that he is a candidate for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

That's the practical, appropriate and straightforward thing for him to do.

HE MADE NO mistake in his willingness to go to Alabama to deliver the main address on the occasion honoring Gov. George Wallace as a symbol of the "spirit of America." He knew what he was doing — and did it.

The senator's action tactfully warned other possible Democratic aspirants that it might be well for them to stand aside until he decides definitely to take the plunge.

Aware that the task of getting elected would probably be greater than the task of getting nominated, he began to get the country accustomed to seeing him as a presidential personage.

FINALLY, AND MOST useful of all, he very carefully and deliberately launched the political repair job from which other Democrats have been shrinking — the job of trying to unite the dissident forces and dissident ideologies of the Democratic Party which were so badly sundered by the McGovern nomination and campaign last year.

Sen. Kennedy is setting out to produce a new Democratic majority — the kind of coalition which elected Democratic Presidents most of the time for the past 40 years. Despite the Republican albatross of Watergate, this will be essential if any Democrat, including Kennedy, is to win three years hence.

THE SENATOR CLEARLY knows what he is about. For the welfare of his own party and in the interests of his own presidential future, he is addressing himself to the right problem at the right time — and none too soon.

Just as Dwight Eisenhower and Richard Nixon succeeded in holding the Republican conservatives and the Republican liberals under their pacifying leadership, largely because they had no other place to go, Senator Kennedy is now setting out to do the same for the Democratic Party; that is, gather under one political tent the scattered dissidents — the New Left and the Southern right, the civil rights activists and the Wallace antisegregationists, big government advocates and the State's righters.

SEN. GEORGE McGovern once described his situation with this wry remark: "I opened the door at the Miami convention and most of the Democrats walked out." What really happened is that the New Left took over the convention and dominated both policy and procedure in a way which alienated party regulars, many Southern Democrats, labor leaders and big city politicians.

Sen. McGovern had a united party but they were very few in number.

Sen. Kennedy will never make that kind of mistake. If he can muster enough support, he will avert the developing effort by those who were dominant at Miami to turn the Democratic Party into an ideological arm of the New Left.

WHAT KENNEDY WANTS and what he spoke for in his Alabama speech in tribute to Gov. Wallace is a muting of the sharp issues which drove so many out of the party in 1972.

He wants to keep the support of the blacks without alienating the Wallace supporters. He wants his party to stand for law and order without alienating the more permissive liberals. He speaks for "State's rights," but does not want it used to deny equal rights to ethnic minorities. He wants lower taxes but he also wants the social programs which require high taxes.

OBVIOUSLY, IT IS uncertain whether he can moderate his stand and his party's stand sufficiently on these issues to unite those with such sharp ideological differences into a coalition which will hold together. It is certainly not immoral or un-American to try because American politics is consensus politics.

If Kennedy can make a solid beginning in that effort, he may have the 1976 nomination nearly in his grasp.

Nixon Energy Program Means More Stripping, Devastation

WASHINGTON — Each new Administration step into the muddled energy situation causes celebration in the board rooms of the country's big coal companies — and dejection in the hills of Appalachia and the even more extensive coal regions of the West.

Mr. Nixon not only has pointed the nation toward more and more strip mining of coal, he has opted for coal-conversion techniques which squeeze less energy out of each ton of coal, thus necessitating even more stripping to meet the same energy requirements. And now, beyond that, his Environmental Protection Agency has put the stripping operators themselves in charge of assessing imported mining procedures that might lessen the damage done.

IN APRIL, the President's long-awaited energy message outlined an approach to the threatened shortage that would concentrate first on the extractive, polluting industries — coal, gas and oil — and relax pollution restrictions to make their use more attractive to the companies.

Only years later, after the resulting destruction, would the nation turn to cleaner, more advanced forms like nuclear, thermonuclear, solar and geothermal energy.

THAT PLAN WAS criticized for, among other things, giving too little emphasis to research on new sources. So when Mr. Nixon issued his second long-awaited energy message last week, he called for greatly increased government funds for research.

The research spending commitment was itself a reversal of earlier policy and at first may have sounded like good news to Americans who can see beyond their air conditioners to the green hills that are being destroyed to keep them running. However, the added research, on which $10 billion is to be spent in the five years starting next July, is not to focus mainly on advanced sources that bypass extended strip mining. Precisely the contrary.

MAJOR EMPHASIS will go to experiments and demonstration plants for converting coal into an oil-like liquid fuel, and into industrial-quality gas. Either liquified or gasified, coal produces at least 8 per cent less energy than in its original solid form. Converting it into high-heat gas for home use will produce 19 per cent less.

Turning it around, simple arithmetic says those techniques will demand the ripping up of at least a tenth, at most a fourth more acres of American earth to produce a megawatt hour of electricity — this at a time when the outcry against rapacious strip mining is at a peak.

IN RESPONSE TO that outcry, federal officials and mining companies are at least going through the motions of interest in applying "longwall" mining procedures to recover strippable coal.

In longwall mining, powerful jacks are used to hold up a steel shield above the miners as mechanized rippers work across the coal vein. Then the jacks are removed and the tunnel subsides. In deep mining, this procedure is in use because it is safer. The professed hope is that it also will work to extract coal that lies close to the surface and normally would be mined by stripping away the hillside. Thus in theory the destruction, siltation and acid drainage would be decreased importantly.

ENVIRONMENTALISTS FEAR that building access roads and cutting the longwall entry into the earth would be almost as damaging as the usual stripping methods, but they are willing — even eager — to be shown that the technique will spare the coal-rich earth.

However, the EPA has awarded a $280,000 initial grant for a study of the longwall method — to the environmentalists, or to a university or other objective research outfit? No. To the West Virginia Surface Mining and Reclamation Assn., which is the strip-operators' outfit to end all strip-operators' outfits.

REP. KEN HECHLER and many other West Virginians are furious. "What credibility can anyone expect from those squarely responsible for ripping up the soil, forests and hills, and the polluters of our streams?" asked the crusading congressman. He added that "the incredible decision of EPA came just one week after EPA barred any contracts, grants or loans to any air polluters."

At this writing, the EPA seems to have realized its blunder and may appoint a broadly based panel to review the strip-operators' study. But that concession will not make the slightest waver in the Nixon Administration's long-term course toward more uses of more coal, which means more stripping and destruction of the land.

Without giving a definite source of information, a shred of evidence or a slight clue — stating that the President was an outrageous criminal who should be punished by impeachment.

There was no doubt that President Lincoln had many enemies who for different reasons wanted him out of the White House.

The chief complaint was that he lacked ability and energy, and that he was not pushing the War with sufficient vigor. There was also talk of Mr. Lincoln's inability to conduct the affairs of the nation, even in time of peace.

Representative George Washington Julian set the frame and laid the scene for the possible impeachment of Lincoln in a speech of 10,000 words, reviewing the procession of mistakes of the Presidency.

Reports and gossip finally heaped specific accusations against Mrs. Lincoln. The information was that there was a connection with the Union disasters and the President's wife.

Two of Mrs. Lincoln's brothers fought in the Confederate army and were killed. The third was an officer and was wounded. They were the sons of her father's first wife. A full brother, "George Todd", a surgeon, was also in the Confederate Army. There was also Ben Helm, brother in law, a West Point graduate.

The talk of the Southern Woman spy in the White House persisted. The Senate members of the Committee on the Conduct of the War had a secret morning session in regards to an investigation of Mrs. Lincoln.

Without waiting to be called before the Senate Committee, the President appeared unannounced, standing solitary, his hat in his hand, and slowly spoke with deep sorrow in his voice — "I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, appear of my own volition before this committee of the Senate, to say that I, of my own knowledge, know that it is untrue that any of my family hold treasonable communications with the enemy."

Having attested this, he went away as silent and solitary as he had came.

Mr. Lincoln tried to ignore the talk of impeachment by his enemies. No definite steps were set up by the Senate. However, when Mrs. Lincoln's name became involved, he decided to stop this action at once.

Sen. Kennedy Clears The Decks For Presidential Bid in 1976

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward Kennedy is acting like a candidate, talking like a candidate and coming very near to admitting openly that he is a candidate for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

That's the practical, appropriate and straightforward thing for him to do.

HE MADE NO mistake in his willingness to go to Alabama to deliver the main address on the occasion honoring Gov. George Wallace as a symbol of the "spirit of America." He knew what he was doing — and did it.

The senator's action tactfully warned other possible Democratic aspirants that it might be well for them to stand aside until he decides definitely to take the plunge.

Aware that the task of getting elected would probably be greater than the task of getting nominated, he began to get the country accustomed to seeing him as a presidential personage.

FINALLY, AND MOST useful of all, he very carefully and deliberately launched the political repair job from which other Democrats have been shrinking — the job of trying to unite the dissident forces and dissident ideologies of the Democratic Party which were so badly sundered by the McGovern nomination and campaign last year.

Sen. Kennedy is setting out to produce a new Democratic majority — the kind of coalition which elected Democratic Presidents most of the time for the past 40 years. Despite the Republican albatross of Watergate, this will be essential if any Democrat, including Kennedy, is to win three years hence.

THE SENATOR CLEARLY knows what he is about. For the welfare of his own party and in the interests of his own presidential future, he is addressing himself to the right problem at the right time — and none too soon.

Just as Dwight Eisenhower and Richard Nixon succeeded in holding the Republican conservatives and the Republican liberals under their pacifying leadership, largely because they had no other place to go, Senator Kennedy is now setting out to do the same for the Democratic Party; that is, gather under one political tent the scattered dissidents — the New Left and the Southern right, the civil rights activists and the Wallace antisegregationists, big government advocates and the State's righters.

SEN. GEORGE McGovern once described his situation with this wry remark: "I opened the door at the Miami convention and most of the Democrats walked out." What really happened is that the New Left took over the convention and dominated both policy and procedure in a way which alienated party regulars, many Southern Democrats, labor leaders and big city politicians.

Sen. McGovern had a united party but they were very few in number.

Sen. Kennedy will never make that kind of mistake. If he can muster enough support, he will avert the developing effort by those who were dominant at Miami to turn the Democratic Party into an ideological arm of the New Left.

WHAT KENNEDY WANTS and what he spoke for in his Alabama speech in tribute to Gov. Wallace is a muting of the sharp issues which drove so many out of the party in 1972.

He wants to keep the support of the blacks without alienating the Wallace supporters. He wants his party to stand for law and order without alienating the more permissive liberals. He speaks for "State's rights," but does not want it used to deny equal rights to ethnic minorities. He wants lower taxes but he also wants the social programs which require high taxes.

OBVIOUSLY, IT IS uncertain whether he can moderate his stand and his party's stand sufficiently on these issues to unite those with such sharp ideological differences into a coalition which will hold together. It is certainly not immoral or un-American to try because American politics is consensus politics.

If Kennedy can make a solid beginning in that effort, he may have the 1976 nomination nearly in his grasp.

Nixon Energy Program Means More Stripping, Devastation

WASHINGTON — Each new Administration step into the muddled energy situation causes celebration in the board rooms of the country's big coal companies — and dejection in the hills of Appalachia and the even more extensive coal regions of the West.

Mr. Nixon not only has pointed the nation toward more and more strip mining of coal, he has opted for coal-conversion techniques which squeeze less energy out of each ton of coal, thus necessitating even more stripping to meet the same energy requirements. And now, beyond that, his Environmental Protection Agency has put the stripping operators themselves in charge of assessing imported mining procedures that might lessen the damage done.

IN APRIL, the President's long-awaited energy message outlined an approach to the threatened shortage that would concentrate first on the extractive, polluting industries — coal, gas and oil — and relax pollution restrictions to make their use more attractive to the companies.

Only years later, after the resulting destruction, would the nation turn to cleaner, more advanced forms like nuclear, thermonuclear, solar and geothermal energy.

THAT PLAN WAS criticized for, among other things, giving too little emphasis to research on new sources. So when Mr. Nixon issued his second long-awaited energy message last week, he called for greatly increased government funds for research.

The research spending commitment was itself a reversal of earlier policy and at first may have sounded like good news to Americans who can see beyond their air conditioners to the green hills that are being destroyed to keep them running. However, the added research, on which $10 billion is to be spent in the five years starting next July, is not to focus mainly on advanced sources that bypass extended strip mining. Precisely the contrary.

MAJOR EMPHASIS will go to experiments and demonstration plants for converting coal into an oil-like liquid fuel, and into industrial-quality gas. Either liquified or gasified, coal produces at least 8 per cent less energy than in its original solid form. Converting it into high-heat gas for home use will produce 19 per cent less.

Turning it around, simple arithmetic says those techniques will demand the ripping up of at least a tenth, at most a fourth more acres of American earth to produce a megawatt hour of electricity — this at a time when the outcry against rapacious strip mining is at a peak.

IN RESPONSE TO that outcry, federal officials and mining companies are at least going through the motions of interest in applying "longwall" mining procedures to recover strippable coal.

In longwall mining, powerful jacks are used to hold up a steel shield above the miners as mechanized rippers work across the coal vein. Then the jacks are removed and the tunnel subsides. In deep mining, this procedure is in use because it is safer. The professed hope is that it also will work to extract coal that lies close to the surface and normally would be mined by stripping away the hillside. Thus in theory the destruction, siltation and acid drainage would be decreased importantly.

ENVIRONMENTALISTS FEAR that building access roads and cutting the longwall entry into the earth would be almost as damaging as the usual stripping methods, but they are willing — even eager — to be shown that the technique will spare the coal-rich earth.

However, the EPA has awarded a $280,000 initial grant for a study of the longwall method — to the environmentalists, or to a university or other objective research outfit? No. To the West Virginia Surface Mining and Reclamation Assn., which is the strip-operators' outfit to end all strip-operators' outfits.

REP. KEN HECHLER and many other West Virginians are furious. "What credibility can anyone expect from those squarely responsible for ripping up the soil, forests and hills, and the polluters of our streams?" asked the crusading congressman. He added that "the incredible decision of EPA came just one week after EPA barred any contracts, grants or loans to any air polluters."

At this writing, the EPA seems to have realized its blunder and may appoint a broadly based panel to review the strip-operators' study. But that concession will not make the slightest waver in the Nixon Administration's long-term course toward more uses of more coal, which means more stripping and destruction of the land.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Teacher Effectiveness Is Difficult To Assess

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

"You comment in an early June issue that Johnny not only can't read, but is not too good in math," wrote reader Jack Halliburton. "I have offered to help him in math. Due to lack of a teacher's credential no one will let me help Johnny in math. It seems entirely against the rules, unless I am a 'volunteer' and not only not paid, but expected to pay traveling and other expense.

OVER THE YEARS, the writer has received quite a few such letters. And the credential requirements for public school teachers have been repeatedly questioned, within the teaching profession as well as outside of it.

Allen Calvin, chairman of the board of Behavioral Research Laboratories of Palo Alto, is fond of pointing out that his brother Melvin, winner of the Nobel Prize in chemistry in 1961, would be barred from teaching that subject in California high schools for lack of a certificate.

In "The Miseducation of American Teachers," James D. Koerner wrote: "The stony and self-defeating inflexibility" characterizing administration of teacher licensing laws "has kept large numbers of able people out of teaching."

SOME REFORM in licensing of teachers in California has begun this year under the Ryan Act, passed in 1970 and modeled on proposals worked out by Koerner for the State of Massachusetts. It created the California Commission for Teacher Preparation and Licensing, with teacher representation, and moved emphasis from "methodology" to subject matter courses in teacher preparation. It also requires the would-be teacher to complete a prescribed course in reading instruction or pass an equivalent examination.

Further reform is sought in this year's Assembly Bill 724, by Assemblymen Mike D. Antonovich, R-Glendale, and Bill Lancaster, R-Covina. This calls on the licensing commission to prepare examinations for single-subject credentials in history and government, two fields in which the quality of instruction has been criticized.

NONE OF THIS, however, gets to another problem which reader Halliburton, who does private tutoring, cited in his letter.

"A teacher can be a bum one for years and no one seems to care," he wrote. "But a tutor goes to bat each time. A poor tutor does not get the same customer time and time again."

This gets to the heart of the problem. No matter how many college courses a person completes, no matter how many examinations he passes, his ability to teach can be proved only in his own classroom. And under present tenure laws, there is no way either to determine it or do anything about it.

ASSEMBLYMAN JOHN Stull, R-Encinitas, sought to do something about that with his bill which became the Stull-Rodda Act two years ago. As Stull wrote it, the bill called for biennial evaluation of a teacher's performance, with provision that he could be put on probation if it were found to be marginal.

The bill, however, did not specify how the teacher was to be evaluated nor by whom. Teacher unions, administrators and school boards are still arguing over that. Evaluation procedures in many districts have become so complex that they have required hiring extra people, and have taken much time of teachers and administrators away from the job of teaching school. Moreover, as the bill finally passed it made no provision for either firing a teacher or putting him on probation for poor evaluation; so the process becomes an expensive exercise in futility.

THE PROBLEM IS a complicated one. As it stands, a teacher can, as reader Halliburton put it, "be a bum one for years" — and whether anyone cares make little difference, for he continues to teach under his lifetime contract.

One suggestion that has been backed by local Leagues of Women Voters is for re-licensing every few years, with the teacher required to pass an examination each time to show he has kept up in his subjects. Even that, however, would not show how well he teaches them. Only the performance of his students shows that.

Cocaine Raid Trio Faces Tests Before Sentencing

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Marin County men and a Peninsula resident, who had pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to charges of possessing cocaine, have been ordered to submit to a 60-day medical and psychological study prior to final sentencing.

Frank J. Keicher, 21, of Sausalito; Stephen D. Moran, 21, of Palo Alto, and Louis J. Katzberg, 25, of Mill Valley are to return to Judge Lloyd H. Burke's court in September for sentencing.

The three were among eight persons arrested last December by federal agents in Sausalito and Burlingame after agents set up a deal to purchase cocaine.

A fugitive warrant has been issued for Thomas F. Steinberg, 23, of Sausalito, who failed to report in court May 14, and reportedly has left the country.

Novato Sewer Board Budget Tops Income

A proposed $469,190 operating budget for 1973-74, exceeding revenue estimates by about $79,000, was presented Monday night to the Novato Sanitary District Board.

Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph, noting state law limits the district tax rate to this year's 33 cents per $100 assessed valuation unless voters authorize a hike, said higher assessed valuation this year should increase property tax revenue to $313,000, up $24,784 from last year.

Since revenues will still fall short of proposed expenditures, the district can hold an election to increase the tax rate by 8.5 cents, Joseph said. But he recommended that the district instead transfer money from its capital improvement budget to cover the deficit, and next July start levying service charges of about $3 to $3.50 a month for single-family homes to recoup the money.

The budget, up $92,125 from last year, contains a 6 per cent across-the-board pay raise for employees and the hiring of two additional plant operators.

Joseph said the increases resulted mainly from the cost of operating the expanded treatment and sewage facilities approved by the voters in 1970.

The capital improvement budget, financed by connection charges, was tentatively set at $154,100, down $42,800 from last year.

Among the items is $28,000 for sewer relocation because of the Highway 101 bypass, and $28,000 for a Marin-Sonoma subregional study and additional infiltration study, he said.

The board set 6 p.m. July 30, at the sanitary district office for a public hearing on the budget.

The district board also approved plans for mains for 142 lots in San Marin Green unit 2, south of San Marin Drive and west of San Carlos Way, San Marin garden apartments of 245 apartments north of San Marin Drive and a short extension off Center Road for Richard Baraco.

It accepted the main extension on Indian Valley Road from Hill Road for the Paul Pickart development to Hill Junior High School and hired Dennis J. Welsh at $699 per month as maintenance man.

Stolen Property Charge Denied; Hearings Slated

A preliminary hearing for William Geoffrey Howard, 26, will be held July 17 in municipal court. His codefendant, Henry Garrison, 25, of Marin City, pleaded innocent Monday and his case was continued to July 16 for setting of a preliminary hearing date.

The two are accused of concealing property taken from a home on Rose Avenue in Mill Valley. No complaint was filed against a third man, Charles Alexander Bell, 25, of no known address, originally arrested in connection with the case.

A proposed $469,190 operating budget for 1973-74, exceeding revenue estimates by about $79,000, was presented Monday night to the Novato Sanitary District Board.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.
